All Is Now Quiet Along the

COLON FULL OF TROOPS

Isthmus of Panama LIBERALS BADLY BEATEN

Are Likely, However, to Resume Guerilla Warfare In the Mountains -Railroad Trains Are Running Under Protection of Armed Americans

Colon, Dec. 2.- The town is full of troops from Baranquilla. Over 700 soldiers have landed from the gunboat General Pinzon. These belong in the interior of Colombia and are able-bodied men and veteran troops, having taken part in many previous engagements. Among them are a few of the female relatives of the soldiers. General Alban has returned to Panama.

On Thursday, by cutting a passage TIRRELL through the woods, usadown to Barrera, who occupied a small hill at through the woods, unknown to Colonel Buena Vista, a detachment of the government forces attacked Barrera's troops in the rear. A cross-fire in both front and rear resulted in disaster to the attacked and the ultimate surlest in the Buena Vista engagement Captain Espinosa and several other Captain EEspinosa and several other

From Panama comes the news that the surrender of Colon to the government struck the Liberals like a thunderbolt and that they are still unable to realize the fact that the city is aga'n in the hands of the federal authorities. General Alban's Colon triumph, without the aid of the troops from the gunboat General Pinzon, is regarded here as an achievement that may possibly lead him to the highest honors in the service of the republic. He went from the station to the barracks under escort of a torchlight procession headed by a band. The restaurants were open until 10 o'clock in the evening for the first time in many months.

The recapture of Colon is admitted to be almost a death blow to the Liberal cause in this department. There is no doubt that guerilla warfare will be resumed in the mountains, but stronger forces and better organization are censidered essential requisites for the Liberals if they intend to resume the struggle seriously. Both Panama and Colon are quiet. Trains on the railroad still carry armed American guards and are running on time. The German man-of-war Stein has arrived at Colon.

The troops from the General Pinzon have been taken by train to various points along the line of the railroad, where many Liberals still remain, for the protection of the road. The government censorship has been resumed. Saturday and Sunday passed uneventfully at Colon and Panama. Both Liberals and Conservatices are gradually resuming their customary intercourse. There is no undue boasting on the part of the victors and there have been no disturbances.

Recent events, however, are the only topic of conversation. Many Liberals allege that all blame for the final turn of events is primarily due to Belisario Porras, who is also said to be responsible for the blow sustained by the Liberal cause last year. Duel to the Death

Halifax, Dec. 2.-In a fight between James Spicer and John Spicer in the lonely woods near Fishermen's Cove, John Spicer was shot dead. There were no witnesses to the tragedy. Both parties had disputes over land matters. It is supposed that they met in the woods and had an altercation over old scores and that John Spicer made at James with an axe. James then shot John dead. Constables are now scouring the woods for James Spicer. Both men have large families.

What Bonine Defense Will Claim Washington, Dec. 2.-The government has closed its case in the trial of Mrs. Bonine for the killing of James S. Ayres, and Attorney Keene made a preliminary statement in behalf of Mrs. Bonine. It was made evident from Mr. Keene's statement that the effort will be to show lack of motive for the crime on the part of Mrs. Bonine and to support her plea that Ayres was killed in a struggle after he had tried to intimidate her with a revolver.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION

in the City of Quincy will be held on

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3d, 1901.

The Polls will be open from 6 A. M. to 4 P. M. at the following places:

> WARD 1, Precinct 1-Council Chamber, City Hall Building.

WARD 1, Precinct 2-Council Chamber, City Hall Building. WARD 2, Precinct 1-Hose House, Washington Street.

WARD 2, Precinct 2-Building, Washington Street, opposite Mill WARD 3, Precinct 1-Doble's Hall,

Franklin Street. WARD 3, Precinct 2-Falconer's Hall, cor. Pleasant and Water Streets. WARD 4-Precinct 1-St. Mary's Hall, Willard Street.

WARD 4, Precinct 2-Hose House, Copeland Street. WARD 5-Hose House, Beale Street.

The citizens of Quincy now have an opportunity to secure a very efficient and capable man as their chief executive, in the person of Frederick L. Jones, nominated at the Republican Convention.

WARD 6-Music Hall, Newbury

Mr. Jones is not an office seeker, he is a man in whom his fellow citizens have confidence, as well as respect and esteem. He is a successful business man, careful, honest, conservative and progressive, experienced in city affairs and with an unblemished record. He is a man who will discharge the duties of the office of Mayor with credit to himself and the city.

He will appoint to public offices, men who will have the confidence and respect of the citizens, and those who will see that the city receives a full return for all expenditures.

Mr. Jones was a loyal supporter of the Government in its days of peril, having participated in twenty-six battles, and being wounded three times; he should receive the grateful return of the appreciation of his fellow citizens.

He is a leading representative of the largest industy in our city. He received the unanimous nomination of the Republican party in convention assembled and he is entitled to the earnest and undivided support of the Republican party.

Leaving aside the question of politics entirely, Mr. Jones is worthy and justly entitled to receive the hearty support of the citizens of Quincy.

We therefore, again earnestly urge the voters of this city to assist in the election of Mr. Jones, who will give our city a good, clean, business like administration.

Quincy Republican City Committee,

EDWARD E. JAMESON, President. JOHN McKNIGHT, Secretary.

Candidate Tirrell's Position Wins for Him Many Votes.

Mr. Editor:

I am glad to see that at least one of the candidates for Mayor is not so engrossed in the contemplation of his picture and his chances that he has no time or anything else. I refer to Mr. Tirrell's letter about the three-year term of the City Clerk. When a man engaged in the active management of a campaign finds time to consider other matters pertaining to the welfare of the city, it is a good sign that, if elected, he will exercise a watchful and

For these two reasons I prefer him to any of the other candidates and have decided to vote for him.

LICENSE QUESTION. To vote on the following, mark a Cross X in the body. he square at the right of YES or NO:-

"Shall license be granted for | YES the sale of intoxicating Liquors in this City" NO CITY CLERK QUESTION.

To vote on the following, mark a Cross X the square at the right of YES or No:-"Shall Chapter 332 of the Acts of the Legislature of the year 1901 requiring the appointment of a City Clerk for three years upon acceptance of said Act by a majority of the voters of the City be accepted?"

LAW MUST BE OBEYED Holders of Liquor Licenses at Providence Receive Fair Warning

Providence, Dec. 2.-It is probable that less liquor was sold in this city yestions for the City election, but the terday than on any Sunday for many years previous. All licenses for the sale of liquor expired at midnight Saturday, and none has yet been renewed by the newly appointed board of police commissioners.

> Pending in restigation of the applications already received, the saloon keepers holding licenses last year are allowed to continue business until their applications are granted or denied. The police were instructed to report all violations of the law and the officers were told that failure to report such violation would mean the dismissal of the policeman from the force. Such a report would also mean the denial of a license to the place reported. As a consequence the saloons were all closed yes-

Only three persons were arrested during the day for drunkenness. Places holding a tavern license were closed as tightly as saloons and although some liquor was undoubtedly sold in licensed places, it was done very quietly. The board will make a determined effort to stamp out kitchen barrooms and has already ordered one saloon, where the orders of a police captain to remove a plano were not at once obeyed, not to open until further orders.

A True Heroine

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 2.-Alphonsine Lebesque jumped from the third floor of a building during a fire early yesterday morning and may die. The accident came through her efforts to get others out of the house in safety. The fire was on the second floor of a threestory tenement house. Miss Leberrue twice ran from the third to the lower floors and aroused and helped other people to get out. On going upstairs for the third time to see if everybody had left, the smoke bewildered her and she jumped out of a window. She is ter Republican ribly hurt internally. The fire damage was $1200.

Drank Carbolic Acid

Boston, Dec. 2.-A well dressed man about 40 years of age was found by the police in the doorway on Knapp street last evening, who was suffering from Republican the effects of carbolic acid. He was takn to the city hospital, where he died soon after. There was nothing by which he could be identified, and even the names that had been upon his cloth-Mark Three | ing had carefully been cut off. All ap-Republican pearances indicated that the man belonged to the better class.

> Pitched From Doorway Leominster, Mass., Dec. 2.-In the by two men to pitch headlong from a doorway immediately at the bottom of a flight of stairs leading to a poolroom. It has not yet been fully established as to whether he was thrown down the stairs or accidentally fell down. An inquest will be held. Price of Milk Advanced Boston, Dec. 2.-The Milk Contractors' Association of Boston has voted to pay the farmers an increase of 4 cents a can over the present card rates for milk, and customers will consequently be obliged to pay an increase of 1 cent a quart. Farmers had already begun to dispose of their cattle. rather than winter them, and the supply of milk is already becoming short be cause of this fact. Advises Use of Warships Boston, Dec. 2.—The Post quotes Perley A. Stone, brother of Miss Stone, the abducted missionary, as saying in an interview: "Send warships instead of noney and the United States will secure the speedy release of my sister. The time has come for the United States to take a stand in this matter. The minute the United States tells Turkey it wants my sister, it is going to get her." Fifteen Victims of Gas

New Haven, Dec. 2.-Fifteen persons living in a large tenement house were made seriously sick by inhaling illuminating gas yesterday, and Mrs Agnes Gauld may die. The other suf ferers from the gas will recover. A leak Democratic in a street main, which allowed gas to enter a sewer in front of the house, was found to be the source of the trouble.

Armenian Church Dedicated Worcester, Mass., Dec. 2.-The Church of the Martyrs, the first Protestant Armenian church building in America was dedicated yesterday, and Rev. H. Democratic Social G. Benneyan was installed as its pastor. The church cost $9500. At the dedication Armenian clergymen from all over New England were present.

Harvard Athletics Paid Well. Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 2.-The state ment of receipts and expenses for the past year has just been presented to the Mark Three | Harvard athletic committee. The total receipts for the year were $117,317.27 total expenses, $78,238.91; total credit balance, $39,078.36.

Janitor Killed by Elevator Fitchburg, Mass., Dec. 2.-Leonard C. Brown, aged 65, was killed in the ele vator of the Safety Fund bank building last night. He had been janitor for two weeks. Just what led to the fatality is a matter of theory. Mrs. Brown found

Alleged Forger In Custody Boston, Dec. 2.-Upon a warrant charging forgery and uttering forged checks, Ernest D. Blackwe'l of New Bedford, 40 years old, was taken into custody here yesterday. There are two charges against him. Almost Ready For Jury Dover, Me., Dec. 2.-The Lambert murder trial is drawing to a close, the defense having rested Saturday afternoon, and it is expected that the case will go to the jury tomorrow.

friction between the builder and owner. Now the long record has been broken by the sensational removal of the latest product of the local yards-the fou:masted schooner Adelaide Barbourbecause of legal trouble between builders, owners and creditors. The craft was taken away Sunday and she is now in Long Island sound on the way o New York.

The Adelaide Barbour was con tracted for by New York and New Jersey men and the price was to b $50,000. W. S. Currier & Co. built her, but owing to building changes which occurred, the cost reached $65,000. The extra cost the builders attempted to have the owners assume, but they de-upon her by those who furnished material, the claim being that bills were not being paid. Liens of all sorts were filed. Deputy Sheriff Briggs had keepers on the vessel, and the owners are said to have tried to get the vessel away from him. But Mr. Briggs had given bonds for $30,000, and declined to release his hold.

Recently the owners opened direct negotiations with the people who had afternoon. There were thousands attachments on the vessel and got them to agree to accept bonds pending set edious, for they clung to their places tlement of their claims. The agreements were made on Saturday. Deputy asted 4½ hours, probably half the time | Sheriff Briggs withdrew his keepers

The first vote cast, was by the veteran fireman, Benjamin King, and was for Frederick L. Jones for Mayor and Nolicense. Mr. King has been a very active worker for Candidate Jones having made a house-to-house canvass. Candidate Bryant was at the polls in his own interests for an hour or two this morning, while President Jameson of the Republican City Committee and E. F. DeNormandie are active in the interests of Candidate Jones.

The indications are that Candidate Bryant will receive a good plurality in his home ward.

The election officers are: Messrs. Sherman, Chase, Nash, Olney, Twitchell and Deneen. Officers Ferguson and Connelly are on duty at the

At 12 o'clock 550 votes had been cast and at 1.10 o'clock 615. There is intense interest in Wollas ton over the result of the election.

WARD SX.

Voting was brisk at Atlantic this morning, and at 8 o'clock over 50 more votes had been cast than at the recent State election at the same hour. During the first hour 129 votes were cast, this number was increased to 236 at o'clock and 280 at 8.30 o'clock.

It is generally conceded that this ward will give Mr. Bryant a plurality, but the friends of Mr. Jones say that the ward will do even better for them than was anticipated considering the fact that many of the well-known Republican workers bave bolted their party. Mr. Turner, the Social Democratic candidate, will get a good vote in this ward, and this morning it was said that many of the Bryant Republicans would vote for him. Bryant's plurality in this ward is placed from 125 to 150, but from the fact that in ordinary years with no split the regular Republican majority hardly reaches this number, it is believed that the estimate can be shaved down consider-

Publicity a Remedy For Trusts-Faof Working Classes

Washington, Dec. 3.-President Rooseelt's message was sent to congress today. No president within the memory of the present generation has so freely discussed with all comers his purpose every delegation visiting the White House has carried back to its hotel, for distribution through the lobby, some statement of his on the subject of its errand.

The president opens his message to ongress with a eulogy to the public of Colon, have returned here from their and private character of the late Presilent McKinley and says:

"Anarchy is a crime against the whole uman race and all mankind should band against the anarchist. His crime should be made an offense against the law of nations, like piracy and that form of man stealing known as the slave rade, for it is far blacker infamy than either. It should be so declared by reaties among all civilized powers. Such treaties would give to the federal government the power of dealing with the crime.'

The message covers 15 newspaper dumns. Regarding the most imporant points the president favors:

A new department of conumerce, with ts presiding officer in the cabinet, deigned to relieve the treasury department of its bureau of navigation, bu eau of statistics, lifesaving and lightouse services, and other branches pertaining to shipping and trade between eparated points.

Burglars In a Church

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 3.-The French Canadian people of the city are greatly stirred up by burglar desecration at St. Anne's church. The church is in charge adopted by congress concerning the of dominican fathers from Paris. When to prepare for the daily service he found the floor strewn with sacred vestments and with wafers used in the communion service. A cabinet containing sacred vessels had been pried open and the vessels removed. Another cabinet had been opened and a small relic of St Anne had been removed. The church contained another relic of St. Anne which had become a shrine to which French Canadians from all parts of New England made regular journeys. It was enclosed in a glass case and laid in a gold box. This box was taken and fer of that company for the sale of the third article of the treaty Spain the relic with it, and the glass case was shattered. Contribution boxes containing offerings for the poor were broken into and the contents removed.

The five Counilmen at large are all Republicans, and so are the delegations of three elected in Wards One, Two, Three, Five and Six. The three Democrats all come from Ward Four, the West Quincy ward.

> Some of the Boston papers in commenting on the Quincy election, say the result is quite generally regarded as a rebuke to those who chose their candidate by lottery. But few believe was a lottery. It was not this, cerainly, that caused the Democrats to lesert their candidate and make ossible the election of Mr. Bryant. It was Mr. Bryant's personality that won, coupled with a very active campaign, which was led by prominent workers of both the old parties.

AGAINST LICENSE.

Quincy Records Its Largest "No" Vote and "No" Majority.

There are many encouraging things about the vote on the License question. The total number to vote on the License question was larger than ever, being 134 in excess of last year.

The "No" vote of 2512 was much larger than ever, being 299 ahead of taste: leaves no inky or metallic 1899 which was the record year, and flavor in the mouth, and has no 320 in excess of last year. The "Yes" vote of 1226 was smaller than for two Peptiron is especially beneficial years, being 186 smaller than last year. For the first time in 21 elections the 'No" majority was in excess of 1000, and it was considerable in excess, being 506 larger than last year, and 350

The "silent vote" too was smaller

At the first City election in 1888, the 'No" vote was over twice as large as the "Yes" vote, but not since then until this year, could it be said that the No" vote was twice as large.

The "No" vote of 2,512 is a majority of all the voters, who number less than 4,600. It would be a majority if there were 5,000 voters.

Again, every one of the ten precincts of the city voted against License. The figures by years since the Local-Option" law went into effect:

Williams Resurrects the Sampson-Schley Controversy

THE TRUTH OR FALSITY

Of Maclay's Statement and Allegations That Crowinshield and Sampson Read Proof Sheets Should Be Investigated by Congress, He Says

Washington, Dec. 4.-Representative Williams of Mississippi presented the following resolution yesterday in proposing a committee of inquiry: "Whereas, one E. S. Maclay has written a History of the Navy of the United States which was adopted for use at the naval academy at Annapolis; and,

"Whereas, in said history said E. S. Maclay denounces Rear Admiral Schley as a liar and coward; and, "Whereas, said Maclay is reported to have alleged that the proof sheets containing these charges were submitted to one Captain A. S. Crowninshield, chief of the bureau of navigation of the navy department, and approved and acquiesced in by him; and,

"Whereas, said Maclay is reported tohave alleged that the same proofs were submitted to Rear Admiral W. T. Sampson of the United States navy and approved and acquiesced in by him; and. "Whereas, said Maclay was, at the writing of said history and is now, in the employ of the navy department of the United States, notwithstanding the scurrilous character of the charges made by him in said history; and,

"Whereas, said facts disclose a state of things subversive of honorable conduct and consideration among officers of the navy and employes of the navy department: now, therefore, be it:

"Resolved, by the house of repres ntaives of the congress of the United States, that a committee be appointed by the speaker for the purpose of investigating and reporting to the house of representatives the truth or falsity of the said statements as made by said Maclay, the truth or falsity of the allegations that the proof sheets were submitted to and acquiesced in by said Captain Crowninshield and the said Rear Admiral Sampson, and to recommend to the house of representatives the course of action to be pursued by the house in consequence of the ascertainment of facts to be made by the said

ANTI-ANARCHIST DILLS

To Receive Consideration In the Senate

SEVERE PENALTIES NAMED

For Any Found to Be a Menace to the Government or Society In General-Lodge Offers a Bill to Provide Revenue For the Philippines

Washington, Dec. 5 .- Senator Mc-Comas introduced yesterday afternoon a bill covering the whole subject of disposing of anarchism, giving the federal courts jurisdiction of, and making punishable by death, any assault upon the president, vice president or person performing the duties of president, prescribing imprisonment for conspiracy to the same end; providing safeguards against the admission of anarchist immigrants, and instructing the executive to enter into negotiations for extradition treaties covering the class of crimes especially aimed at by the bill. Mr. McComas gives notice that he will speak on his bill at the next session of the sen-

Senator Burrows also introduced a oill "To provide for the exclusion and deportation of alien anarchists." The first section of the bill is as follows:

"That no alien anarchists shall here after be permitted to land at any port of the United States or be admitted into the United States; but this prohibition shall not be so construed as to apply to political refugees or political offenders ther than such anarchists."

The second section directs the special poard of inquiry authorized by the imnigration laws to make diligent invesigation concerning the antecedents of my alien seeking admission into the United States who is suspected of being an anarchist, authorizing the board to since construction was started. even go to the extent of examining the person of suspected aliens for marks in licative of membership in anarchistic

Section 3 provides for the return of persons to their native countries who have afterward been found to be anarchists. The fourth section provides that when any alien is convicted of crime in any United States court and it shall appear from the evidence that he is an anarchist the presiding judge shall diis satisfied that the convicted alien i an anarchist or that his remaining in this country will be a menace to the government or society in general. he may direct that in addition to other punishments adjudged, the convicted alien. after undergoing such punishments. shall be deported at the expense of the United States to the country from which he came and if he returns to the United States shall be punished by 'mprisonment at hard labor for a period not exceeding five years and afterward again deported.

Provision is made for the appointment of 12 immigration agents at a salary of $2500 each, to make investigations in foreign countries concerning intended immigrants. The sixth and last section of the bill provides that "The fact that an alien has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States shall constitute no bar to proceedings against him under this act."

A resolution introduced by Senator Vest directs the judiciary committee to nquire if congress has power to legisate for the punishment of anarchists vho assassinate or attempt to assassinate the President of the United States and if not, whether it is expedient to amend the federal constitution to enable congress so to legislate.

Senator Hoar introduced a bill for the protection of the President of the United States. It provides that anyone who shall kill the president or shall make an attempt upon the life of the president shall be punished by death. Any person who shall counsel or advise the killing of the president shall be imprisoned 20 years. Any person who shall aid the escape of any person concerned in the killing or counselling of the killing of the president shall be punished equally as an accomplice.

Senator Lodge introduced a bill to provide revenues for the Philippine islands. It provides that the tariff passed by the Philippine commission Sept. 17, 1901, and approved by the secretary of war, shall remain in full force and effect. This covers goods going into the

The second section of the bill provides for levying the same duty and tariff on goods coming into the United States from the Philippine islands that are now He was 18 years of age. His death was collected from foreign countries. Section 3 provides that until otherwise providing for the removal of the 10-years' limitation on the Uninese exclusion act, thus leaving the provisions cf the Geary act in force. That act, which was approved May 5, 1892, excluded the Chinese indefinitely, but the Scott act of Nov. 3, 1893, limited the exclusion Found Guilty of Murder In the to 10 years. In case there is no legislation in the meantime the 10-years' limit would expire next May.

CANTEENS ABOARD SHIP May Come With Abolition of the Bumboat Nuisance

Boston, Dec. 5.-Bumboats, the small boats used by the petty traders who follow our ships of war for the sake of supplying the jackles with food and various little luxuries, are likely to be abolished by the navy department at Washington. This news, received at the Charlestown navy yard, has caused a great deal of interest among the local naval officers. For a long time, they say, the traders have been a source of annoyance to the officers of the ships, after one of the longest criminal trials and all will welcome the end of the in the history of the state. The jury nuisance. Surgeon Ames of the battleship Massachusetts recently made a report on this matter to the surgeon general of the navy, and the forthcoming action by the department probably is a result. It is more than likely, too, that with the abolition of the bumboats will come the establishment of canteens aboard all of our warships.

In the past, ever since the white squadron first made its appearance on our coast-and it is the same everywhere -"bumboat women" have been one of the picturesque features of the ships' visits. These people buy on shore whatever is wanted by the jackies and then take the supplies out to the ship in a small boat. The articles are usually sold at exhorbitant prices. The sailors know the rates are high, but they can't get ashore, and have the goods they must, so they pay whatever is asked. Bumboat women are usually foreigners. Most of them are big, strong and healthy. and it is no uncommon sight to see one carrying on her back a barrel filled with

SLAYER OF ALLEN FAMILY

Showed Not the Slightest Emotion When Decision of the Jury Was Announced-Crime One of the Most Shocking Ever Committed In Maine

Dover, Me., Dec. 5 .- A verdict of murder in the first degree was returned yesterday against Henry Lambert, a young French Canadian guide and woodsman, was out less than two hours.

During the long trial Lambert had preserved an appearance of apparent composure and disinterestedness hardly to be expected of one in so grave a position, and the verdict was received by the prisoner without the least show of

In charging the jury Judge Strout spoke about an hour, and the jury re-tired at 3:45. Their report was made at 5:37. The court room was filled with spectators at the time, and when the words were pronounced by the foreman of the jury all eyes were directed toward the condemned murderer. But his appearance did not alter in the slightest degree, and he seemed one of the coolest men in the room. A fev minutes later he was led away to his cell in the county jail, and unless some preventive action is taken by his counsel he will probably be sentenced today. The crime for which Lambert was ecnvicted was a triple murder, one of the most shocking tragedies ever recorded n Maine. The victims were J. W

Allen, a prominent farmer and member of the board of selectmen of the town of Shirley; his wife, Mary S., and their daughter, Carrie L., aged 16. The murders were committed Sunday evening, May 12, and the murderer set fire to the rather bad position, and it is doubtful farm buildings in an effort to cover up In the trial the prosecution set up as Lambert was under suspicion from the first, but was not arrested until several days after the tragedy. Later he was indicted by the grand jury and a session of the supreme court called for Nov. an open door on the second floor of their 19 to try the case. One Reported to the City Council at the Meeting of Monday Evening.

The following is the text of the proposed ordinance establishing the office of Inspector of Building and defining his duties which was reported to the City Council this week, together with rules and regulations for the inspection and construction of buildings:

SECTION 1. The office of Inspector of Buildings is hereby established.

The Mayor shall annually, on or before the first Monday in February, appoint an Inspector of Buildings, who shall be an experienced architect, builder or a practical mechanic who has had experience in the construction or erection of buildings, and shall not be engaged in any other business or be interested in any contract for furnishing materials. He shall hold his office one year from the first Monday in February of the current year and until his successor is appointed. He shall be entitled to a seat with the City Council and have the same privileges and responsibilities as are set forth in Section 37 of the City Charter. He shall receive such compensation for his services as the City Council may, from time to time, determine.

SECTION 2. The Inspector of Buildings shall superintend under the direction of the Commissioner of Public Works, the construction of all buildings erected by the City, and the alterations and repairs upon-all City buildings, and see that the conditions of all contracts are faithfully carried out in accordance with the plans and specifications, if any.

SECTION 3. He shall examine all buildings in the course of erection alteration or repair, and ascertain if the ordinances of the City are being complied with, and he may require plans and specifications or a description of any proposed erection or altertion of any building to be submitted to him, and shall grant permits for such erection or alteration when the plans and specifications or description are in conformity with the City Ordinances and all other laws relating thereto.

SECTION 4. He shall keep a record of the business of his office, including all violations of the Ordinances relating to buildings, which record shall be open to public inspection as is provided in Section 39 of the City Charter, and shall file for reference all official correspondence received, and shall keep on file press, copies of all official correspondence issuing from his office, and he shall submit to the Mayor, on the first day of the municipal year a written report of his doings during the preceding year.

SECTION 5. Said Inspector, on being informed by report or otherwise, that a building or other structure or anything attached to or connected thereto is unsafe to life or limb shall inspect the same, and if it appears to him that it is thus dangerous he shall therewith take such action as the law of the Commonwealth or the Ordinances of the City require. He shall generally perform all such duties as may be required of him by law or ordinance.

SECTION 6. The Inspector shall examine all churches, halls, or other public buildings or structures used, or intended to be used, temporarily or permanently, for any public use, and all school houses or school rooms, public or private, and buildings used or intended to be used for manufacturing purposes, and if he finds that any of said buildings or rooms are deficient in proper facilities of egress, in case of fire or accident, either in numbers, width, construction or arrangement of the entrances, aisles, passageways, or stairways, or by reason of inner doors opening inward, or from other cause whatever, arising from the manner of construction, alteration, or repair of the premises, he shall at once notify the state inspector of factories and public buildings.

SECTION 7. Whenever it appears to the Inspector that, in any of the buildings or structures or portions thereof, mentioned in the foregoing section, the security of the public is temporarily endangered by the use of combustible stuff or materials; or that benches, chairs, stools, or other obstructions are temporarily placed in the aisles or passageways in such manner as to prevent free egress in case of fire or accident during the time when the same may be opened to the public; or that benches, chairs or settees are temporarily so arranged as not to afford proper egress in case of fire or accident; or that outer doors opening inward are not kept open when such buildings or structures are used by the public; then, and in either of said cases, the Inspector shall notify the person for the time being having charge of the premises, and require such person at once to make the premises safe, and if he refuses or neglects so to do, the Inspector shall remove the obstructions and may prosecute the offender.

SECTION 8. All outer doors of buildings and structures mentioned in Section six of this chapter shall be kept open when such buildings or structures are used by the public, unless such doors open outwards, and except that fly doors opening both ways may be kept closed. All inner doors of such buildings and structures shall be so made as to open outward, and said Inspector is hereby authorized to enter any of such buildings or structures at all reasonable hours for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not any of the provisions of this chapter are being violated.

SECTION 9. Whoever intends to erect, alter or repair any building or structure in this City, shall, seven days at least before he proceeds to erect, alter or repair such building or structure, give notice in writing of such intention to the Inspector of Buildings on forms furnished by him, specifying therein the dimensions, exact height, materials, location, and such other matters relating to the erection, alteration or repair of such building or structure required by said Inspector as may be necessary to show whether the same are in conformity with the ordinances of the City and the laws of the Commonwealth. No work, except ordinary repairs, shall be done upon any building, sructure, or wall, without a permit from the Inspector of Buildings, and no permit issued shall be in force for a longer time than one year from the date of the permit. No suc permit shall be given until said Inspector has carefully inspected the plans, specifications or descriptions thereof, and has ascertained that the means of ingress and egress are such as are required by such Ordinances and laws; and said Inspector may require such plans and specifications to be submitted to him before granting such permit. A copy of the plans and specifications of every City building hereafter erected shall be deposited in the office of the Inspector.

SECTION 10. The Inspector of Buildings shall see that all statutes, ordinances, orders, and regulations respecting the use or occupation of portions of streets or ways for the purpose of erecting, altering, repairing, or removing buildings are observed and enforced. Whoever desires to occupy or use a portion of a street or way for the erection, alteration, repair or removal of a building upon land abutting thereon shall make application to the Inspector of Buildings, who, subject to the consent of the Commissioner of Public Works, may grant permits, which shall be countersigned by the Commissioner of Public Works, for the occupation or use, for building purposes, of such portions of streets or ways, and for such periods of time and under such limitations and restrictions, as may be required by ordinance or by public convenience; and any such permit may be revoked by the said Comissioner of Public Works at any time when the holder thereof fails to comply with any rule or regulation under which it was granted, or when, in the opinion of said Commissioner of Public Works, the public good requires such revocation. No part of a street or way other than that so allotted shall be used for depositing materials for work to be done or for receiving rubbish arising from such work, and all such rubbish shall be carried away by the person or persons to whom the permit is granted, at such convenient times as the said Commissioner of Public Works or the said Inspector may direct; and in ease of neglect or refusal of such person or persons to remove such rubbish, it shall be removed at their expense by the Commissioner of Public Works.

When such permit is granted, the portion of a street thereby allotted shall be enclosed with a sufficient fence, not less than four feet high, and as much higher as the Inspector of Buildings shall direct, and such fence shall be maintained during the whole time for which the occupation of such portion of thg street continues, and until all liability to accident from falling material ceases, and a lighted lantern or lanterns, or other proper and sufficient lights, shall be attached to some part or parts of such fence, and shall be placed over or near all buildine materials or rubbish which of necessity are allowed to remain in any street or way over night; which lanterns or lights shall be kept lighted from sunset to sunrise every night that such fence, materials or rubbish remains in such street or way.

Whoever maliciously or wantonly, and without legal cause, extinguishes or diminishes a light fixed in accordance with the foregoing provisions shall be liable to a penalty of not less than ten nor more than twenty dollars.

Whoever is duly licensed or permitted to occupy a part of a street, while erecting or repairing a building, or making an excavation or for any other purpose, shall provide a safe and convenient passage for public travel around or over the obstruction so caused, shall be responsible to the eity for all injuries sustained in consequence of his neglect so to do, and shall be liable to a penalty of not less than ten or more than twenty dollars for each offence, and the Commissioner of Public Works may in his discretion, require a bond with sufficient surety or sureties to be approved by him, from such licensee, indemnifying the city from all loss, cost, damage or expense from any acts or omissions resulting in injury to person or property arising from the occupancy of a street under such permit; and said licensee shall at any time when requested by the Comissioner of Public Works or by a police officer, exhibit his license or permit for such occupation.

SECTION 11. The provisions of this ordinance shall not apply to buildings and structures owned or occupied by the United States or the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, nor to the construction of bridges, quays and wharves.

The rules reported make 24 pages of a book the size of the City Report, and may be published in the Daily Ledger in instalments.

Slabtown is laid out with no system. There is not a store in it, although there are more than 200 dwellings. But the new town which is now be ing built for the colored people has a good object in view. Already work has begun on it and will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. It will occupy a tract of land of about a thousely a tract of land of about a thousely a tract of land of about a thousely land to the land of la sand acres around Fort Lee, on the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, a few miles below Richmond. The surveyors who were employed to lay off the town have marked out a park, which is to be beautified articially in the winter and in the spring a pavilion and other improvements will be added. The first house will soon be begun and in a few ROOM TO LET, with board. house will soon be begun, and in a few months a flourishing village will have arisen where now there are only tim ber and undergrowth.

This movement was started about : Richmond, who has manifested a keen interest in the welfare and improve-ment of his race and has done much to his race and has ment of his race and has done much to elevate it both in a commercial and intellectual way. It was through him that a large industrial and training institution was established at Richmond in which negro women are taught to cook, act as trained nurses, keep house and follow other useful pursuits. Dr. Jones, assisted by several other negro citizens, purposes getting the village started and then turning the property over to the Women's League Training school, above referred to. The property will cost many thousands of dollars, and the leaders of the movement already have a large amount on hand to start the work.

Washington, Dec. 5.-The report of the sthmian canal commission was sent to congress yesterday. The commission the local banks shall be analagous to favors the Nicaragua route and makes | that of the federal government to the an estimate of $189,864,062 as the total cost of construction of the canal through Nicaragua. The estimated cost of the Panama route is $144,233,358, but, the report says, it would cost $109,141,000 to obtain the Panama concession. The commission values the work done at

The report says the Panama route is feasible as a sea level canal, while the Nicaragua route must be by locks, but Lake Nicaragua will furnish an inexhaustible supply of water for the canal. The Nicaragua route has no natural harbors at either end, but satisfactory harbors may be constructed. Harbors already exist at each end of the Panama canal route, but considerable work must be done at the entrance of the harbor on the Atlantic side.

With adequate force and plant the ommission estimates that the Nicaragua canal can be completed in six years, exclusive of two years for preparation. Ten years is estimated to complete the Panama canal. The total length of the Nicaragua route is 183.66 miles and the Panama route 49.09. The estimated ost of operating and maintaining the Nicaragua canal annually is $1,350,000 greater than that of the Panama canal. The estimated time for a deep-draught essel to pass through the Panama canal canal 33 hours.

The Nicaragua route, the report says, s more advantageous for commerce save that originating on the west coast of South America. For the gulf ports the advantage is two days, and for most of the ports on the Atlantic and Pacific sicians yesterday regarding bruises and one day. The Nicaragua route is said to be better for sailing vessels on account of favoring winds. Hygienic conditions also favor Nicaragua. The commis sion says the United States should acquire control of a strip of territory 10 niles wide, from sea to sea, through which to build the canal. The consent of Nicaragua and Costa Rica must be report says this can be easily secured The concessions granted by the Colombian government to the Panama Canal new concessions cannot be granted the

The report concludes as follows: "After considering all the facts deeral Bell has issued an order to the solveloped by the investigations made by company, this commission is of the opinion that the most practicable and feasible route for an isthmian canal, to be under the control, management and ownership of the United States, is that by the Decision on the Insular Cases -Dingley Rates May Be Fixed, With Some Concessions to Be Made Later

Washington, Dec. 4.-No decision has yet been reached as to the legislative program made necessary by Monday's insular decision. The ways and means committee may be appointed the last of this week in order that the house may go through the formality, at least, of originating revenue legislation. The senate finance committee, which regularly meets on Tuesday, did not meet yesterday and its members profess to be uncertain whether their committee or that on the Phil ppines will bandle the

In any event the senate will have to wait for the house and that body is waiting for the appointment of its com mittees. The distance of the Philformes and the long time consumed in noving freight from there serve to allay alarm over the possible dumping into our ports of an excess of duty-free goods from that quarter of the globe It is believed that congress will act before the news of Monday's decision can be taken advantage of by importers. A member of the senate finance con

mittee expressed an opinion that Dingley rates would be imposed, temporarily at least, on goods coming from the Phil ippines, by special enactment, and that the commission tariff which went into force Nov. 15 would_establish the barrier against imports into the Phil ppines from this and every other coun ry Ultimately, the same senator thought, we should make some concessions from Dingley rates to Philippine goods, but for the present, in the interest of s'mplicity and celerity, the full schedule would be adopted. Such a program, if adopted by party leaders, could be rushed through by the house, under its rules, without difficulty, but in the senate very great caution would be neces sary in order not to open the whole tariff controversy. To a surprising degree, members of both houses profess not to have read understandingly Monday's decisions of the court and to be awaiting careful analysis before making up their minds as to the legislative rogram.

Practically the entire cabinet session yesterday was occupied with the discussion of the supreme court decision in the Pepke case, and the rest of the official family had sport at the expense of the president and Secretary Root over their personal liabilities for unlawful expenditure of Philippine revenues. which must now, under the decision, be paid back to the importers. The treasury balance sheet for the Philippines has not yet been made up, but rough'y appears that the duties collected this country on goods imported from the archipelago will aggregate somewh re in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, while those collected at Manila on goods imported from the United States will fall somewhere between $16,000,000 and $18,000,000. It is upon the latter that all the drafts have thus far been made for the support of civil institutions in the Philippines. Nobody at the treasury will probably feel any serious regret over a decision which will make so handsome a reduction of its surplus. It is said at the war department that the decision of the supreme court in the insular cases does not call for any change in the existing tariff arrangements in the Philippines a d that it is not even deemed necessary to issue in structions to the civil governor of the islands on the subject as a consequence of the decision. Secretary Root has had several conferences with other officials in regard to the enactment of legislation necessary to meet existing conditions, but he says that as he has not yet received an official copy of the court's decision he is not able even to ind cate what steps should be taken. The secretary of the treasury has issued a telegraphic order to collectors of customs in the United States directing them to admit free of duty goods imported from the Philippine islands.

Movement Appears to Be Gaining Headway

MANY TASKS PROPOSED

To Put Into the Hands of New Cablnet Officer-Might Attend to Editing and Publication of Commercial Reports of Our Consuls

Washington, Dec. 6 .- The movement for a department of commerce is gaining headway, and its successful outcome may be reached during this winter's session. In deciding what bureaus are to go into the new department, congress will need to exercise very great care, as some of the bureaus which it is proposed to transfer are much better off where they are.

Material enough would be furnished for a new cabinet officer to manage were balf the tasks assigned to him that are now proposed. The suggestion that the consuls, since they report chiefly on commercial matters abroad, should be under the new department of commerce is of doubtful value; they have commercial duties, to be sure, but very large other interests. Their functions are often half diplomatic, and there is considerable interchange of services between the two branches. Moreover, a consul is accredited to a foreign country by our department of state, and to it any complaint would come from other nations as to his misbehavior,

It is suggested that the consuls might remain under the state department, but that their commercial reports be turned over bodily to the statistical division of the new department of commerce for editing and publication. Inquiries addressed to the consuls, originating in the department of commerce, could in the same way be forwarded through the state department. But it would be very unwise to strip the state department of its commercial aspects. So much of our treaties have to deal with commercial questions and trade relations that this branch of the state department's activity should be strengthened rather than weakened.

Commercial questions require expert knowledge and long training. Our system of rotation in the office of secretary of state and among the assistants rarely ties, and hence when it comes to drafting reciprocity treaties or any other commercial compacts our state department is more dependent on outside assistance than it should be.

The department of commerce will doubtless prevent a great many duplications of work, and that is one of the great advantages to be expected from its establishment. The project received a unanimous report in its favor from the committee last winter but the shortness of the session prevented action. Of course this will mean a new cabinet officer and a new building. It ought to help settle the vexed question of space in the treasury building by the withdrawal of enough bureaus to leave working room for the rest, although that department already hires outside quarters in many parts of the city.

GRAND JURY CALLED To Act Immediately on the Charges Against Jane Toppan

Barnstable, Mass., Dec. 6.-Without waiting for the usual proceedings of a formal hearing before the district court, at which the defense usually has an opportunity to be heard, the Barnstable county grand jury today will be asked to act upon the case of Miss Jane Toppan, who is in Barnstable jail charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary E. Gibbs of Cataumet.

The calling of the jury is an extraordinary occurrence, and has created considerable comment in this vicinity. The meeting of the jury will be of the star chamber nature, no one except the district attorney and the several witnesses called being allowed in the room. Chief Justice Mason will preside at the opening session, and after he retires District Attorney Holmes will lay before the jury what evidence against Miss Toppan he and the state officers nave accumulated in the last three months.

It is expected that the proceedings will occupy the greater portion of today, and it is generally believed that, with no evidence to combat that of the government, the grand jury will report a bill against Miss Toppan. should this be the case, there will be no necessity of the hearing arranged for next Wednesday, when the counset for Miss Toppan had hoped to learn something of the government case against his client.

London, Dec. 6.-The official state ment from Pretoria that the "constabulary line of posts betwee railways have been pushed out to Wilge river and Greylingstad" is a more definite indication of the policy which Lord Kitchener is taking for the ultimate pacification of the newly acquired colonies than has appeared recently in his official communications.

When Lord Kitchener took over the supreme command in South Africa he felt certain that the measures then in force, which entailed the garrisoning of various centres far removed from the railway, would not further the general pacification, while it might induce the Boers to make desperate attacks. The alternative scheme which commended Miss Toppan will, therefore, have to itself to him was, in the first place, to wait for the regular trial in the su- make his railway communications abperior court before she will know the solutely secure and then to steadily refull extent of the evidence against her. | claim the country by pushing out from Should a true bill be reported, it is the secured base furnished by the perexpected that the trial will take place | manent ways. In this we had the birth court, and present indications point to the system in vogue, and which has one of the most notable trials in the reached dimensions which are not readily realized in America.

Twelve months ago the blockhouse was practically unknown. The railway lines at important points were de fended by field works built by the troops, which, though quite adequate to protect the immediate vuluerable vicinity, left large stretches of railway open to attack. Major Rice, who had been in Ladysmith during the invest ment of that town, then invented the corrugated iron blockhouse. This form him. ### That Thanksgiving Game. Editor Ledger:

I desire to correct the statement made in your issue of Nov. 29, that Wollaston defeated Atlantic in their annual football game at Merry Mount. It is decidedly unfair to Atlantic to have such a report published.

As yet, it has not yet been decided authoratively that Wollaston is entitled to the five points it claims, and I doubt very much if they will be allowed by a of the New England Trotting-Horse competent man who may be chosen to

A prism, of course, breaks up the object photographed into parallel bands of color, which indicate the physical composition of the star or lightning flash, or whatever it may be, and which are seen in the photograph by differences in degree of black and white. The element of hydrogen, which is found in the spectra of nearly all stars and has been discovered through these photographs to be a part of the lightning as well, produces a series of well marked lines quite different from those made by the element of iron, for exam-

The hydrogen lines of the lightning flash, it may be noted, are very much like those shown by the spectra of "new" stars, like Nova Persei, to name the last one discovered. The spectrum of the star, however, shows these lines dark, proving the presence of a solid body, while the lines of the spectrum of lightning, which is simply a flash in the sky, are all bright. Another interesting point brought out by the Harvard photographs is that the hydrogen lines of a natural lightning flash correspond almost exactly with those of a little quarter of an inch flash produced artificially in a tube.

PAROLING PRISONERS

To Be Given Earnest Test In the Empire State

Has Shown Encouraging Results Thus Far-Criticism of the Indeterminate System as Practiced In the Bay

Boston, Dec. 6 .- Recent informaion from New York indicates that the parole law passed by the legislature of that state last spring is to be given an earnest trial. Already the first batch of the 68 prisoners so far selected have been set free. Connecticut also is preparing to test this enlightened method of reinstating prisoners in society.

The parole question will be an ex periment only in the sense of being untried in both states. In other places the judicious application of parole laws have shown most encouraging results. In Indiana, for instance, during the four years ending April 1, 1901, 833 men were released from the reformatory and 308 from the state prison on parole. Only 135 of the 833 and 21 out of the 308 have been returned on account of unsatisfactory conduct. Eleven others had not complied with the conditions of their release, but were not returned. While on probation these men earned $184,083 and in many instances bad received 3:35 their board besides. The figures are made doubly impressive by the fact that previous to imprisonment many of these men belonged to the non-producing nembers of society.

In Indiana, at least, the delicate and all-important problem of reinstating the orisoner in society is being met in the only right way. The parole system is cleared up yesterday when it was but the logical extension of the principle ound that he had died on July 21 in underlying the indeterminate sentence, namely, that imprisonment has its justi fication solely in the protection it af-This fact was revealed by a search of fords the community, and should termithe morgue records. The college nate the moment it becomes safe to allow the criminal at large. The old method of setting the prisoner adrift and letting him find a place in the world by himself on the day his definite term of imprisonment ends, without inquiry into his fitness for liberty and without custodial supervision until he has demonstrated this fitness, is both unsafe and inhumane; besides, it involves a contradiction. If the protection of society demands the isolation of the criminal, the state obviously has no right to liberate him without giving some guarantee that he will not immediately fall back into his old habits. No one can predict at the time of sentence when the offender will be fit for freedom, yet every amounts to the same thing, an indeterquiring the release of the criminal upon the expiration of the minimum term of his imprisonment, provided he has not misbehaved himself, implies such prediction and is therefore absurd.

Of course it is difficult to ascertain far the imprisoned criminal is able test of his ability in this respect must not behind prison walls; and it is a matter of common interest to have it made under the most favorable auspices. Many men are not strong enough to make their way unaided across the gulf that separates the prison from the free guiding and steady hand. If the definite sentence is condemned by its own logic, the indeterminate sentence becomes almost farcical unless supplemented by a properly administered parole system. The latter is pre cisely the case in Massachusetts. We have the indeterminate sentence, and our statutes contain an admirably conceived parole law which, were its spirit carried out, would give the community protection and the prisoner help at a critical period.

It is not shown that systematic work under this law has been attempted. Perhaps in consequence of the apparent lukewarmness of the authorities minate sentence itself has largely been an act of 1898 provides that when the prisoner, against whom there is no record for misconduct during incarceration, has served the minimum term of his sentence he shall be released. The question of the subject's fitness for liberty is not made paramount, and custo-creditable record we have made. The parole system is too radical a departure from the old traditions to have escaped criticism. There is, however, little disposition to assail its principles. The objections made are usually of practical character and centre in the fear of abuse of a dangerous power. To market all or even any great part of the immense production of the Beaumont field it has been necessary to find a northern market. It retirement of the veteran officers of has been amply demonstrated that the the army who have seen service in the market is only awaiting the entrance three wars-the Rebellion, the Indian of fuel oil into the northern states as a substitute for coal. The saving in cost to consumers will be from 25 to 33 per

The Beaumont Oil Transportation company, which will carry the oil direct from the gushers to the northern ports, has been formed on a basis of the community of interest of ten southern companies owning and operating wells on Spindle Top, the center of the Beaumont field. These companies are the International Oil company, the Neches River Oil company, the Maid of Orleans Oil company, the Texas and Illinois Oil company, the Louisiana Consolidated Oil company and the Lone Star Oil and Fuel company of New Orleans, the Mobile-Beaumont company of Mobile, the Birminghamthe president, the secretary and the Beaumont Oil company of Birmingham treasurer, took up the entire time of and the Magnolia Fuel Oil company and the Montgomery and Neches River Oil company of Montgomery. By participating in the organization of the Beaumont Oil Transportation company the ten companies have assured them selves of a market for the millions of barrels which their wells can produce annually. The new company has such backing that it will be enabled to begin operations next month and to unload its first cargo in New York about Jan.

15. Two steamers, each of 30,000 barrels capacity, have been purchased, and estimates for five more steamers are now in the hands of the officers of the company. A contract has been made to transport the oil from the gushers to Sabine Pass, on the gulf of Mexico. through a pipe line already built. In the short time that agents for the company have been at work in New York, Boston and Philadelphia contracts for 3,000,000 barrels per annum have been secured. All of these contracts are from manufacturing establishments. No direct action has yet been taken toward the introduction of Beaumont oil into domestic uses in the north. This phase of the matter, which will naturally be of interest to the greatest number of people, has, however, not been overlooked. It was not long after the first gusher discovery, which occurred on Jan. 10 last, that inventors began working on plans for the employment of crude oil in a number of domestic uses. There are now perfected new devices whereby the southern fuel may be used for cooking, for furnace heating and for use in ordinary heating stoves. Experiments where any of these devices have been thoroughly tested have shown them to be absolutely practicable. The inventions are to be put on the market at about the time the new transportation company will be ready to offer its product for sale throughout the northern states.

How much of a saving the substitution of oil for the fuel now generally in use will effect depends only on the quantity of fuel consumed. Leaving aside the point of cleanliness and the most desirable condition that the feeding of the fuel will be automatic, there will be a saving in price below the price of coal of not less than 25 per cent in any instance. Oil will be sold | shares. in New York and Boston at about 90 cents per barrel. The introduction of this commodity as something to be used for a large number of domestic purposes will bring about a revolution in household These exchanges are regulated by rules management. How great the change will be is difficult to anticipate. The magnificent future-an immediate future at that-of the Beaumont oil industry is coming to be realized, but the opportunities presented by the use of fuel for domestic purposes is a phase which up to this time has been gives a flow of rich, nourishing little dwelt upon and of which almost nothing is known by the housewives, who will be the greatest gainers thereby. ### STANDARD OIL DIVIDENDS.

Tremendous Disbursements to Stockholders of Oil Companies. The Standard Oil company will pay this month a quarterly dividend of 8 per cent, which amounts to $8,000,000 and represents 32 per cent per annum on the par value of the shares. The stock was quoted yesterday on the New York market at $715 per share.

While the Standard represents the greatest strength in the American oil industry, it is by no means without rivals elsewhere. Good oil companiescompanies which own the right land, in the right place and are managed by the right directors-pay dividends far in excess of those earned by almost any other form of industrial corporations. Some of the most wonderful dividend showings in the annals of commerce are now being paid by companies operating in the Baku (Russia) oilfields, where there are gushers similar to those at Beaumont, but of smaller capacity. The Russian Petroleum and Liquid Fuel company pays dividends NOTE, Additional cars week days only, 6.10, at the rate of 50 per cent per annum. 7.15, 8.15, 9.15 a. The Caspian societe pays a dividend of 78 per cent per annum

The Shell Transport and Trading company, an English corporation which has been getting nearly all of its supply from the East Indies, pays 181/2 per cent per annum on a very large capital-Ization. It is the Shell company which has just closed arrangements to go into the business of carrying Beaumont oil to ports in Great Britain and on the continent. The officers of the company find that they could make a saving to themselves and their consumers of not less than 30 per cent on Quincy. at Boston. ### MANY MARKETS.

Stock Exchanges Where Investors r May Dispose of Oil Shares.

When Beaumont oil stocks were first traded in, now nearly a year ago, the principal difficulty experienced by speculators and investors was in finding a market for their shares. There have been at all times plenty of people willing to buy, but if one wanted any given stock it was a little difficult to find just where to secure it, and conversely a person with stock for sale had to grope in the dark to locate just the particular people who wanted his particular Now there is no more of such trouble.

At Beaumont and at Houston, the metropolis of the state, there have been established stock exchanges which are r in a thriving and prosperous condition. similar to those governing transactions on the New York Stock Exchange. On both boards there are unlisted as well as listed departments, and between the two exchanges one can usually find a market for any legitimate share representing property in the Beaumont field. Besides the market thus afforded there is a chance in New York city for the disposal of any good Beaumont share. Jim had a brave heart, but this seemhis spirits rose, and he set about his old trade. He was considered one of the best carpenters in Galveston. And for so young a man he was a marvel. Neatness, strength and beauty were all combined in his work-in fact, Jim had more than he could do. Everybody wanted his advice when they could not get his work. It was a common saying that "Jim Martin's father's houses stood the storm of 1875 without so much as the loss of a shingle, and he can do better work than his father." And so it happened that Jim made money and friends and became a favorite with the Galveston people.

It was in the spring of 1892 when it occurred to him he was getting along in years and be who had built so many homes for others ought to have one of his own. He knew the woman he wanted to share it with him, so after getting her consent he cast his eyes about for the proper location. The gulf of Mexico had a strange fascination for him. He loved to gaze on its glasslike surface in calm, and he was equally charmed when it rolled beyond its shore. So with love in his heart for this wonderful, beautiful but treacherous body of water he selected a spot only two blocks from its shore for a home. At the end of the year the house was complete, and such a house, for substantiality at least, had never before been built on the island. Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 8-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.-The right use of ability.-Matt. vi

God has not given to all men equal ability. Some are strong, others weak; some are rich, others poor; some are high, others low; some have superior intelligence, others are below the average in intelligence; some morally and spiritually are superiors and others inferiors. This being true, it becomes a very important question to those who are blessed with special abilities, positions or opportunities as to what is the right way to use them. It is an important question, because ability means responsibility. God will demand of every man an account "according to his several abilities." It may be a If you want the splendid thing to be two talent or five talent men, but those who have many talents must account for many talents and should study carefully how to use Ability is not to be falsely used. Salt has the ability to preserve and to season; but if salt, by being exposed or falsely united with foreign substances. loses its savor it is good for nothing but to be cast out. It loses its ability to preserve or to season and is worth less. A false use of ability is also ruinous to man. Thousands have been If you want the led to ruin by misusing the special abilities that God has given them The pathway of life is strewn with the wrecks of geniuses-five talent men. They have misused or abused the talents that God has given them and God has exacted an awful penalty from them. Let none who is blessed with ability follow in their footsteps. The genius is not exempt from the laws of God. His superior ability makes his falseness all the more cul-

Ability is not to be neglected. A candle has lighting ability. For that reason it is not hidden under a bushel where its light would do no good, but is placed on a candlestick, that it may give light to all in the house. God condemns the neglect of ability. If He has given ability to any one, it is for a purpose, and to neglect it is as serious as to misuse it. The man with one talent, which he neglected, was condemn ed and punished. Five talent men are not immune from service. The greater ability possessed the greater the crime For about twelve feet she floated lifted up the little girl to him. He ability is absolutely inexcusable and ability is absolutely inexcusable and If you want with tremendous speed, and as Jim's stretched his hand toward her, but she will certainly lead to condemnation and punishment.

safe, a smile broke over her face, her mankind and the glory of God. "Let Ability is to be used for the good of your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven. If we properly use the abilities which God has given to us, we will make men see God in our works, for all good works are from God. Thus they will be led to praise God and to consecrate their lives to Him. Thus our abilities will bless our fellows and redound to the glory of God. If God has blessed us with special or even humble abilities, let us use them to honor Him and to lead others to Him.

FOR NEW CANAL TREATY

Favorable Action by Foreign burger handed down a decision in the Relations Committee

Find Objections Urged Against Old Treaty-No Dissenting Vote

almost two hours and went over in held that that branch of the motion detail the provisions of the convention. No votes were cast against it, but it was criticised very sharply by Senators Money and Bacon, who found in it many of the objections which they urged against the old treaty. They took especial exception to the provision continuing in force the neutrality provision of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and also made objection to the clause specifically authorizing the United States to police the canal as placing a limitation upon the power of this country to absolutely control it. The contention was made that the effect of the treaty as sent to the senate would be to deprive the United States of control of the canal in case of war. Especial attention was called to the provision in the preamble of the pending treaty reserving article 8 of the Cayton-Bulwer treaty from the repeal provision of the new treaty. The portion of this article of the old treaty to which especial objection was made reads as follows

"In granting, however, their joint protection to any such canals or railways as are by this article specified, it is always understood by the United States and Great Britain that the parties constructing or owning the same shall impose no other charges or conas just and equitable; and that the same canals or railways, being open to the citizens and subjects of the United shall also be open on like terms to state which is willing to grant thereto such protection as the United States and Great Britain engage to afford."

Senators Money and Bacon did not go to the extent of voting against the report of the treaty, and they acknowledge they are anxious to see it ratified because of their great desire to have the canal built. Still, they insisted that the treaty as it now stands is very objectionable in case of the contingency of war.

Senator Frye, who presided over the meeting, authorized Senator Lodge to day next, in case there should be an executive session on that day. It also was the sense of the committee that the senate, some senators expressing before adjournment for the holidays. mend that the injunction of secrecy be removed from the treaty.

Senator Bacon moved the revival of the amendment to the original Hay-Pauncefote treaty which was suggested by Senator Davis, then chairman of the committee, and adopted by the senate. That amendment provided that nothing in the treaty should "apply to measures which the United States may find it necessary to make for securing by its own forces the defense of the United States and the maintenance of public order." The amendment was voted down viva voce.

It is well known that we have a pes house, but while that building could readily be used in mild weather it would be next to impossible to occupy the present building in winter weather.

The new building put up last spring was bastily constructed. It is made of in practically the same condition. that made its appearance in the early it possible to use this building one patient only could be accommodated.

It is well in time of peace to prepare for war, and it would seem that the Board of Health would be doing a good and pressing invitation to fraud, and thing should they now take some building and put it in readiness, so party loyalty and honesty. Relative to direct nominations the New York Tribune says:

"The agitation started in New York since election for the adoption of the direct nomination system, such as "prevails in Minnesota, is not likely to have much success. In the first place, there is no popular demand for a change. Movements to shift the basis of party power can be strong only when there is general dissatisfaction with party management, such for instance, has forced the reform of the primary law in 1898. Independent Republicans have been the chief workers for reforms of this kind but they find that whatever be the defects of the existing law in bringing the control of parties directly into the hands of the voters, the Republican party management is at present wise and liberal, and is achieving results in harmony with popular desire. The Democrats are not so happily situated, but there is no evidence that the leaders of that organization are not in reasonable barmony with the bulk of its voters. Direct choice of candidates is theoretically attractive, but the system needs careful safeguarding if it is not to have disappointing results, as in Minneapolis, where one party sent alleged converts to the others' primaries to nominate for it a James W. ## Peptiron (One Bottle)

C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass. Peptiron is a neutral organic solution of iron in combination with nutrients and tonics-an en. tirely new and thoroughly scien. tific preparation, led up to by discoveries of eminent chemists in recent researches and experiments, and destined to make the name of Hood still more famous in the world of medicine. Mr. Hood, during a period of over thirty years, has been in correspondence with the sick and ailing, and has acquired extensive knowledge of a wide range of diseases, their causes, symptoms, indications and proper treatment; and he has the satisfaction of knowing that his preparations, notably Hood's Sarsaparilla, have wrought thousands and thousands of radical and permanent cures.

Peptiron is recommended for conditions that are radically nervous rather than radically scroiulous or dependent on an impure state of the blood. There is perfect harmony between Peptiron and Hood's Sarsaparilla; and there are conditions in which both medicines should be taken.

Peptiron is especially indicated in anemia, neurasthenia, hysteria, unstrung nerves, neuralgia, mental and physical exhaustion and general debility; and is invaluable all sufferers from nervous weakness indicated by paleness, poor circulation, cold hands and feet, indigestion, dyspepsia, and sleeplessness.

It establishes that healthy condition of the nervous system on which energy and endurance have been found to depend; and in this anemic and neurasthenic age, in which physical and mental breakdowns are common, and in which there are so many overworked and tired men and women. worn-out mothers, and congenitally nervous children, it is of wonderful value in every family.

Peptiron is non-astringent, does not cause constipation, nor injure the teeth. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD Co., Lowell, Mass. $1.

Note .- Peptiron is guaranteed to do what e say: if it does not, money will be refunded. Selling Agents in Juincy: The Weeks-Hill Pharmacy, Adams Blg.

Willis George Emerson, the Copper Operator, Discusses the Situation Brought About by the Beaumont Discoveries-Successful Tests by a

As strong and terse a statement of the Beaumont situation as has been pronounced is that given by Willis George Emerson, the widely known copper operator, in an interview at the Waldorf-Astoria Friday night.

"If you remember Hoyt's 'A Texas Steer," said Mr. Emerson, "you will remember the last line of the lobbyist's flattering speech to the Texas committee sent up to investigate its congressmen, 'that in five years New York will be sending to Texas for its manufactures.' The sweeping character of the statement was thought then to be by all odds the funniest thing in the play.

"I, believe that the prophecy of the lobbyist is going to come true. While my own interests lie in an entirely different line, I have been giving considerable attention lately to the question of the new field which has been discovered through the Beaumont gushers. I believe that in five years New York and every other state will be sending to Texas for a very considerable part of the products manufactured in this country. Before this time Texas lacked only a cheap and abundant fuel to make it possible for her to rank with the chief manufacturing states. It has always had every other condition requisite to this end. Some of the detractors of the Beaumont field have made the argument that because of its abundance Beaumont fuel oil will have to be sold at too low a price to enable the producing companies to earn any considerable dividends. I say that because of this very abundance, because of this seemingly inexhaustible quantity, there will grow up in southeastern Texas so great a group of manufacturing institutions that within one year the demand for the new oil will be such as to bring the price of this product to 60 or 70 cents a barrel right at the wells. At that figure the Texas manufacturers can still outdistance manufacturers can still outdistance those of their northern competitors who persist in the use of the higher priced coal.

"My attention was directed to this"

"My attention was directed to this subject because of experiments at the Boston-Wyoming smelter in Grand Encampment, Wy., made with the purpose of ascertaining whether the Beaumont product could not be successfully substituted for coal at this plant. We substituted for coal at this plant. We find that, notwithstanding our long distance from the source of the supply as Quincy, Oct. 18.

Quincy, Oct. 18. against a distance of only sixty miles from the coal mines, we can still employ the Texas fuel at a slight saving in the first cost and at a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of firing.

"No careful business man is anxious ROOM TO LET, with board. By Rev. J. B. Pollock of Central to go on record as a prophet. I have this matter that I am willing to hazar my reputation, not as a prophet, which I do not claim to be, but as a busines man, that the Lone Star State will advance half a century in the next half decade. Oil is the sovereign of the south."

FRANCE, OIL IMPORTER.

Heavy Shipment of American Crud Oil From Philadelphia.

There is an interesting object lesse in the departure from Philadelphia last week of the tank steamer Bloomfield bound for Cette, France, carrying a cargo of a little over 2,000,000 gallons of crude oil, valued at $109,000. This is a valuation of 5 cents a gallon, or $2.10 per barrel, of crude petroleum.
All of this oil is being exported on the state of crude with French the same account of contracts made with French institutions which, notwithstanding the tremendous quantities of coal mined in France, can still effect a material saving by paying for oil bought in America and transported across the Atlantic rather than employ coal as a source of energy. That fuel consumers across the seas find it advisable to purchase American fuel oil at $2.10 per barrel shows the fallacy of arguments occasionally made that no very high figures can ever be realized for the product of the gushers at Beaumont.

The shipment of this tremendous tankage shows conclusively that wher ever a market is made for fuel oil a permanent demand for the commodity may be maintained. When manufacturers and other fuel consumers find that oil is cheaper than coal, both in first price and in cost of handling, there will be a steadily maintained price for the liquid fuel at a figure which, while lower than that representing the cost of coal, can never be too low to pre clude a very fair profit to the producing companies. This is true where the oil is pumped, and of course the situation is of even greater strength where the gushing oil represents practically no cost of production.

The instance of this enormous shipment to Cette is but representative of what is going on wherever the fuel oil industry has been developed. It must be remembered that the industry had its birth only in January of this year Before the amazing product of the Beaumont wells added an inexhausti ble source of fuel to the vorld's supply the visible supply of American oi was not sufficient to warrant the building up of the fuel oil business. Prac tically all the oil produced in this country was then used as lubricant, illuminant and in other ways, not as a fuel. Now that the situation has chang ed entirely, wherever the new fuel ha been introduced it has been accepted. The market for it is growing just as fast as fuel consumers can be educated to its use.

рининицииничениницииниче VII.—James Fenimore Cooper. The National Period of American Literature

BY LORENZO SEARS, LIT. D.,

Professor of American Literature in Brown University.

NEW JERSEY judge who had acquired vast tracts of land in and around the sources of the Susquehanna in central New York built a stately mansion on the shore of Otsego lake and removed his family thither in 1790. His son James, then a year old, grew up in this wilderness in the midst of a sort Carrente and Company of baronial grandeur among Indians, trappers and the dependents of a landed proprietor. He learned many things not put down in the schoolbooks and other books which were in his father's library, things which were to be of value to himself and of great interest to others when he should begin to tell about them. The lore of woods and waters, the craft of savage and beast, the rival cunning of an invading race, were lessons which were acquired without urging. In 17 years his education in woodcraft was finished, with some knowledge of books in three years at Yale. Then he went to sea and learned something about it and more about ships and sailors. Later, as a naval officer stationed on Lake Ontario, he came to know the ways of the inland seas. Next he married, staid three years longer in Cooperstown and went to Mamaroneck to live in quiet contentment within reach of the Knickerbocker friends until he was seized with the notion at the age of 30 that he could write a better novel than the one he happened to be reading. He began to write "Precaution." If he had taken a little himself, he would not have written the dreary story of English society life, about which he knew very little. But at that time all American authors had to do imitative work before they began to quarry the wealth of material close at hand. In this very year of 1820 Irving was writing "The Sketch-Book," half English in character. Cooper was next urged to follow Scott, who had just finished the historical "Ivanhoe." The outcome was "The Spy," a novel of the Revolution, already beginning to be historical after 40 years. The scene was laid in the writer's neighborhood, the old neutral ground between two armies and plundered by both. The book was a great success at home and abroad, in England as well as America. Translated into French, it found its way into other languages and many lands, to Persia, Arabia and the far east. The new nation had now a novelist of its own to portray its new life to all the world.

This was still more evident when "The Pioneers" followed two years afterward. This time the author worked the other field, with which he was even more familiar-the wilderness, where he had grown up. Harvey Birch, the spy, was succeeded by Natty Bumppo, the backwoodsman, appealing to that aboriginal love of adventure and of the forest which clings to every boy like a heritage from the primeval life of the race. It was next to returning to the wigwam and the chase and the tribal feud. There had been nothing like it in Europe since the stone age. Here it was the experience of a young writer who was only throwing a thin tissue of romance over the trapper and the savage he had seen a hundred times. The story was as good as true and as interesting as fiction and always a favorite of the author. Sometimes the descriptive padding blocked the progress of events, but impatient readers early learn the skipping trick, sometimes to their loss and again to their gain. But Cooper had created or translated from life a great character, of whom he made the best and the most, running him through the series of five romances which bear the name of "Leatherstocking." He is the primitive American, evolved from two centuries' contact of the early colonist and adventurer with the wilderness. He has taken on its color and become a part of its life, a competitor with the wild beast and wild Indian in the struggle for existence without being degraded to the level of either. The nobler teachings of nature have fallen upon a white soul full of native justice and true nobility until a type of humanity is produced which might be taken as pristine in its native simplicity and honesty. It is barely possible that a travestied impression of this original creation has survived in the foreign mind, making it think of all Americans as backwoodsmen with uired guile, and whose present counterparts are the spectacular creatures of a wild west show. This incongruous specimen should be distinguished from Cooper's frontiersman; also his Indian from those seen at a railway station on the plains. The old charge that he idealized the red proprietor of the woods and waters may be partly met by saying that the race has not been improved by rum or the ethics of traders and the agents of a paternal government.

He doubtless had his unlovely streaks, but the early education furnished by the British American settler developed the vices of both races in a fer-To learn what was Cooper's restoration of the aboriginal type the five

'Leatherstocking" tales will be read and in the following order if the career of the woodsman is to be traced to the end: "The Deerslayer," "The Last of the Mohicans," "The Pathfinder," "The Pioneers" and "The Prairie," although this is not the order in which they were written.

When Cooper had gratified his love of nature by picturing life upon the frontier in "The Pioneers," he turned to his recollections of seafaring years and wrote "The Pilot," impelled, it is said, by Scott's blunders in his "Pirate." Two fresh fields had been broken when he entered upon one old as the sea and cultivated ever since Ulysses sailed the "unharvested deep," from which, however, a large crop of stories has been taken from Virgil's time onward. But there was enough left in its depths and on its surface to make a most successful story in the hands of a genuine sailor, as Cooper was. A large and breezy sort of man, he loved the wide ocean next to the boundless forest. He was not always finically careful about details of composition, but he made no landsman's mistakes about ships' rigging and sailors' lingo. A man-of-war was in his day a thing of beauty when under full sail, if not so terrific in battle as its hard shell successor. The romance of the engine room is now the topic on seven seas, but Cooper's "Wing and Wing" fancies will always people a receding age with a race of fighting sailors who belonged to a perilous time in our early history. Their conflicts with a great maritime power can best be understood in the pages of "The Pilot" and "The Red Rover." In these departments of frontier and sea life Cooper became our first historical novelist, having Scott only for a rival, and that without being his imitator. On British ground their books sold side by side and had the same translators into foreign tongues. Each in his own way brought credit to his country and great renown to himself. But it was in Sir Walter's own Edinburgh and in its Review that the words were written, "The empire of the sea is conceded to Every writer 1 lest have his ups and downs, and Cooper's alternated with customary regularity or irregularity. When he attempted to repeat the success of his first American novel, "The Spy," in "Lionel Lincoln," he did not attain eminence.

In "The Last of the Mohicans," 1826, Cooper picked himself up again, being on his own ground once more, hand in hand with Leatherstocking, now in the manly prime of a forester, than whom no finer woodland character has been created since the day of the mythical Robin Hood. Nor was the American specimen an outlaw and a princely taief, as became the Saxon under Norman oppression. Instead he had every homely virtue that might adorn a nobleman of nature unspoiled by contact with scoundrels of the town or the settlements. With this book Cooper achieved his greatest success at home and abroad among the multitudes who read what they like and turn a deaf ear to the charmer critics, charm they never so wisely. These did by no means agree among themselves and thereby made good their title.

It was at this point that our successful novelist was able to go abroad for seven years and incidentally to enjoy the tribute which was freely accorded by foreigners who had confidence in their own estimates of literary values, even if they did not enrich the author by a share in the profits on pirated editions of his works. Yet they gave him cordial welcome and would have made a lich of him if he had permitted the show. On the other side the scenery was more attractive to him than social displays, and he found his enjoyment in the sunny skies of Italy, the mountains of Switzerland and the old German cities. Meantime his pen was busy with "The Prairie," "The Red Rover," "The Wept of Wish-ton-Wish" and "The Water Witch." Of these "The Red Rover" was most approved, surpassing "The Pilot" even in its interest to lovers of sea stories. Imitations of these stories, by the way, had been springing up after his first venture like catboats following in the wake of a racer. His own books, however, were multiplying faster than all their imitations, being published as soon as written in over 30 different places in Europe and read as far east as Egypt, Jerusalem and Ispahan.

In the "Letters of a Traveling Bachelor." "Residence In Europe." "Letter to His Countrymen," "Homeward Bound" and "Home as Found" he is the censor of his native land and shared the hatred which follows that official, especially when self appointed. He was not fitted to lessen the inevitable unpleasantness attached to his mission. His own arrogance and violence provoked a similar spirit, which retorted in virulent personal abuse. This was checked in its public expression by law suits, which had the good effect of limiting the license of the press in personal matters, but the rancor of his enemies was undiminished for years. This was fostered by positions which he took in his "Naval History of the United States," contrary to the popular view of the real hero in the battle of Lake Erie, but fortified by subsequent decisions in arbitration. In this case, as in others, Cooper was not so far from right as from urbanity and suavity in maintaining it. Still, it must be conceded that he had not much encouragement to cultivate these virtues, nor had he much inclination. Hence it was "Athanasius against the world" once more. He more than held his own, but the record of the contest does not add to his literary reputation.

COUNTY UP IN ARMS

Over the Murder of Town Marshal and Merchant

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED

Danger of Being Lynched by a Mob

Andalusia, Ala., Dec. 7.-Governor in protection of the 25 negro rioters who are in jail here. The town is under martial law. The sheriff is fearing an attack at any minute by a mob but mills delay new undertakings befrom Opp, and is prepared to defend his prisoners at all hazards.

Three negroes, names unknown, were caught and killed by a posse of citizens near Opp yesterday for alleged implication in the riot and the whole county is in arms against the blacks.

Sheriff Bradshaw wired Governor Jenks yesterday afternoon that he had positive information that a mob from Opp would attack the jail here to lynch the negroes implicated in the killing of the town marshal and a merchant at Opp last Wednesday.

The sheriff asked that soldiers be sent to Andalusia without delay. The governor immediately ordered the military company at Greenville to proceed by train to Andalusia and arranged with the railroad company for a special train. Captain Gamble of the Greenville company replied that his company would leave for Andalusia at once, which they did.

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 7 .- Mrs. Catharine O'Keefe of this city received a letter vesterday from Joseph Michaels of Yap, Caroline Islands, advising her of the probable loss of her husband. Captain David D. O'Keefe, at sea, and the fact that he has left property worth probably $1,000,000. Captain O'Keefe was known in the Oriental trade as King" O'Keefe of Yap, whi he virtually owned. When O'Keefe first landed at Yap, 30 years ago, the cannibal natives thought him a demigod on account of his white skin, and made him their king.

Convicted on Third Trial

Binghamton, N. Y., Dec. 7.—Geo. A. Charter was found guilty of murder in the second degree by a jury last evening. He shot Leonard Roberts, killing him instantly. There had been no quarrel. Charter was angered because Roberts and companions had paxed a dog, owned by Charter, down the road and were playing with the animal. Charter's defense was insanity due to alcoholism. This is the third time he has been tried for murder.

May Have Done Business Illegally Victoria, B. C., Dec. 7 .- A case involving every dollar the White Pass and Yukon route has taken in since the company began business in 1898 will be brought before the supreme court of British Columbia. It is alleged that the company, under its charter, was compelled to have rates approved by the governor-in-council. This approval, it is charged, was not obtained by the company. The amount involved is over $1,000,000.

Train Plunged Hundreds of Feet Vancouver, B. C., Dec. 7 .- A Canadian Pacific freight train was running slowly around a dangerous curve, 400 feet above the Fraser river, when it encountered a rock slide. The engineer reversed his locomotive, but the heavy train behind piled the locomotive upon the rocks, and it rolled over and over down the bluff to the river. Engineer Randall and Fireman Potruff

Pullman Left Half a Million

Redwood City, Cal., Dec. 7.-The will of the late George M. Pullman, who died on Nov. 28, has been filed for probate. The petition sets forth that the estate does not exceed $500,000, and that the known heirs-at-law are the mother, Hattie S. Pullman of Chicago, and the wife, Sarah L. Pullman of Menlo Park The latter asks for letters of administration.

Anecdotes of Jerry Simpson, the Sockless Statesman-A Master of Rough and Tumble Debate-Joy In the House When He Tackled an Adversary-Republican and Democrat Were Alike to Him-Clever In Repartee, Merciless In Retort-Reed's Speech in Jerry's District.

[Copyright, 1901, by Champ Clark.] The most effective weapon with which one man ever assailed another is ridicule. Before its merciless shafts logic, fancy, beauty, learning, wisdom, tourage, fame, wealth, ancestral renown, all go down. Even truth herself from the combat not always victor. That Jerry Simpson has outlived a hation's ridicule is proof conclusive a long speech. that there is something in the man.

has a hard fight with it and emerges

The day has gone by when it sounded smart to hold him up before a gaping world as a clown, mountebank, ignotamus or demagogue. He is none of these, except the last, and that only in its higher, better and etymological sense-a leader of the people.

Seven years ago he was the butt of every joke, the text of every paragrapher in the land. Now he stands in the very small group of men whose names are respected from ocean to bcean. He is no more like Dennis Kearney and the sand lot agitators than he resembles Gladstone or Bismarck. He is a witty, able, fearless, sincere, well informed friend of man, with a dangerous gift of gab-dangerbus for his opponents. That he sometimes chases ignes fatui may be true, but in the main he is a better Demoerat than some high and mighty personages that I wot of who make far greater pretensions. To a man who is an out and out free trader, an income taxer and a genuine jam up bimetallist much may be forgiven in the minor matters of politics.

Jerry a Philosopher. In appearance, instead of the untouth lout he has been represented as being, he is a tall, slender, lean, dark, well dressed, scholarly looking man, with a Henry Clay mouth, a wealth of coal black hair and eyes indicative of brains. He habitually wears gold timmed spectacles. While neither a Chesterfield nor a Beau Hickman, he offends not the æsthetic in either manher or apparel. Nor does he walk with the rolling gait of the sailor, as might be supposed from his quondam occupation, but with the characteristic student's stoop and abnormal sedateness. It is only when he bestrides his bicycle range. that he cuts fantastic capers before high heaven. Jerry is a philosopher. I don't know whether he ever read Newton's "Printipia" or Bacon's "Novum Organum" or "The Wisdom of the Ancients." Postibly he never heard of Sir William Hamilton and his metaphysics. Assuredly he is not a disciple of Ep!homely, practical American type, of the cockles of his heart which Josh Billings, Bill Arp and Sam | A Tilt With Dingley.

Jones are exemplars. Without college training or any rlaims to scholarship such as Dr. Everett of Massachusetts or Crain of Texas possessed, somewhere, some time, somehow, on board ship, upon the tented field, on the Kansas praities or in congress, he has picked up a vast store of information, made it thoroughly his own, leavened it with it ready for instant use. He ranked among the half dozen best rough and tumble debaters in the house. Not a man of the 360 could tackle him in that hazardous species of warfare with any reasonable certainty of coming out on top. He was as active as a panther, tenacious as a snapping turtle and as temorseless as a circular saw. Many a solar walk statesman has bit the flust beneath Jerry's irony, humor and philosophy. He can make a strong set speech without oratorical scallops, but he is in his glory in a running fire debate. Jerry smites his ppponents hip and thigh when animated by what our school day friend, Julius Cæsar, in his "Commentaries" was wont to call "gaudium certaminis," which Sir Walter Scott has paraphrased into

The stern joy which warriors feel In foemen worthy of their steel.

Like Job's warhorse, he sniffs the battle from afar. I don't know his pedigree, but from his predisposition toward skull cracking I think he must have come of Irish ancestry. A Product of Populism.

At home Jerry was a farmer, but 1 Incline to the opinion that, like Patrick Henry, he let others perform most of the actual labor of agriculture and spent most of his time resting in the of great pith and moment in his busy brain. When he defeated "Prince Hal" of Wichita for congress, Jerry was town marshal of Medicine Lodge and put in most of his leisure in sermonizing, dogmatizing and anathematizing from the top of a dry goods box. The Populist uprising in Kansas developed many queer characters, but It sent an exceedingly strong delegation in Harris, Hudson, Davis, Baker and Jerry Simpson.

If he flayed the Democrats, the Republicans yelled with delight. If he pounded the Republicans, the Democrats made the welkin ring with their cheerful voices. So Jerry went on taking scalps and hanging hides up to dry until the hammer fell at high noon March 4, 1895, sounding the knell for him and a vast caravan who went thence to the pale realms of political

The Republicans also disclaim it. To settle that question for all time, I assume was both witty and cheeky.

Worse Than Grasshoppers. Jerry is not greatly beloved by the Republicans of Kansas. One suffocating day in July, 1893, I was coming charging her with the murder of Mrs. home from New York. I did not know a soul on the train and went into the smoker, where I found one man. He was well dressed and appeared to be intelligent. By reason of lonesomeness I struck up a conversation, inquiring his habitat. "Yes," I reof Massachusetts, through its judges. plied. "I located in Wichita in 1875 to practice law, but the grasshoppers drove me out of the state, and I don't believe there has been one there since."

He looked out of the window a moment and then growled grimly: "No. | But we have something out there a blamed sight worse than the grasshoppers." Remembering only too vividly what consternation those pesky insects carried on their wings to the people of Kansas, I shouted, "What on earth can that be?" With a fierce gleam of the eye he said, "Jerry Simpson," and then proceeded to roast "the sage of Medicine Lodge" to a turn, a perfectly safe performance at the distance of a thousand miles, but not calculated to increase one's mental comfort at short of Massachusetts, through its judges, appoint counsel for the accused woman and Chief Justice Mason, who presided, said that he would take the matter under advisement. The request will undoubtedly be granted.

When this was over and the jury had dispersed, the woman was led away to her cell, not to return again to that room until some time early next spring, when she will be given a trial combat the evidence which the government in the meantime will have accumulated against her.

All day long the 22 grand jurymen listened to what evidence had been collected against Miss Toppan by the officers of the state during the past three months. First the chemist told how he found traces of the poisonous drugs, then the detectives, who have worked so assiduously on the different clues, and lastly two of Miss Toppan's acquaintances, who were in a position to know something of the deaths last August at Cataumet.

There was apparently little opportunity for deliberation on the part of the jury, for scarcely had the last witness left the room when the district attorney announced a recess and the id not assemble till it met again in the superior court room. ### Street Commissioner Won

Somersworth, N. H., Dec. 7 .- For several hours yesterday afternoon the tracks of the Dover, Somersworth and Rochester electric railroad in this city were blockaded with snow. The electric plow had piled up great banks of snow by the side of the track, and as the superintendent of the road did not remove it, the street commissioner ordered the snow to be spread over the tracks. The difficulty was finally settled by the electric road consenting to remove the snow from the

Listened to Socialist Argument

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 7.-A mass meeting of the striking morocco workers of this city last night was slimly attended. It was addressed by Daniel by jury as allowed by law, and to De Leon of New York, who gave a talk on the principles of the Socialist Labor party. The proposed agreement prepared by committees of the board of trade and the strikers was expected to be submitted to the strikers last night, but Mr. Kelly had not finished his consideration of it.

No Work, No Pay

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 7 .- Mayor Mulvihill caused surprise in the street department yesterday by announcing that the names of the foremen would be taken from the payrolls during January, February and March, in order to save the city about $750 each month. The street laborers are generally discharged during those months, as there is no work to do, but it has been customary to keep the foremen on the salary list.

The Sail-Makers' Strike

Bath, Me., Dec. 7 .- C. C. Dennett, owner of the largest sail loft here, and against whom a strike was declared Monday by the union sailmakers, will sell out his business and leave Bath. ### New Books.

Miss Clara Morris has been a great actress and now it appears that her genius is not conclear and cold in New England. Fresh fined to the histrionic art, for she is likewise a north to northeast winds will prevail remarkable writer. Her book of reminiscences, pearing the title Life on the Stage, is not only a notable contribution to our biographical literature, but it offers such interesting and truthful pictures of the famous men and women whom the public vaguely knows only as members of an unreal and mimic world, that the work is a classic of American stage biography. The same sensative, emotional quality, the same vitality and imaginative power, the same subtle insight into the heart that Miss Morris showed as Miss Moulton or Camille, appear here, with many other and lighter traits added. Bound in cloth, with portrait frontispiece of Miss Morris. The price of the book is $1.50 net, $1.62 postpaid. The publishers are McClure, Phillips & Co. New York.

Over Forty-Two Hundred Bills Already In Congress

NO INVESTIGATION LIKELY

to Raise Pay of Letter Carriers-

Washington, Dec. 9 .- If the number of bills introduced in the house is any indication of legislative energy, the sessions of the house which have been held since last Monday, nearly one-third the number of bills presented during the whole of the 56th congress has been introduced. The total number of bills presented in the house during both ses sions of the last congress was 14,437. The number presented in the three days of this session is 4224. Monday, 1945 were presented; 1004 were introduced Tuesday, while at the six-minute session Friday, members of the house sucdesires in the legislative line.

The work of getting these bills properly entered in the clerk's books, having the announcement prepared for the congressional record, as well as copy bill may be properly printed in the legal health. form without delay, is the task which has required the clerks in charge to violate the eight-hour law most flagrantly.

Mr. Moody of Massachusetts, is not disturbed by the presentation in the ouse of the resolution of Mr. Fleming of Georgia looking to an investigation of the right of the Masachusetts acle gation to its seats, as a counter-proposition to his own resolution providing for an inquiry into the legality of the title of the Louisiana members to their places in the house on account of al- who is charged with burglary, leged disfranchisement of voters.

Mr. Moody takes no exception to Mr. Fleming's resolution. He is willing to have Massachusetts take the same treatment, if it is deserved, that is awarded to any other state which disfranchises a portion of the vote. Both resolutions are in the custody of the committee on rules, and are likely to remain there during the life of the pres-

The bill introduced by Senator Lodge for a general increase in the pay of letter carriers throughout the country provides that all letter carriers who annum; that all' who have served as regular carriers two years or more shall receive $1000 per annum; that all who have served one year or more shall receive $800 per annum, and that all who are or may be appointed to the regular service shall receive $600 per annum. The measure is retroactive becoming operative, if adopted, June 30, 1900.

The joint resolution introduced by Representative Lovering, providing for an amendment to the constitution givcongress the power to establish uniform hours of labor in manufactories throughout the United States, recites the fact that there now exists a great diversity in the hours of labor in manufacturing establishments, varying from a week of 56 hours to one of 72 hours. It is pointed out that this diversity creates conditions of discrimination as between citizens of the several states, which operate to the disadvantage of both labor and capital, resulting in unequal wages for a given amount of labor and unequal earnings for a given amount of capital. This lack of harmony is beyond the control of the states, it is said, and is sought to give the federal government power to legis-

Speaker Henderson will announce the committee on naval affairs at an early date, and it is probable that its personnel will be about the same as in the 56th congress, in so far as its members were returned to the present house, with the exception of Representative Metcalf. With Mr. Metcalf's promotion to the committee of ways and means, there will be three vacancies on the committee on naval affairs, the other two being occasioned by the resignation of Chairman Boutelle, who is succeeded in congress by ex-Governor Llewellyn Powers, and the retirement of Representative Hawley of Texas.

It is probable that Mr. Powers will succeed Mr. Boutelle on the committee, although he will not, of course, being a new member, be made chairman. Rep- a jury in the United States court of resentative Roberts of Massachusetts and Southard of Ohio are expected to be named to fill the other two vacancies. HARMONIOUS ACTION Assured In Dealing With the Subject of the Philippine Tariff

Washington, Dec. 9.-The Philippine conference held at the war department by Secretary Root, Senators Lodge, Spooner and Platt of Connecticut, and Representatives Payne and Dalzell and of the ways and means committee of the | CAUGHT BY NATIVE SCOUTS

The consultation, which was quite lengthy, is understood to have removed all danger of friction in the consideration of this delicate question of legislation. The ways and means committee will bring the matter forward in the house early next week, when the details of the tariff measure finally agreed upon will become known. Notwithstanding the introduction of the Lodge resolution in the senate, extending the Dingley rates to imports into this country from the Philippines, As to Rights of Bay State Men to the house will take the initiative in Their Seats-Lodge Introduces Bill this legislation, assurances having been given by the senate managers that acion upon the matter in that body will Proposition For Uniform Workdays not be pressed pending its consideration by the house.

LOOKS LIKE BLONDIN

Farm Hand In New Hampshire May Be Much Wanted Man

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 9 .- Interest has again been aroused in the Blondin murder case by a story told by employes of a milk train running over the Keene division of the Boston and Maine railroad. This is the case where the mutilated body of Mrs. Margaret Blondin was found in the woods at Chelmsford, Mass., last June, and whose husband has been sought far and near by the police as the supposed murderer.

The latest story is to the effect that for about a month past a man who has been at work for a farmer, living some 10 miles from the railroad, has every morning brought milk to the train at a small station near Hillsboro. No special notice was taken of his appearance until last Friday morning, when one of the train hands remarked that he looked like Blondin, adding that he had a picture of Blondin at home which he would has been leading Filipinos against the bring with him in the morning for comparison. When the morning came, capitated their prisoner. The man's however, the man did not show up at the train and nothing has been seen of

The relator of this story says that the man in question was bow-legged, his face pookmarked, his eye had the peculiar cast, and in other ways his appearance tallied with the description of the much wanted Blondin. The locality in which he was employed would be an ideal one for a person who desired to avoid recognition.

Of late, however, he has been employed at the Tubular Rivet Works. He was an enthusiastic yachtsman, and was an active member of the Quincy Yacht club. A few years ago he designed and built the yacht Gismonda which was named after one of Fanny Davenport's plays. She proved a very fast boat. Mr. Colby was a 32d degree Mason, and a member of Rural lodge.

Good Reading for Everybody.

In addition to its special articles by famous men and women and its stories by the most popular living writers of fiction, The Youth's Companion presents from week to week many regular features of great value.

The editorial page discusses the public ques tions of the day in a spirit of impartiality, th aim being to give the reader the material for forming his own opinions.

The article on the care of the health which has been published every week for many years is one of the greatest value. The departments of Current Events and Nature and Science give the important news of the world in condensed form. The children's page provides diversion for the little ones, and the anecdotes and miscellany have their share in making the paper a complete treasury of good reading. An illustrated prospectus of the new volume for 1902 will be sent to any address free

Every new subscriber who sends $1.75 for the 1902 volume now will receive free all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1901 and The Companion Calendar for 1902, lithographed in twelve colors and gold. The Youth's Companion, 195 Columbu Avenue, Boston, Mass.

Chicago, Dec. 9 .- A program of protest against British methods in the the maintainance of a huge army and South African war was carried out be- such an army could not be maintained fore an immense audience in the auditorium theatre here last! night. The meeting was held under the auspicies of the Chicago branch of the American ruin of the British constitution. The Transvaal league.

Following an eloquent address by W. Bourke Cockran and earnest speeches by others, resolutions for the appointment of a committee to bring the ments of the meeting before the president were adopted. Although an admission was charged, the funds being intended to aid the Boers and especially their women and children, standing room was at a premium and many were unable to gain admittance.

Mr. Cockran, the orator of the evening, said in part: "However men may differ about the invasion of the South African republics, all are agreed that the restoration of peace is in the highest degree desirable. There are but two ways in which the war can be termi-Third Quarter 2 p.m. Quarter 18 p.m. or the English government must abandon the attempt to subdue them.

"It is quite generally assumed that the resistance of the Boers cannot be successful. But is it true that the resistance of the Boers is hopeless? Since the fall of Pretoria, it certainly has not been fruitless. It has been justified by most important results. Lord Salisbury's position that nothing but ts final stages, the government has absolute surrender would be considered has been abandoned and today the Burghers could secure almost any terms short of complete and explicit acknowledgement of their independence. As their resistance has not been fruitless, neither is their struggle for independence hopeless. On the contrary, if their resistance be prolonged for a few months, the abandonment of the struggle to subdue them by Great Britain is inevitable.

"This statement is not based on any special information concerning the war, but on the conviction that it will be impossible for the government to secure the passage of many more war appropriations through the house of commons. The last budget was passed only after immense difficulties. All sources of taxation have practically been exhausted and the attempt to effect another large war loan would result in Washington, Dec. 9.—The report of such a fall in the price of consols as George E. Roberts, director of the mint, would seriously jeopardize British inupon the operations of the mint service dustries. If, then, the Boer forces can

Frye Making an Effort to Satisfy All Its Friends

NEW BILL IS INTRODUCED

Makes Concessions to Western Interests, but Is Silent as to Standard Oil Tank Steamers and Omits Anti-Trust Provision Insisted Upon

Washington, Dec. 10.—The important question regarding Senator Frye's new subsidy bill is whether its compromises sufficiently meet the western Republican opposition of last winter to give promise of success. Mr. Frye stated some weeks ago, before he made known the terms of the new bill, that personally he did not like it so well as the old one, but was trying in it to satisy the wishes of all friends of the subsidy project.

In the house this opposition was led last year by four members of the merchant marine committee, Stevens, Minor, Fordney and Jones. The opinions of this group now therefore become of the utmost interest, since the real fight over the bill will be in the Representative Stevens of Minnesota said yesterday after reading the Frye bill: Its cargo clause does not meet our views. Senator Frye says a specific requirement for export cargo is not required. Senator Davis thought also thought that tank steamers, such as are employed by the Standard Oil anti-trust provision, on which we insisted in the last congress, a provision against trusts in the ownership, management or building of ships.

"On the other hand the bill makes important concessions to western interests, it drops the speed and size clauses $18.75 to$100.00 of the old bill to which we objected, and 12 00 to 40 00 insists on the re-classification of the 7.50 to 25 00 postal subsidy amendment. We can-12 00 to 35 00 not tell how this plan would work out 4 50 to 25 00 until we have made further investiga-1.00 to 3.50 tion. The new bill also leaves out the 2.50 to 25.00 $9,000,000 limit for the annual aggre-4.98 to 25.00 gate. There will be doubtless difficulty 1.75 to 10 00 in getting all sections of the country to-1.25 to 12.00 gether in favor of this new bill, even .79 to 1.25 though it meets many of the old obfrom $5.00 up | jections. We recognize the concession from 15 00 up | it makes toward our position, and shall 6 75 to 25 00 partial hearing." Mr. Stevens is unable 1.25 to 5.00 to say whether or not he shall support

Senator Frye introduced the new bill 2 25 to 3 50 yesterday. It differs in form from the subsidy bill of the past two sessions. 4.50 It is divided into four titles and 15 sec-5.00 tions. The sections under the title 3.50 "ocean mail steamships" are devoted to amendments to the ocean mail act of 1891. The postmaster general is required to consider the national defense and the maritime interests of the United States, as well as postal interests, in providing for the transportation of American ocean mails.

The present limit of ocean mail contracts, 10 years, is increased to 15 years. The Frye bill provides seven distinct classes, in the rate of $6 to 20-knot steamers, increasing from 8000 to 10,-000 tons the minimum size; $3 for 16knot steamers, provided the size is increased from 5000 tons, the present minimum, to 8000 tons. The proposed maximum mail rates per gross ton per 100 nautical miles are: Over 10,000 tons-20 knots, 2.7 cents; 19 knots, 2.5 ents.

Over 5000 tons-18 knots, 2.3 cents; 17 knots, 2.1 cents; 16 knots, 1.9 cents; 15 knots, 1.7 cents.

Over 2000 tons-14 knots, 1.5 cents. Rates for mail steamers to the West Indies, Central America and Mexico cannot exceed 70 percent of the maximum rates.

The second title, "general subsidy," contains the general subsidy for all yessels, steam or sail which are not under mail contracts. This general subsidy is uniform-1 cent per gross ton per 100 nautical miles for not exceeding 16 entries in one year.

To promote the building of new ocean vessels an additional allowance of 1-4 cent per gross ton is made for five years. Any vessel to receive general subsidy must carry mails, if required, and must train in seamanship and engineering one American youth for each 1000 tons, the vessel to be at the service of the government if required for defense.

Any vessel to receive subsidy must be class A1 and at least one-fourth of the crew must be Americans. The bill provides an annual bounty of $2 a ton for deep sea fishing vessels and rency, and no trace of him has been discovered.

of $1 a month for American citizens when engaged in deep sea fisheries; that a vessel shall receive only one form of subsidy, and that a vessel which has received a subsidy shall not be sold to a foreigner except by consent of the secretary of the treasury.

THEY WERE TOO LIVELY Revivalists In a Boston Church Forced

to Seek Other Quarters

Boston, Dec. 10.-During last week a religious revival was held in the Park | Presented to the School Comstreet church under the direction of the Portsmouth Camp Meeting association. Because of the physical activities of the revivalists, the church body yesterday felt called upon to request a discontinuance of the services. The gatherings had, in the opinion of the church authorities, gone beyond the bounds of decorum. Yesterday afternoon the revivalists were told to secure other quar-

At first it was thought the church, having let its building for a revival at a stated price, would be unable to oust the revivalists, but after a very lively afternoon service the revivalists deeided to leave. This was after Rev. Dr. Withrow had made a personal appeal that they leave quietly.

One of the exhorters afterwards made in address full of condemnation of the church for turning out the revival. The crowd on the platform howled and two it up during a hymn. After singing a general call to prayer was made, and about 20 came to the front and knelt, and some even lay prostrate on the fisor, when the prayers began, and cries and groans went up. Women banged their heads on the floor and shrieked in frenzy. This performing the service, and then the leading exhorter said that the new meeting place would be announced in the papers. With this the crowd left the church and Park street church was closed against the association.

Many Cities Are Voting

Boston, Dec. 10.-Eighteen Massachusetts cities, including Boston, are holding elections today, and all but one will choose a chief magistrate. In the case of Medford, the present mayor, Charles S. Baxter, is a hold-over, and only a city government will be reelected. Besides voting for mayor, all the other cities will choose a city government, school committee and will also vote on the question of license and whether the city clerk shall in the future be elected for three years. The Democratic managers in this city claim that Patrick A. Collins will be elected mayor by 7000 pulrality, while the Republicans seem confident of re-electing Mayor Hart by about 3000.

PUNISHMENT OF A BOY

Was Alleged to Have Been Excessively Severe-Teacher Is Declared to Have Used No More Force Than Was Necessary and Justifiable

Taunton, Mass., Dec. 10.—On charges of excessive cruelty in punishing a pupil, made against Miss S. A. Wilbur, principal of the North School street school, the school committee held a hearing last night. The charge was that John F. Murphy, a son of Michael J. exhorters started a sort of reel and kept | Murphy, and a pupil at Miss Wilbur's school, was cruelly whipped and otherwise ill-treated by Miss Wilbur on Sept. 22 last. The boy was not present at the bearing.

The first witness was Dr. Murphy, who testified that he called at the Murphy house on Sept. 22, and found the boy in a very nervous condition, with ance was kept up until the hour for end- livid marks upon both legs. He said it was by his advice that the boy did not appear at the hearing.

Dr. Mehegan testified that five days after the alleged whipping he found bruises on the boy's body.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Murphy, who was the next witness, said that on the morning of Sept. 22 the boy came home, frothing at the mouth, and fell into her arms unconscious. When he revived, he told her he had been whipped by Miss Wilbur, while another teacher held him, until blood ran from his body. Miss Wilbur, he said, then compelled him to wipe the blood from the floor. She had also placed a clothespin on his lower lip. The boy's father, Mr. Murphy, said the boy had been in very bad condition ever since the alleged punishment. He would often wake from his sleep, screaming about it. The boy had been instructed by him not to allow the teacher to put a clothespin on his lips.

Theological Study Falling Off Princeton, N. J., Dec. 10.-Announce ment is made that the Theological seminary catalogue will be issued in two weeks. A striking feature is the falling off in the enrollment over previous years. In 1896 there were nearly 250 students enrolled and now the number is 133, being 23 less than last year's encollment. Dr. Warfield says the dedecline in the enrollment of students is noticeable in practically all the Presbyterian seminaries of the United States.

CARNEGIE AS BENEFACTOR Report That He Will Give a Large

Sum For a National University Washington, Dec. 10.-It is reported here that the Roosevelt administration is to be made memorable by the establishment of a great national university, and that Andrew Carnegie is the benefactor by whose generosity the institution will be set upon its feet.

It is, according to the story, to be entirely independent of government control, though undoubtedly the basis on which it will rest will be the use of the government's scientific, literary and artistic collections and facilities. This idea has been in many minds here for a long time. The obvious danger of giving a political atmosphere to the enterprise has prevented an appeal to congress, but George Washington's idea of a central university at which any Amercan youth can acquire the higher education has never been lost sight of, and those who have been most interested in its development have hoped almost against hope that some man of large wealth and unselfish patriotism would establish the foundation so as to give the institution a control independent of politics and at the same time a scope as proad as the union. The Post says that President Rooserelt has received a letter from Mr. Carnegie in which the latter offers to make donation of $10,000,000 to the United States for the project. The letter will be referred to congress by the president in a special message.

juggernant will pass on its devasting way. Is anything sacred?-Boston

It must be self-evident to those who know much about Massachusetts politics that the political laws wil those who obey the laws are put to a decided disadvantage by those who disobey. The honest candidate suffers from his respect for the law and the lishonest candidate profits by his defiance of and his contempt for it. In preference to such a condition of things, it would be better, perhaps, to have fewer laws and to enforce those that remain .- Boston Advertiser.

The municipal elections show a considerable recession of socialism in this state. M'LAURIN DEFENDS COURSE

Will Not Take Instructions From "Gentleman Who Presided Over Downfall of Democratic Party"-Gag Rule Cannot Stifle His Speech

Washington, Dec. 10.-The senate chamber was the scene of a highly dramatic episode yesterday, when Senator Tillman of South Carolina, challenged his colleague, Senator McLaurin, to resign with him on the spot in order, to use his own language, that they might be able "to wash their dirty linen

Mr. McLaurin did not take up the gauge. The incident was the direct sequel of the very bitter controversy which arose between the senators in South Carolina last spring. Mr. Mc-Laurin arose to a question of personal privilege yesterday and proceeded to explain what he charged was a conspiracy to discredit him in his own state for acts and views which did not meet the approval of certain Democratic leaders. He declared that he was being humiliated and, according to public prints, was to be excluded from the Democratic caucus because he had acted upon certain public issues in a way which he considered was for the best interests of Third 2 p.m. Pirst 18 p.m.

CIGARMAKERS DEFEATED In Fight Against Introduction of

Machinery In Their Trade

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 10 .- The convention of the American Federation of Labor was in session only two hours yesterday, adjournment being taken until today in order to enable the several committees to consider the large rumber of resolutions still in their hands. There was a lively discussion on the floor of the convention over the question of boycotting machine-made cigars. At the present time not a machine-made cigar in the United States, it is said, bears the label of the Cigarmakers' International union. The matter came up in the form of a resolution presented by company. The committee reported the resolution back, with the recommendation that the word "machinery" be stricken out and the resolution adopted. Then the cigarmakers opened their fight. They insisted that the term "machinery" should not be eliminated, and argued that cigars made by machinery are not as the machines drive hand cigarmakers

She was sick in Hamburg, where she had employment, and she had to undergo an operation in the Vereins hospital.

> "As soon as I can make some money I shall send for Johanna, and we shall be married. I met her first in Hamburg last winter, and there she promised to marry me. But we were poor. Her illness took all her money, and I could not have anything because I earned barely enough to pay for my

"'Why not go to America and earn noney and send for Johanna?' I thought. But how should I get to America? Steerage passage was 120 marks, and I never had more than 20 or 30 marks at a time. It was early in November that I began to think of sending myself to America in a box as freight. Where I got the idea I do not know. The more I thought of the plan the better it seemed. I have good self control. I was not afraid. I weigh only 130 pounds when I am in health. and I felt sure that I could easily be carried around without danger of being dropped or hurt. ship Palatia, Captain Reessing, would sail for America on the following Saturday. She would take fourteen days or less, they told me-perhaps only "For two marks I bought in a secondcharged. The troops were withdrawn | bought a few strips of thin stuff about and other things that are easily injured and which must not be put down in the box with me. For a few more pfennigs Newcastle-on-Tyne, Dec. 10.—Charley I bought four latches, or thumbscrews, to fasten the lid on to the box. I had no eyes for these latches to fasten in, but the storekeeper gave me eight nails, which I afterward drove against each other in loops like eyes. I carried the packing box home to my lodgings on the evening of Wednesday, Nov. 13. I told my landlady I was going to ship all my belongings over to America. My

> "I began to fit up the box on Thursday morning. A carpenter friend of mine lent me the tools. I cut up strips of the thin stuff for battens and nailed them on the inside of the box lid so that it was all solid like a door. Then I built the false bottom, or rack, on the box lid and put in it all my small belongings. I bought for 25 pfennigs a piece of thick, coarse cotton cloth 6 feet 6 inches long and 3 feet wide. 1 got an armful of hay in a stable and carried it home. I packed it in the bottom of the box for a bed and tucked the cotton cloth around it.

"I worked all day Friday and most of Friday night packing my clothes in the box and putting away the provisions carefully, so that I could find each article without difficulty. Then I told my landlady that I was going out, but that when the expressmen called she should During Sixteen Days In Ship's Hold. let them get the box from my room Felt Hands of Watch to Follow Then I went outdoors, but came in Nights and Days-Built Air Castles | again and reached my room without being seen. I watched until the expressmen came to the house. Then before they could climb up to my room on the third floor I got into the box and fastened the lid from the inside The expressmen called early. I heard them read the warning on the box lid 'Nicht sturzen,' which meant 'take care.' They carried me down the three flights of stairs with great care and put me in the wagon without shaking me up. I was comfortable in my box. They put me down carefully on the steamship pier.

"When I had lain on the pier a long time, the box was suddenly pushed over, and I could feel that a rope sling was being fastened around it. Then I heard a whistle, and I felt myself flying through the air. Another whistle, and I was sinking fast. All my seltzer bottles were along the floor of the left side of the case, tucked in beside the bedding, so as to save them, but when the men raised me up in the hold and piled my box on top of a big packing case they rolled it over for a moment on its side and let it drop a few inches. The jolting broke three of my seltzer bottles. That meant water for three days, but I still had eleven pints left, and I thought that would last. I don't think the men saw the water that leaked out. None of them said any thing about it.

"I knew I was piled up high on the top of the cargo of my deck. There was still a little light in my box-not real light, but grayness-that came through the cracks of the wood. About an hour after I was loaded on the ship I heard the men close the iron door of the bulkhead. Then I was in black darkness. Still I was comfortable. By bending my knees a little I could lie flat on my back.

"I could tell when night came. The noise of footfalls ceased in the steerage. When all was still, I could hear the men on watch walking about. could hear them talking-that is, could hear the tones of voices, but not the words-when one watch relieved the other. I invented a way to tell time. I took the crystal off my watch and felt the hands. When both hands were together at the top right under the chain ing, I knew it was 12 o'clock. If here were many feet scuffling about the deck, I knew it was midnight. Soon I learned to tell the hour hand from the minute hand. I could always discover the time within an hour or so. "I was asleep most of the time for the first two days and nights. One thing surprised me, the noise of the rats. I could hear them running over the cargo, heir claws scratching on the wood of the packing cases. They ran across my case, too, and scratched at it. I suppose they smelled food inside and wented it. I was afraid to make a noise to drive them away, because I did not want any of the sailors to hear me and drag me out. It was ghastly to hear the rats running around and squeaking while I was lying there in the dark like a rat caught in a trap. Still they did not gnaw at my box or try to attack me in any way

"How did I spend my time? By building air castles for Johanna and myself. 'Johann,' I said, 'you must find work in America. It is a rich country and every man who is willing to work hard can make a fortune. You will soon be there. If you can get work at your trade as a painter, good. If not, you are young and strong, and you can sweep the streets if necessary to make a beginning. When you get 100 marks. you can send for Johanna and marry her, and then you will both work hard rent was paid up to Saturday night, so and make a fortune, and some day you can go home and visit Germany for a few weeks, and you won't have to travel like this.' I was always building these air castles when I was awake. "It must have been on the thirteenth day that I found that I had not one drop of water left. Immediately my thirst began to torture me. I did not dream of streams and fountains, but I was asleep nearly all the time-a sort of dreamy doing. I was tempted to crawl out of my box and knock at the deck right above me for help, but I r 11 12 abc 11 32 said: 'No. If you knock, they will catch you and send you back to Germany You are almost in America now. Have courage for a little while.' I thought the voyage lasted fourteen days, but the people tell me I was sixteen days in the ship.

"I shall never forget the gleam of gray that came through the slits in the box when the stevedores opened the bulkhead and began to take out cargo from my part of the ship. I could not stand the thirst any longer.

"'Water, water!' I cried as I threw back the lid of the box and crawled toward the light. The longshoreman near me called out, but I was too weak to move farther or say anything. I lay there and moaned. When I again be came conscious, Captain Reessing and two doctors were taking care of me. Then I was brought to this hospital. "Sir, I have had nothing but kindness since I came to America. I ask the American people not to send me back to Germany. I am industrious and sober. I will work at anything to my manner of traveling to them was get a living. The result of the contest was fully as much a surprise to the Democrats as to their opponents. The most sanguine prphet in the Democratic ranks claimed but 7000 Monday night for Collins, yet this plurality was nearly tripled in the election yesterday, being 19,325. Last year Hart defeated Collins by 2281 votes, and polled something over This year the total Repu vote for mayor was a trifle over 33,000. the smallest given a party candidate for mayor since 1893, despite a registration of almost 5 percent larger. On the other hand. Collins received something over 52,000 votes, the largest given a candidate in the history of the city. Collins carried 18 of the 25 wards and was only beaten in the other 7 by a close margin. Among the Republican leaders, the weather came in for some of the blame, for it rained until after noon, and there were probably many supporters of Hart who stayed at home. But this could not account for the tremendous gains made by the Democrats in Republican wards and the great majorities rolled up in their own strongholds. It looked to a casual observer as if both parties worked hard in getting out the vote, and their combined efforts were certainly successful in getting over 80 percent of the registered voters to the

EAST AND WEST DISAGREE

On Phases of Protection In Regard to Sugar, Wool, Hides and Lumber -Effective Organization of Western-

Washington, Dec. 11.-For the first time in the country's history the tariff controversy is assuming sharply secional lines on the basis of east and west. The old northern and southern controversy over the tariff has disappeared through the political vanqishment of the south. Then it was a dispute between advocates of protection and its open opponents; now, the dispute is between two sets of protectionists, one seeking tariffs to promote eastern interests and he other western.

This dispute focuses about four aricles: sugar, wool, hides and lumber. The National Association of Beet Sugar nanufacturers is assemblying in the city to take action to checkmate the plans of President Roosevelt and Secretary Root for relieving the economic distress of Cuba, and to support Secretary Wilson's valorous efforts for the promotion of the beet sugar industry. It is becoming increasingly evident that western interests, of which this is one, will work in combination.

John W. Springer of Denver, president of the National Live stock association, who has just arrived here for the purpose of organizing a movement against any modification of the duties on wool and hides, intends to work with the beet sugar people, and other western interests are rapidly gathering here in readiness for whatever tariff skirmishes may

He says that any reduction whatever in the tariff on live stock products would mean the ruin of the stock-raising business, and "would raise a howl out of the west that would be heard clear to the blue Atlantic." Not content with letting existing tariff constitutions alone, he proposes to carry the war into the enemy's country by trying to secure the enactment of a law for the tagging of all finished woollen products with an official statement of the proportion of pure wool which they actually centain. This is to checkmate the practice made necessary by the extreme duties on wool. Mr. Springer hopes to push this scheme forward as

EXCLUSION OF CHINESE

Inanimously Favored by the American Federation of Labor Scranton, Pa., Dec. 11.-The exclusion of Chinamen, Japanese and other Asiatics from American territory. ticket scalping legislation and the advisability of adopting a universal label for union made goods, were the principal questions that claimed the attention of the delegates at yesterday's sessions of the American Federation of Labor. The resolutions advocating the exclusion of the Chinese were adopted by the convention with considerable hurran. but that part excluding natives of Japan ers Gives Them Promise of Success and other Asiatic lands was killed. The Pacific coast delegation led the discussion on Chinese exclusion, but were divided when it came to excluding other Orientals. The burden of the remarks of those opposed to the Japanese resolution was that Chinese immigration was the greater evil of the two and that to insist upon similar restrictive law to prevent a Japanese invasion may endanger the passage by congress of the Chinese act. The ticket scalping debate was lively. The delegates representing the railway telegraphens opened the fight against the resolution, making the point that such action was beyond the jurisdiction of the federation. When the viva voce vote was taken those in favor of permitting ticket scalping won by an overwhelming majority.

The agitation of a universal label was again defeated. The convention disposed of much routine business during the course of the day.

Are not educational institutions, in these days, growing too dependent upon endowments? The undue multiplication of unbought advantages, especially in the case of students whose every need is gratuitously met, must tend in the long run to the panperization of scholarship. - Zion's Herald.

Senator Hoar wants an island se lected to which the Anarchist may be sent. On Monday he introduced a resolution in the Senate to authorize the President to enter into negotia tions with other civilized countries for the purpose of selecting some island or other suitable territory to which might be transported and confined persons instigating or counseling the destruction of all government or those attempting the lives of chief magistrates. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. He is evidently in earnest about this matter, and it is a fact that not only this country but all other nations are in-

HINT FOR THE HOLIDAYS. Invite Your Bachelor Friends to

Your Christmas Dinner. Real purveyors of Christmas cheer may often find a market for their precious wares outside the pale of charity, for all homeless people are not necessarily poor, and neither are all childless homes necessarily unhappy. Housekeepers who are short on family having friends who are short on homes may combine these two lackings and make Christmas day a merry delight for the grown ups in spite of these unfortunate conditions. There is always something peculiarly pitiable in the idea of any one "flocking teaspoonful of salt in all. The bachelor had been invited to a Christmas dinner. His friend and his friend's pretty wife were just vying with each other in their efforts to dispel from his soul the gloom supposed to come to the man without a home upon this day above all others. They had wined him and dined him, and now that they were seated in the library facing the burning logs in the

Sensational Trial Recalled

Boston, Dec. 11.-Death closed the last chapter in the lives of two interesting characters when Maurice Fitzgerald, aged 50, and his brother, Edward Fitzgerald, aged 45, were found dead in bed at 37 Kneeland street yesterday. Their ending in a room of filth is a mystery to the physicians and to the police, and an autopsy will be held. There is no gas in the building and there were no marks of violence on either body. Maurice was a priest, but 15 years ago he was excommunicated by the present archbishop, having been condemned for violation of his priestly vows. He brought two suits against the archbishop-one to recover damages for alleged defamation of character and the other for money alleged to have been spent while a priest. Evidence was introduced against him of a most sensational nature and they lost both cases. Both kept up their persistent attack on the archbishop, however, and sought new trials. They lived together during the past 15 years, but their existence has heen a miserable one

Cuba Injured by the Opposition to Reciprocity

SITUATION IS NOW CRITICAL

Proposition That President Send ? Special Message to Congress Advis Measure-May Meet Opposition

Washington, Dec. 11.-The agitation In congress in opposition to reciprocity with domestic sugar producers against any such policy on the part of our government threatens to cause a deadlock at least between the clashing interests, and delays which may ruin the unhappy

It is doubtful whether General Wood has fully apprehended till very lately the real conditions in Cuba, which are quite apart from all questions of politics or government or sanitation or defense. He now seems to have come to a realization that the situation is critical; that the next step taken by this government may settle the fate of the new republic in advance, by giving it a fair start or sending it into bankruptcy. It is for this reason that a plan has been laid before President Roosevelt, and by him submitted to the cabinet, for a temporary or provisional measure whereby Cuba shall be permitted to send her present crop of sugar into our ports either free or at half the present rates of duty. The idea is to confine this measure to the crop on which grinding is just beginning and limit the period of its operation to say six months from the date of enactment. Such 'a concession to one season's product, it is argued, could not possibly jeopardize any American interest, and if it will be necessary to save Cuba from disaster it is believed that the sentiment of the people of the United States will be practically solid in its favor. If the administration find no impediment to such a course, it is proposed that the president send a special message to congress advising the enactment of a bill to the effect suggested, describing the impending ruin of all the small planters who have to harvest their crops with capital borrowed at extortionate rates of interest; calling attention to the fact that we are pledged by every consideration of justice and honor to help the new republic get safely upon its feet; and suggesting that to do away with all misunderstanding of the purpose and scope of this emergency legislation, it is specifically designated an act of grace and good will toward the people of Cuba at the very beginning of their era of freedom, and that future commercial relations letween the two countries be left to be settled at the discretion and convenience of congress. The objections thus far raised by mem 25th anniversary 400 members and bers of congress who have been ap-(1.) #### TAUNTS DERANGED HIM Haverhill Man Finally Killed Dis-

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 11 .-- A selfconfessed nurderer, John D. Mutch, 44 years old, of this city, is locked up, having shot and killed James Oakes, 31 years old, a shoemaker, last evening. The tragedy occurred at 6:35 o'clock and there was only one witness, so far as is known, that one being Mrs. Mutch, wife of the prisoner.

turber of His Domestic Affairs

The act is supposed to have been committed in a fit of jealous frenzy caused by Oakes' attention to Mrs. Mutch. The story of the latter is very ing Enactment of a Temporary vague. She even refused at first to admit that she had been a witness to the crime. The details as given out by the police are as follows: Mutch had heard of the attentions that several times he had become temporarily deranged. Last evening he went to the boarding house at the corner of Emerson and Oak streets, where Mrs. Mutch boarded, and looking in through a window he saw his wife in ompany with Oakes. He waited until they came out together, and then stepped out in front of them in the full light of a street lamp. A few hasty words were spoken by the men, Mrs. Mutch not taking part in the conversation. Suddenly Mutch drew a revolver and fired at Oakes, the bullet taking effect in the chest. At the sound of the shot a crowd quickly gathered, and a police ambulance was summoned, in which the wounded man was conveyed to a hospital. When the ambulance arrived there, however, Oakes was dead. After he had fired the shot, Mutch ran to the police station, where he gave himself up, stating that he had shot a man. As it was not then known how serious the outcome had been, Mutch was charged on the books with assault with a dangerous weapon. Later. when the news of Oakes' death was learned, the charge was changed to mur-

Swan Sues Town of Arlington

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 11.-Roland A. Swan, once clerk in the Arlington town treasurer's office, now serving a term in state prison, for embezzlement has brought suit against the town for recovery of certain property. The respondents are the selectmen and chief of police of Arlington.

Death Came Quickly

Malden, Mass., Dec. 11.-Mrs. Bertha Carter, a housekeeper for Charles Ramsdill, died yesterday of smallpox, after an illness of about 24 hours. Her illness was diagnosed yesterday as smallpox and the board of health quarantined the house. In a few hours the patient was dead. She was buried last night. She was 36 years old and a widow. Mr. Ramsdill, who is 75 years old, is the only occupant of the house.

Many Cases of Typhoid Fever Adams, Mass., Dec. 11.-Typhoid fever is almost epidemic here, yesterday's bulletin being 41 cases and one death. ## STUDENT'S DARING FEAT Climbed Up Dizzy Height While Yale Men Stood In Awe.

HAD ONLY THE SLIGHTEST HOLD,

J. A. Whitebead Scaled the Sheer Side of East Rock, a Four Hundred Foot New Haven Cliff-Fingers

The feat of W. S. Merrill, Harvard, '04, who ate three steaks, two mutton chops and two dishes of peas and drank two pints of apollinaris water and two cups of coffee the other night a hundred feet offers only the slightest hold for foot or hand, but Whitehead climbed to the top of it, where he fell almost exhausted, while the shouts of several hundred students and others who had gathered to watch his perilous ascent rang indistinctly in his

Whitehead risked his life in climbing the face of the precipice, for a misstep at any stage of his upward progress after he had gone twenty feet would undoubtedly mean death. He is regarded as a hero by his classmates and is looked upon wonderingly by the townspeople. Whitehead does not seem to think he has done anything very remarkable and is diffident about telling of his experience. An odd feature of the performance is that it was accomplished at night, when young Whitehead did not care to have too large a crowd watching him. He was prompted to try the ascent of the cliff by hearing other students telling of the impossibility of doing it.

Whitehead was with a party in the city that had been at a restaurant where liquid refreshments were imbibed freely. On the way home, as the party passed the Soldier's monument, one student remarked: . "I'd like to see the man who could elimb that rock," pointing to East rock "Would you?" said young Whitehead "Well, I'll gratify your desire." He thereupon approached the side of the cliff and began a laborious ascent. It is understood that he had intended to perform the feat before, but wanted to make it more remarkable by pretending it was impromptu.

Some of the students tried to dissuade Whitehead from making the ascent, but he only laughed at their warnings.

Slowly, inch by inch, the plucky student climbed. He would rest at every new foothold be got. Before he got up very far his fingers were torn and bruised by the rock, but he couldn' turn back even if he had wanted to which he didn't.

It was a weird picture, his tall form apparently glued to the side of the precipice and the crowd below watch ing with breathless interest made in the dark. The men watching White bead were almost afraid to move or talk, fearing that the slightest commotion would cause the student to lose his grasp on the naked rock.

Gradually the plucky young fellow more than 43 years as head master of | forged his way up. Fifty feet he got, and the crowd could hardly repress a cheer. Seventy-five feet he laboriously climbed, and then in a short time which seemed an age to the watchers, he reached the top and fell exhausted, while the shouts of the crowd below awakened the echoes of the night and drew many others to the scene.

His was the first performance, ac- r 11 12 abc 11 32 cording to the oldest inhabitants. Others in years gone have tried it, and in at least one instance the attempt has resulted fatally.

Mr. Whitehead, whose home is in London, has come to Yale to prepare for a course in civil engineering and will shortly enter the Sheffield Scientific school. He served with the British South African police during the Boer

He said modestly of his climb:
"I went to the summit by the road a, Wollaston, b, Norfolk Downs.

The rock for that height leans toward one, and with my fingers I had to hold girls between the ages of twelve on tightly to the 'edges and then lift myself up. Half way up there is a ledge of six inches width. I sat down on it and looked down. The scenery to be a time of perfect health. was so fine that I felt well repaid. The remainder of the climb to the summit was easier.

> "Twice I almost slipped and let go my hold. It was not easy, but I was surprised to be told that it had been considered impossible."

Scott's Emulsion is having Mr. Whitehead include the other the ascent of West rock, on the other side of the city, which is still more difficult to climb.

Friends of Ship Subsidy Proposition Looking Ahead

NEW MEASURE A LEVER

For the Purpose of Securing Amendments Ia the Direction of the Frye Bill of the Previous Congress Opposition of Westerners Overcome

Washington, Dec. 12.-Friends and opponents of the subsidy project are beginning to recognize as somewhat extraordinary the situation presented by the bill just introduced by Mr. Frye. If it becomes a law, its purpose, so far as its promoters go, will be to furnish a basis subsequently for the legislation which they really seek, but do not now find it expedient to ask for.. Mr. Frye has made no secret of his dislike, relatively speaking, of his present bill, or of the fact that his aim in drafting it was to secure something which would quiet the opposition of western Republicans in house and senate, and so make a start upon a course of subsidy legislation. This bill would not be worth fighting much for unless its passage were to furnish effective leverage for more satisfactory measures later. "his, t is believed, it will do. The present bill excludes ; ll fore'gn built vessels from the benefits of the subsidy instead of admitting a certain number on the duplication of their tonnage in American yards, the foreign vessels to receive half rates in the subsidy disbursements.

Now this strict limitation of the subsidy to American ships means that our foreign trade can grow no faster than the output of American shipyards permits. These are already overcrowded with business due to the rapid growth of coastwise and lake traffic and to government orders. It is a matter of years and not of days to construct shipyards and build ships. Any development under this provision would be exceedingly slow, and especially so since the subsidy on the freight carriers, based on miles and tonnage, is small.

It is privately argued, however, by friends of the measure, that if it passed, and contracts under it, though few in number, are made, it will be possible to go before congress in a few years, show the inadequacy of the present easure insist that we must make a success of the subsidy theory since we are committed to it, and thus get amendments. These would of course be in the direction of the Frye bill of the last congress, and along the lines which could not secure a majority vote as a direct proposition. This is the strategy of the present bill. Its advocates are like the boy who asked permission to go to see the circus procession in the belief that if once downtown he can manage to edge into the circus itself.

Another peculiarity of the new bill is that it is to a large extent an exemplification of the postal subsidy act of have generally regarded as a failure. sult in the addition to this country of a ocean. Their American line, which reof it. By special act, the American owners of the foreign built City of Paris and City of New York were allowed an American registry on these vessels on sentatives of the milkmen of this seccondition of constructing two similar ones in American yards. satisfactory Year For Lumbermen Banger, Me., Dec. 12.—The Penobscot tance of four miles down from Banger, and this port is closed until the spring of 1902. The winter in this region began very early, and the weather has een unusually severe from the first. All of the mills sawing long spruce are now closed, and the manufacturers are figuring up the results of the most unsatisfactory year in their business since

The extent of the misfortune to the Penobscot river millmen in the nonarrivel of the drives is shown by the survey figures for the year. In 1899 there were surveyed at the port of Bangor 181,000,000 feet of lumber, and in 1900 about 142,000,000 feet, while this year the amount is but 118,000,000 feet, the smallest since 1876. The outlook for 1902 is promising.

Notwithstanding the rather unfavorable weather conditions, snow having fallen ground was yet soft and the streams and swamps as dry as in an August drought, logging operations are progressing satisfactorily in most parts of the Penobscot region, and a large cut, probably about 200,000,000 feet, is ooked for. Even should the drives be a few weeks late there is a sufficient stock of this year's logs-about 30,000,-000 feet—to keep the mills going until the early brook drives get in, so that when the saws have been started next spring it is altogether likely that there will be no shutdowns until the close of

Stabbing Followed Drinking New Bedford, Mass., Dec. 12.-John Mowbray, a rag picker, was fatally stabbed at his home at the north end ast evening. The man who is suspected of the murder, an Italian, has disappeared. Several neighbors have been in the habit of meeting at Mowbray's nouse at night. The missing man has also been a frequenter of the house. He was there last evening and liquor was plentiful. A row started, during which Mowbray was stabbed twice in the left side. No trace of the weapon could be found. None of the members of the party can give a clear statement of the quarrel.

But One Charge Sustained Salem, Mass., Dec. 12.-The board of aldermen last evening gave their findings in the charges against the police force made by Mayor Hurley, and which were tried in public hearing about a month ago. The charge that Officers Hurley and Carr had an altercation at the police station was sustained. It was recommended that Carr be reprimanded and that Officer Hurley be fined a week's pay. The numerous other charges were not sustained. On request of Mayor Hurley the report was laid on the table till the next meeting.

In some of the cases mentioned the blacks were shot after to the depth of several feet while the an informal court martial, or upon being accused of spying, but in some instances Lord Kitchener indicates the natives were shot in cold blood in order to hide traces of the movements of the Boer commandos. The period covered by Lord Kitchener's statement is over one year.

Speaking at Glasgow last night Secretary of War Brodrick referred to Lord Kitchener's report on the shooting of caucuses and conventions by a fedof blacks by the Boers. Mr. Brodrick said this report made it perfectly clear that these murders were not committed in moments of passion, but were part of an organized system to cover the tracks of the enemy and to prevent possible information of their wherebouts.

Dealing with present aspects of the war, Mr. Brodrick said the Boers Lad accepted parole and broken it and there would be no repetition of such actions. Within recent weeks, he said, Boer commanders had shown less regard for the laws of war than up to the present time, and that these bandits would be fore long reach a crisis when they could no longer be treated as belligerents.

The speaker said the government was for no half measure in securing a settlement and that any fresh negotiations must emenate from the Boers. Mr. Brodrick confirmed the government's decision, already announced, to break up the unhealthy concentration amps and remove the overflow of concentrados to the coasts, where attempts would be made to provide them with nore permanent shelters. "Now that General Ian Hamilton is aere," cables the Pretoria correspon-

Has Precedence Over Senatorial Endorsement In Appointments Wasnington, Dec. 12.-President

Roosevelt made known his purpose a few weeks ago regarding appointments in the army, navy and insular service. Yesterday he expressed himself regarding judicial appointments, and while he made no suggestion that party considerations would be ignored in these as in the three classes before named, he did say that he would insist upon ascertaraed fitness, and not regard the senatorial indorsement as a finality.

The matter came up over an Indiana appointment which is believed to be displeasing to Mr. Fairbanks. When one of the White House callers ques London, Dec. 12.-Lord Kitchener's tioned him as to the selection of Judge Baker, the president replied that while stances in which natives have been shot the information and advice of senators by the Boers, and which involves the and representatives as to the qualiloss of 84 lives, was issued by the war fications of candidates in their respective states for the federal bench. he should see to it personally that the appointments were good ones. He then gave something of his estimate of the importance of an honorable and dignified judiciary.

The president has taken steps to disodge the Colorado federal officeholders from their places of prominence in the political organization. Responsible citizens of the state represented to bim some weeks ago that the manipulation eral officeholders' combination was doing the Republican party great injury there. Attended by Silver Republicans and Populists

TO CONFER FREQUENTLY

To the End That They May Agree Upon Main Features of Political Controversies-Dissatisfaction With Committee Assignments

cratic senators yesterday held their first caucus of the present session. Its purpose was to consider committee assignments, but the occasion was more than ordinarily significant because of the general attendance upon the caucus. All the senators elected as Democrats, with the exception of Senator McLaurin of South Carolina, were present, as were all the senators who were elected as Silver Republicans or Populists. All the independents, except Senator Teller of Colorado, had entered the Democratic caucus held just before the adjournment last March, but Senator Teller then remained away. He was present, however, at vesterday's conference and participated in the proceedings.

The caucus was called at the instance of Senator Jones of Arkansas, who stated that he had thought it possible that the new senators might want to make some change in the officers of the caucus. There was, however, a general expression of satisfaction with the pres-Third 2 p.m. Quarter 18 p.m. ent officials and Senator Jones was reelected unanimously chairman of the caucus. ### DAY OF HOT DEBATES

Over Subjects of Interest to the Labor World

THE COLOR LINE COMES UP

Resolution Compelling Local Unions Affiliated With Federation to Join Central Labor Bodies Is Defeated-Socialistic and Other Matters

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 13.-Much life was infused in yesterday's proceedings of the convention of the American Federation of Labor. Although much business was disposed of, there was considerable time consumed in speechmaking. The negro problem in the south, as far as it relates to unionism, was unexpectedly injected into the proceedings, and the long standing conflict between the socielist and trade unionists promised to monopolize the attention of the delegates had the socialists replied to the trade unionists. The question of organizing common laborers into a national union and that of throwing out of all organizations allied with the city, state and national or international unions if they refuse to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor were also vigorously debated.

The socialist incident came up during the discussion of a committee report endorsing most of the recommendations contained in Mr. Gompers' annual re-

D. H. Hayes of Philadelphia, national president of the Glass Bottle blowers, and Max Hayes of the Cleveland Central Labor union, a socialist, made speeches strongly urging the enforcement of laws prohibiting child labor. The latter, during his remarks, read a long list of decisions rendered by federal and state courts against organized labor. A motion to have the list printed in the minutes brought forth a passionate speech from President Gompers. He said it was unfair to incorporate the list in the minutes in that way and suggested that a list of the trade union victories should be printed along with it. He concluded by denouncing the "attempt to show that trade unionism is a failure," and characterized it as an outrage.

A motion was defeated after W. B. Wilson of the Miners' union had spoken along the same lines as Mr. Gompers and the recommendations of the presiwere adopted, except the one re committee's suggestion that the fund be raised by national and labor unions instead of by the American Federation of Labor was adopted.

The negro question came up when the committee on law reported a resolution compelling all local unions affiliated with the federation to join the central labor bodies in their respective localities. William Clay, one of the two colored delegates from Virginia, made the point that the federation, in deciding a contested seat where the color line was brought into question, had authorized the creation of a separate central union in Richmond for colored

The resolution was debated for more than an hour by many delegates. Charles C. Reckard of Anniston, Ala., made the principal speech in opposition. He said the proposition would compel white unions to take in the i.egroes, and, if adopted by the convention, 90 percent of the unions south of Mason and Dixon's line would secede from the federation. He declared the people of the north did not understand the negro problem. The resolution, on recommendation of the committee on law, was defeated.

Two resolutions were reported on the question of organizing the common laborers into large unions, and both were recommended to be sent to the executive council.

The Pacific coast delegates fought among themselves the proposition to drop all unions from state, national or international unions unless they join the American Federation of Labor. The measure was particularly aimed at the San Francisco building trades, which is at odds with the central labor union of that city. The committee on law recommended that the matter be dropped on the ground that such a step would be unwise, and the convention adopted the resolution.

J. H. Bowman of Chicago presented a resolution instructing the president of the federation to protest against the confirmation by the United States senate of the appointment of Frank E. Baker as United States circuit court judge in Indiana. The reason for the protest is that Baker is a son of Judge John E. Baker of Indianapolis, who has granted injunctions against some union workmen.

Among the resolutions adopted were these: That legislatures be petitioned to enact a law to compel the constructors of machinery to cover all dangerous parts in such a way as to protect employes working around machinery. That no boyeotts shall be declared until central labor unions have investi. First-class Job Printing, Patriot office. rest created a sensation.

Move For Its Reorganization Has Strong Backing

Endorsed by Leading American Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade-Bureau to Keep Organization In Touch With Congress' Work

Washington, Dec. 13.-The meeting of prominent business men from all over the United States to urge legislation for capable of accommodating the crowd the reorganization of the consular serof Maso adherents. Several thousand vice is a much more important movement that might be guessed from the false report was returned to the insmall space granted it in the newspapers. The agitation, is not confined to the bodies immediately represented at this meeting, but extends through the entire-commercial fabric in the country at large.

Not only all the leading American chambers of commerce and boards of trade, but a large number of lesser degree, have publicly indorsed what is thorities say that yesterday's gale and known as the "chambers of commerce snowstorm caused the worst breakdown | bill" which is the Lodge bill with a few modifications, but 12 of the most important commercial bodies in 12 of the principal cities appointed delegates to attend the present meeting and give the reform a start.

Mr. Lodge will introduce the modified bill in the senate, and either Mr. Hill of Illinois or Mr. Burton of Ohio will introduce it in the house. The chief feature in which the modified bill differs from the current version is in the restoration of the civil commission to the place in the board of examiners which it held in the first Lodge bill, but from which it was stricken in committee dur-

Harry A. Garfield of Ohio is at the head of the central organization for the support of the new measure, with Gustave H. Schwab and John H. Ela of Chicago as vice presidents. Mr. Ela will give way presently to a representative of some large commercial body in one of the gulf cities, so that all geographical sections may figure actively in the work. A bureau will be maintained here, with a clerk in charge to keep the organization constantly in touch with the progress of the work in congress. The only agressive opposition looked for in the house is from Mr. Adams of Pennsylvania and his following. Mr. Adams has a bill of his own, which would have been better than none, as an entering wedge, but which is in no sense abreast of present needs. Mr. Adams' bill is a mere tentative skeleton measure; whereas the bill to which the chambers of commerce are committeed is a scientifically drawn measure of reorganization. It has been prepared with the aid of experts possessing a full knowledge of the needs of the consular service from all points of view.

Descent on Policy Joints

New York, Dec. 13.-President Moss of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, and F. N. Goddard, head of the anti-policy society, with a force of agents and detectives, descended on three alleged policy shops on the west side yesterday, capturing 18 prisoners and a quantity of paraphernalia and other evidence deemed important. Alfred J. Adams, who is called the "policy king," was arrested. All of the prisoners were held for examination Satur-

MONEY TO BE RETURNED Mail For Three Boston Concerns

Come Under Fraud Orders Boston, Dec. 13.-Acting Postmaster General Johnson has issued an order debarring J. M. Fisher & Co., the Cobb-Everett Investment company and the Bankers' and Manufacturers' agency, all of Boston, from further use of the mails, "for operating through the mails schemes devised for obtaining money under false or fraudulent pretences." "The scheme operated by these concerns," says the report of Assistant Attorney General Tyner, "was Cevised for the purpose of securing remittances for the nominal purpose of investing the same in stocks. Large returns were promised, and when references as to the standing of one concern were requested, it would refer to one or both of the others. Evidence was presented that no investment of the money was made, but that it was retained by the concern to whom it was sent, and a vestor that his money had been lost in speculation," On this representation the fraud order was issued.

Two thousand letters for these three firms, many of them with money enclosures, have accumulated in the Boston postoffice since Oct. 28, when the temporary fraud order was issued prohibiting the delivery of mail until further action could be taken by the postoffice department in Washington. In every case where a correct address accompanies the money enclosure the noney will be returned to the sender through the ordinary process. The issuance of the permanent fraud order gives the local authorities power to begin immediately the return of this mail. Four-fifths of it, if not more, has the addresses of the senders stamped or written on the envelopes and all of that will be returned directly to them. The remainder will have to go to the dead letter office in Washington, unopened.

LONDON STYLE SKYSCRAPER Will Be Eight Stories With Twelve In the Center.

Victorian buildings, as it is suggested the new structures shall be called, will have no counterpart in this country (England) while reproducing features that are common in America, modified, however, to suit English requirements, says the London Telegraph. On the ground floor level there will be a wide passage, giving access to a central rotunda or rendezvous under a lofty dome. Twelve hydraulic lifts will be placed in the rotunda, an additional of the premises. From the rotunda proceed at right angles passages or arcades, intersecting others, eight in number in all, and these, in conjunction with two much broader arches, commodious shops and offices. The main idea is to make a new shopping

of Paris, Brussels and in our own coun-

Above this shopping floor will rise to the height of the first roof of the main facade eight stories; but, falling some way back from the street in the center of the block and supporting the dome, there will be four more stories. From their position these could not obstruct the light of the street. No American workmen will be employed. The American scheme embraces many advantages without extra charge. Everything is to be included in the rent-electric lighting, hot and cold water, telephone and cleaning. USED BY NEWSBOYS IN MANILA,

Some Interesting Observations by Frank M. Kiggins on the Results of Civil Service Examinations In the Philippines-Regulation of Salaries and Privileges In the Service.

Frank M. Kiggins of the Philippin civil service board, who has returned to Washington, speaks very interest ingly of the condition of the service in the islands, says the New York Post.

The merit system has been well es tablished there, but, of course, is subject to the usual inequalities and crude nesses of such enterprises in their experimental stage. Both whites and natives have been admitted to public employment through the competitive examinations. The difference between the races appears most plainly in the character of work each is naturally best fitted to do. The natives are clever at tasks which are essentially mechanical. Many of them are skilled penmen, for instance, and in drafts manship they excel, but in matters requiring sound discretion or technical knowledge they are deficient. Their work of any sort in which precision is of chief account has to be scrutinized with especial care. A pretty good evidence of the stage of clerical efficiency In other branches of business men reached by the Filipinos is the record and women of equal intelligence and of the examinations up to and includ-Should City Enlarge the additional and exhausting, with few of those natives who applied none passed ability work at callings fully as ing May 31 of the present year. The while the more intelligent and better School Committee and Council should deed, the only classes of natives who could be of any use in clerical places understand Spanish, and most of these are studying English also with great industry. All official records and proceedings, of course, are in English. and our tongue is spreading over the more thickly populated parts of the islands with such rapidity that the coming generation, if the Philippines continue under control of the United States, will have a good practical command of it. Even the newsboys now cry their papers in the streets of Manila in English, and the natives generally seem to delight in practicing gles, to break away. Not long ago, for instance, several ex-soldiers of the United States army were called upon to resign places worth $60 a month to make room for native employees at $12.50. To the native this was a pretty large salary, the figures under Spanish rule ranging from $6 upward. But they found predecessors. But it is necessary for him to go away from time to time and refresh himself with a taste of life in another climate. The annual leave for the higher grades of the service is thirty-five days, and it is cumulative, so that any clerk who feels that this period will be too short for his full recuperation may save up his vacations for two or three years and go to the United States for his recreation. The favorite vacation countries within easy reach are China and Ja pan. In the lower grades the vacations have been made shorter because the natives who fill these places are in the same climate in which they have grown up. They need no change, only a respite from work. It is not expected that the present inequalities along race lines will continue indefinitely. When Filipinos fill most of the places, there will be no

VOTE COMES NEXT MONDAY

On the Acceptance or Rejection of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty-Democrats Question Republicans as to the Attitude of the Government

Washington, Dec. 13.-The senate agreed yesterday to take a vote before aljournment next Monday on the new Hay-Pauncefote treaty for the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and the opening of the way for the construction of a canal across the Isthmus of Panama by the United States. This agreement was reached after four hours of debate sufficiently interesting to insure the constant attendance of most of Senator Spooner had just concluded when Senator Lodge made an effort to secure a vote. It developed that there were other senators who desired to be heard, the result being that the date for the vote was postponed until Monday The understanding is that as soon as practicable after the senate convenes on that day Senator Lodge shall move an executive session and that the treaty shall have the entire attention of the senate until a final vote is reached, before the adjournment for that day.

Senator Foraker was frequently interrupted by Senator Bacon. In the course of one of these interruptions, Mr. Bacon asked if it was not true that under the terms of the treaty the construction of fortifications by the United States would be an act of war.

Mr. Foraker replied in the negative. declaring that not only would such an act not be an act of hostility. but that to build fortifications in case of necessity was one of the inherent rights of the government. To this Mr. Bacon responded that he for one would never bring himself to vote for the ratification of the treaty with the understanding that his government was to violate it.

If you are ever at this time of year up on the Old Passadanky sit down at the Buckhorn tavern, select any one of the grizzled woodsmen you will find already sitting there, exchange a dime at not too infrequent intervals for a certain tipple that is popular with the natives and is called rum and tansy, and refer inquiringly to Old Beelzebub, the remarkable bear of Spook Run gully and the amazing Christmas present he made to one Paley Simco.

As the story goes, the oldest settlement in all that part of the original wildwood was at Passadanky. The deep gully and the creek that roared through it were there when the first settlers came. Neither had any name, and it was not until folks began to see ghosts along the creek and in the gully that appropriate nomenclature for them was suggested. Silas Grubb, so they will tell you, shot a deer one day. It fell, and he stepped up to it to cut | man: its throat. But the reason this feat of Bill Topson's has particular place of honor in the chronicles of Old Passadanky is because it was the culmination of the career of Old Beelzebub as a wonder working bear. When that bear was less than a year old, Jephtha Wiggins, the pelt gatherer, killed its father and mother and chased the orphan cub for days, with the hope of adding its pelt to the other two, but failed in his purpose. After awhile that orphaned bear returned to the vicinity of its old home, and, as everybody will tell you up there, it came back with a grudge against Jephtha Wiggins.

"That b'ar came back," they will say, "and if he hadn't 'a' come, there'd a been more sheep and pigs along the Old Passadanky than there was for the next three or four years. And he was so overpowerin' full of Satan that folks give him the name of Old Beelzebub. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

It seems that Jephtha Wiggins was gun himself to load the pesky b'ar with Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 15-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.-Imperialism of Christianity.-Dan. ii

> Imperialism is "the spirit of empire." An empire consists of a number of kingdoms united together under one government and one ruler, usually called an emperor. The confederation of the German states is called the German empire and the title of the ruler emperor. Though the British ruler is called a king—the king of England called a king-the king of Englandyet the government of Great Britain including, as it does, many kingdoms and states under it, is justly called the British empire. In these senses Christianity has "the spirit of empire" and is an imperialism (though the word is not a happy one) in character. The kingdom of God in this world embraces all peoples, nations, kindreds and tongues and is ruled by God Himself.

God's kingdom is to be an everlast ng kingdom. "And in the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom which shall never be destroy ed." The kingdoms of this world are temporal. They rise and fall. They wax and wane. Egypt, Babylon, Greece, Rome, are names of empire that, though once they were great and powerful, have long since lost their glory and their power. Citizenship in them was once a coveted privilege, but today it has no attractions. Not so will it be with the kingdom of God-God's kingdom is eternal in character and the value of citizenship in it will only increase with the passing of the God's kingdom is to be a worldwide kingdom. It is to overcome all opposi tion to it by winning or destroying all nations opposed to it. It "shall break in pieces and consume all these king doms," and its head "shall have do minion from sea to sea and from the river to the ends of the earth." Citi zenship in so called worldwide empires has always been greatly prized and es teemed. Roman citizenship was once a most coveted prize, yet the Roman empire included but a small portion of the earth, and the privileges it offered to its citizens were as nothing compared to those offered to the citizens of the kingdom of God. The desirabilty, therefore, of belonging to God's kingdom should be apparent to all, and we should allow nothing to deprive us of heavenly citizenship.

Citizenship in the kingdom of God is free and accessible to all. "Whosoever will may come" and enroll himself under the banner of the cross and take the oath of allegiance to heaven's King and become a subject of His kingdom. Enrollment in God's kingdom is voluntary. God forces none to come under His rule. His soldiers are volunteers. By the gracious teachings of His word and influences of His spirit He strives to show us what is His will and for our good in the matter, but the choice s left with us. None should hesitate in this choice. By faith in Christ and consecration of our lives to God we should take our place in His eternal and universal kingdom.

THE PRAYER MEETING. Have a special address on the topic. BIBLE READINGS

Loyalty is a characteristic that we admire. Loyalty to the country of our Mrs. Cobwigger-Oh, Henry, how nativity, to our city, to our families you could see that I am completely strength of character and unwavering allegiance. The same characteristic in our Christian life makes us of more value to the cause of Christ and fills our own hearts with the realization of our privilege in being allied with such a kingdom. Loyalty to the vows we make in our constant endeavor to live up to them, loyalty to the life we profess to live, in our dying unto sin and living unto righteousness, loyalty to the church, with which we are associated in our efforts to strengthen and maintain it, loyalty to Christ as our Master, as well as our Saviour, that His will may be ours, is not only a duty, but a privilege of the Christian.-Presbyterian.

Aphorisms.

Self denial for the sake of either self or denial is but cutting the hands off the spiritual body to increase its working power.

A blessing must be shared before it BOOKS, will be repeated. God's gifts bless as they are received; they bless twice as they are im- BY-LAWS, more by bestowing. To repress love is to dwarf it. To CIRCULARS, express love is to double it. Real spiritual rest is found only in PLACARDS, motion. Hitch your wagon to a star, but not to a fixed star. God's nobleman is he who ennobles man.-Rev. John E. Pounds, D. D., in FLYERS, Christian Endeavor World.

Hard on the Friends.

A misery told is a misery shared. We cut our cares in two and force our friends to help us bear them. The process may be unpleasant, but the complainer considers no interests save those of his own. Having complained, he has forced another to become a partner in his firm.-Presbyterian Journal.

Make a Business of It. Make a business of religion. To this end estimate "What will it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"-Philadelphia Methodist.

MOODY CAUSES A STIR

By Proposed Investigation of State Constitutions

SOUTHERNERS CONFERING

To See What Can Be Done In Oppostion-Likely to Lack Sympathy of Northern Democrats In Their Efforts to Disfranchise the Negro

Washington, Dec. 14.-Wide misapprenhension exists as to the relation of the Moody and the Crumpacker resolutions for dealing with the southern representation problem. It has been assumed that they amounted to practically the same thing, when in fact they are almost opposites, as may be seen by the effect of the two on the southern members. Mr. Crumpacker's resolution assumes without further inquiry the disfaranfixed fact, and proceeds to apply a reduction of representation accordingly. Mr. Moody's resolution is one of inquiry as to the constitutionality of the southern constitution, presenting reduction of representation only as an alternative in case the south is found to have been ingenious enough to accomplish these disfranchisements without violation of the federal instrument. He is not willing to take for granted that the existing southern plans are necessary or to accept the situation as something with which the federal laws must be put into harmony.

Southern Democrats have never been afraid of the Crumpacker resolution because they could at once ask the northern representatives how they know the extent of unconstitutional disfranhisement and what they proposed to do. The Moody resolution, however, has stirred them to united action and conferences are already in progress. Mr. gave up a place on the ways and means committee to go on the committee on rules, did so, it is understood, for the purpose of leading this opposition. The southern men as a rule realize the terms of the Louisiana constitution much better than do the northern men, and are less inclined to have its meaning laid bare in congressional debate. They fear that they cannot hold their northern Democratic associates in a contest over inquiry into the Louisiana instrument which is merely typical.

John R. Thayer, for example, for a Democratic member from the Worcester, (Mass.) district, is not certain that he shall follow Underwood in this battle. Mr. Thayer says that the stupidity of the southern people in bringing it so squarely before the attention of congress passes all bounds. He thinks they could have found ways of "controlling" the negro vote without flying in the face of the federal constitution. He believes the Louisiana constitution would be so held by the supreme court, and that this should be the settlement of

The attitude of the southern Repubicans is always interesting in such controversies. They are much more favorable to action on lines now proposed than they were toward the force bill of a decade ago. Representative Dayton of West Virginia typifies their feelings. He says that while his state is now Republican, if there should be a "slip up" another year, the Democrats would probably utilize their new power to eliminate the negro just as has been done in Maryland. Dayton is accordingly very earnest for action on the Moody resolution.

The house Republican caucus on the subject will be held after the holidays, when both Moody and Crumpacker's proposals will be submitted by their authors. As the former's plan is the more conservative of the two, it will doubtless receive the support by preference of those Republicans who want to do nothing at all, and hence the chances of its success are good.

Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Tradesays: Itismost | Said to Have Brought Death fortunate that the vagaries of speculation are not always deleterious to legit imate business. Railway stocks fell sharply, yet full returns for November show that earnings were 11.5 percent greater than in the same month last year, and 18.1 percent over those of 1899. Industrial and traction shares were even more violently disturbed, yet the manufacturing plants of the nation were never more fully occupied.

Numerous labor controversies have been settled, and the rate of wages is at. the highest point ever attained. Retail distribution is of massive proportions, with dealings in holiday goods the conspicuous feature. This class of business so far surpasses all previous records that it alone gives an unmistakable indication of the nation's prosperity, even if other more definite measures were not available. Records of clearings, however, express the situation with exactness.

Conditions in the leading industry are still more strikingly promising. Despite the full engagement of most steel mills well into next year, the week has chisement of the colored population in brought a large amount of new business, the southern states, accepting it as a particularly in railway equipment. Raw materials in the footwear industry advanced still further, while the poorer quality of hides at this season makes the actual difference greater than the mere alteration of a fraction would indicate. Leather is also firmer, but shoe manufacurers are nuable to secure ommensurate gains because some shops still have contracts for material at old prices and are able to hold quoations to jobbers at former figures. It was transmitted to the English races of today directly from the Druids of ancient Britain, who believed that if a house ing them from winter frosts would aso protect the dwelling from harm.

As a Festival.

In its aspect as a religious celebration Christmas entered into rivalry with the pagan festivals of the winter solstice in

Of these the most popular and the most deemed it wise to give Christians an opportunity to make merry no less than their heathen neighbors and established the celebration.

Christmas In the Orient.

It is a strange but significant fact that the natives of India-Hindoos and Mohammedans-call Christmas the great day of the year, "Burra-din" (literally "great day"), thus unwittingly bearing testimony of the influence of the Babe of Bethlehem, the world's Redeemer. No one knows the origin of this Hindustani phrase. The Hindoos have a great many festivals and celebrate the birthdays of several of their gods and goddesses, espe-Deputy Marshal Hopkins, where she was going to be in the evening, some of the Sanfordites went to the house and great day." Of course this expressive phrase in India is a constant argument in stroyed the medicine left by the at- favor of Christianity. Christmas is indeed a great day in India. People begin preparing for it three months beforehand. Merchants send to London or Paris for dolls, toys, sweetmeats, Christmas cards and a great many other things. Native shopkeepers lay in a large supply of raisins, almonds and all sorts of material for cake and pastry; butter and eggs grow dearer and dearer. The courts adjourn and European banks are closed for the holidays; visits among friends (there are very few foreigners in India who have relatives there) are planned, and great preparations are made for the festive sea

The native people, of course, do not celebrate Christmas. They know that Christians do, however, and this simple fact, so constantly observed, causes them to think about the power of Christianity.
Many are led to ask: "Who was Christ?
What did he do? Why do the Christians observe his birthday?" These inquiries call forth various answers: discussion follows, and thus the whole nation, with be taken against the Holy Ghost and its many millions of people, is thinking and talking about the world's Saviour.

The Dinner Table.

The Christmas dinner table should be appropriately and prettily decorated with evergreens, holly, a bunch of mistletoe hanging below the chandelier and sprays of wintergreen everywhere they can be tucked. Roses and chrysanthemums seem to be the favorite flowers. Wherever ribbons are used let them be of a rich, bright red, for that is a warm and glowing color, and especially fashionable this season. Branches of holly placed tastefully among the draperies of an apartment add much to its cheerful feast day appearance.

As the writer remembers him during those years it was seldom that any order was passed without his voice being heard for or against the measure. It was Mr. Fallon who made the great fight for the grooved girder rail for the street cars against the Trail. If anything Mr. Fallon's oratory has improved since those days, and he will doubtless be heard from frequently next year. He was born in Quincy July 16, 1856, and has always made his home here. He is a member of the firm of John Fallon & Sons, contractors and teamsters.

HERBERT J. POLK

The new member of the City Council from Wollaston was born in New Vienna, Ohio, in 1861 and is a son of Rev. R. T. Polk, a well known Univeralist clergyman who has often filled the pulpit of the Quincy Universalist church. In 1876 Mr. Polk removed from Ohio to Methuen, Mass., where he was graduated from the High school in the class of 1880. In October, that same year, he came to Boston and entered the employ of Jordan, Marsh & Co. He followed this line of business for five years, and then entered an umbrella manufacturing concern with whom he remained for nine year. For the past six years he has held a position with the Old Colony Trust Co. Ten years ago he came to Quincy and has since made this city his home. He has never been active in political affairs, and the office of Councilman is the first public office he has ever held. He is married and has three

Charles F. Pettengill has issued very pretty calendar.

The residence of Henry E. Emerson on Chestnut street is being connected with the telephone exchange.

Several stores have agreed to keep open every evening until after Christmas, as will be seen by advertisments.

Albert Keating, of Ward Two, is getting quite a reputation as a vocalist and his services are constantly in demand. Former Mayor Charles H. Porter was at the head table at the banquet of the National Civil Service Reform League at Hotel Brunswick, Boston, last evening.

The boys got a pretty good joke on the janitor of Faxon hall, dedicated to total abstinence, during the recent rumage sale. They simply erased the last four letters from the placards on doors, "making them read: "Rum Sale.

CHRERERERERERERERERERERE VIII.—Nathaniel P. Willis and The National Period Bayard Taylor.

HERE are names in the history of any literature which become faint echoes of their former importance. Once they were shouted by the multitude; now they are recalled as having a half familiar sound and suggesting further inquiry. If a popular vote had been taken in the second quarter of the century for the most widely admired writer of emotional verse and of light and graceful prose Nathaniel Parker Willis would have received the majority of suffrages. He was another New Englander who drifted into the literary coterie of New York in the years when it was the center of attraction for young writers. Born in Portland, Me., with the advantages of a publisher for a grandfather and the editor of a religious paper for his father, the young student at Yale illustrated the law of heredity in his college course by writing poems almost as precedious as Bryant's and of far greater emotional power. To be sure they were Scriptural in tone, but tradition has it that this was not due to an overreligiousness on the part of the poet himself. Yet the same may be said of Young's "Night Thoughts," that solemn book over which our fathers used to pore and fall asleep in blissful unconsciousness of the somewhat worldly mindedness of the courtly author. Still, there is no good reason why the product of a poet's best impulses should not be taken for what it is worth to the reader in reproducing similar emotions in his own mind. Biography may explain literature, but it need not necessarily qualify it. Accordingly these "Scripture Sketches" of the college youth may be allowed to stand for those better moods of reflection and aspiration which alternate with academic surplusages of animal spirits, for whose effervescence no gymnasium was supplied at Yale in 1825. As offsets to what then took the place of athletics in various devices for keeping a high temperature in the old town Willis could write such verse as "Absalom" and "Jephtha's Daughter."

Literature did not offer so many paths to a college graduate turned loose 75 years ago as in these latter days. Then it was a confident or desperate youth who dared to trust to the pen for a living. Willis, however, had been commended for his college pieces and had won a publisher's prize of $50 for the best gift book poem. With this send off the recent graduate undertook the editorship of a series of volumes published by that Peter Parley to whom sundry American authors of distinction owed their bringing out. Then The American Magazine was established, to be finally merged into the New York Mirror, to which Willis con tributed editorial letters during two years' travel in the old world. These "Pencilings by the Way" were the first valuable specimens of the abundant literature of American travel, often more interest ing to the writer than the reader. This writer, however, had the crayon quality in his pen and could put life and picturesqueness into worn paths and dull statistics. Besides, he was favored with passports as an attacke of the American minister at Paris, giving him access to courtly circles in Europe and the east. With these facilities the record of travel made by such an observer was a revelation to those even who had been over the ground and a delight to these who had not. The sale of the "Pencilings" was greatly increased by a virulent review in The Quarterly, and a personal article by Captain Marryat occasioned a meeting for satisfaction.

Four years of residence abroad satisfied this travel and society loving American for awhile, and he took up his abode far from cities and men in his cottage at Glenmary, on the Susquehanna, where he wrote the "Letters From Under a Bridge." Then came the financial reverse which in so many instances has been the spur to easy going loiterers along the highway of letters, driving him back to New York and to work on The Corsair, a weekly journal which had the distinction of employing Thackeray as a contributor before he had grown so great as in the days of "The Newcomes." This paper was soon abandoned for The Evening Mirror, the demands of which undermined his health, resulting after a third voyage to Europe in the establishment of The Home Journal and insuring a more moderate pace in literary labor.

The above particulars have been mentioned to illustrate the life of a man of letters in the second generation of the century. It was the period between the news letter and the journal, with the permanent magazine in its present form still in the distance. Whatever was printed was necessarily brief or cut into short sections if a long story, entailing the reader's impatience or expectancy. A volume of such brevities had usually the same choppy character, with the advantage of being laid down and taken up at odd intervals, a point in favor of a fragmentary and discursive author like Willis. Yet in the course of a lifetime he produced many volumes. To read one-half of them would be worse than a waste of time. People did not lose many hours at a time over them when they were published, since they came out for the most part in weekly installments. On the other hand, if one were stranded in the country with "Hurrygraphs" or "Outdoors at Idlewild" or "People I Have Met" or "Famous Persons and Places" for his only reading he would find more hours pleasantly occupied than with some more pretentious books. The range is wide over many lands, scenes and celebrities. Much light is thrown upon contemporary history. The manners of a bygone period in letters and politics in our own country are graphically depicted. Life in other and older lands is contrasted with the simplicity of republican ways and the scenery of the unbroken wilderness with the artificiality of landscapes that had absorbed the labor of generations-to take a few titles at random from a single volume. beginning with letters from Plymouth, Cape Cod, the Delaware, the Hudson, on Edward Everett, Calhoun and Benton, Fenimore Cooper, Daniel Webster, Irving, Whipple, society and manners in New York, shawl aristocracy and a score of similar home topics about which everybody was surprised to find how much Willis could tell them. He had an artist's eye to see the picturesque in familiar objects and the artist's touch to bring out the unexpected beauty or interest of the commonplace.

One of those who were always ready to acknowledge indebtedness to his literary hospitality was Bayard Taylor, a Pennsylvania youth who was blessed with visions of authorship and travel and troubled with scant means and opportunities. He acquired enough Latin at school to give him a clew to the romance languages and obtained the technical education of a printing office. To these he added the larger education of a literary tramp in foreign countries, writing letters to newspapers for his support, and after two years returned to New York for fresh orders. The metropolis was still keeping good its title to the purest literary atmosphere in the country, if not the highest. What remained of the old Knickerbocker school was doing fair work, and new material was added from time to time. Aside from those already spoken of were Morris, Hoffman, the Duyckincks and "certain women of their company," besides sundry Bohemian encampments on the borderland between aspiration and performance, all together causing some one to define the Knickerbocker school as "composed of authors whom we all remember as forgotten." To the survivors Willis, Griswold and Hoffman introduced Taylor, and within three months he had

Taylor. engagements to write for four journals, besides a place as chief of the literary department of The Tribune. He was at home in this diversified occupation, writing 15 hours a day, turning his hand to anything demanded for the daily press, doing his work so carefully and well that he won a higher position and became a stockholder in the company. California and Mexico next gratified his love of travel and adventure, and an invitation to deliver a commencement poem at Harvard came as a tribute to his poetic talent. Then came the inevitable abuse which follows success like its shadow, and because he happened to be the winner of a prize song for Jenny Lind and 752 other contestants were not be began to wish he had never been born-a poet. Nevertheless he published "Book of Romances, Lyrics and Songs" and started for a long journey to Europe and the orient, during which he wrote letters to The Tribune and became the great American traveler, as much at home in Damascus as in New York. As an outcome of his journeyings he published in one season his "Journey to Central Africa," "The Lands of the Saracen" and "Poems of the Orient." "A Visit to India, China and Japan" and "Summer In Sweden" followed. Afterward he tried his hand at novel writing, producing four, of which

"The Story or Kennet" is the best and "John Godfrey's Fortunes" nearest to the writer's personal experiences as a literary worker in New York. He also attempted the drama under the titles of "The Masque of the Gods," "The Prophet" and "Prince Deukalion." Poems he was always writing in his ambition to become a poet rather than be known as a traveler and journalist. It is not the first instance or the last of mistaking one's real vocation.

Taylor left in the abundance of his writings much that instructs and entertains and delights. Doubtless the majority of readers would prefer the multiform results of his labor to greater excellence in a single department of it. As journalist, traveler, translator, dramatist and poet, his range is wide enough and sufficiently diversified to relieve his writing from monotony and retain the reader's attention. Beyond this each one will find before reading far something that will appeal to his love of nature, his interest in things and lands remote or his sense of poetic values. The lesson of all this long and active life is best summed up by Taylor himself: "'Tis not for idle ease we pray, but freedom for our task divine.

Washington, Dec. 14.- The most prolonged, interesting and important naval | service. tribunal ever held in this country came to a close vesterday, having been in open and secret session lasting three months, short of one week, when Secthe court of inquiry which inquired into the conduct of Rear Admiral Schley during the Santiago campaign. For seven weeks the court heard testimony and for fully a month it deliberated upon that mass of evidence, finally reaching the conclusions announced yesterday. The result was a complete surprise, and it is probable that no prophecy has approached the truth. Instead of one report, there were two.

Both are signed by George Devey, president, and by Sam C. Lemly, as judge advocate. This is a form said to be recognized in all courts of inoury. the signatures of the other members no: being necessary. But it is explained that Admiral Dewey signed the second report, a minority report, to express his qualification of or dissent from the views expressed by the court, comprisng, beside himself, Admirals Benham and Ramsay, in the first report.

It is said at the navy department that there will be no further proceedings in his celebrated case on the department's nitiative. Secretary Long and Judge Advocate Lemly positively decline to liscuss the findings in any phase.

The secretary received the reports at o'clock last evening and he has not yet cted upon them. It is probable that ne will simply append his signature with the word "approved" to the whole record. The court itself recommends no further proceedings, owing to lapse of time.

A representative of The Associated Press conveyed the first information of eption room of a hotel chatting with friends and several men and evinced no igns of nervousness over the outcome. When the conclusions of Admiral Dewey were read to him, Admiral Schley showed his pleasure, and it was evident from his manner that he regarded the statement from Admiral Dewey as a vindication of his cause He declined to make any statement concerning the court's findings and excusing himself from the company which had gathered about him went to is apartments, where Mrs. Schley had been anxiously awaiting to hear the court's decision. Later the official copy was brought to the hotel by a mes enger from the navy department.

Admiral Dewey was seen late last night, but declined to make any state ment concerning the court's findings He said the court was not dissolved and that he was still bound by his oath of ecrecy.

The majority report condemns Ad miral Schley on 11 points, while Admiral Dewey sustains him in most par ticulars. The majority opinion finds in brief that Admiral Schley should have proceeded with the utmost dispatch to Cienfuegos and maintained a close blockade; that he should have endeavored to have obtained information of the Spanish squadron there; that he should have proceeded to Santiago with dispatch; that he should not have made the retrograde movement; that he should have obeyed the department's orders; that he should have endeavored to capture the Spanish vessels in Santiago; that he did not do his utmost to destroy the Colon; that he caused the squadron to lose distance in the loop of the Brooklyn; that he thereby caused the Texas to back; that he did injustice to Hodgson; that his conduct in the campaign was characterized by vacillation, dilatoriness and lack of enterprise; that his official reports on the coal supply were misleading and inaccurate; that his conduct during the battle was self-possessed and that he encouraged in his own person his subordinate officers and men.

Admiral Dewey, in his report, says that the passage to Cienfuegos was made made with all dispatch; that, in view of his coal supply, the blockade of Cienfuegos was effective; that he allowed the Adula to enter Cienfuegos to get information; that his passage to Santiago was with as much dispatch as possible, keeping the squadron together; that the blockade of Santiago was effective and, finally, that he was the senior officer off Santiago, in absolute command, and entitled to the credit due for the glorious victory which resulted in the total destruction of the Spanish ships.

DEEP SEA FISHERIES Have Long Been Considered the Nursery of Our Merchant Marine

Washington, Dec. 14.—One phase of the new subsidy bill which is of great interest to Massachusetts, but the subject of unjust criticism in other quarters, is the bounty provision for deepsea fishermen. The Philadelphia legislature, for example, asks why the cod fishermen of Gloucester, Mass., should receive favors not extended to the shad fishermen of Gloucester, N. J. There are many reasons; from the early days was even a kindergarten for the ocean Other nations pay bounties on deepsea fishing and on this account it is necessary for us to pay them, so the friends of this bill maintain, in order to equalize the opportunity of our own peoretary Long was handed the findings of | ple. In five years the British government expended $2,500,000 in the development of Canadian fisheries. The Dominion fishermen are now paid bounties larger than those proposed in the Frye bill. American fishermen, moreover, have to pay a license on ships entering a Canadian port, which acts as a still further handicap and greatly offsets the advantage of their protected market. Besides, the whole amount to be paid in fishing bounties under this bill would not reach $200,000 a year. No industrial group could fail to be cheered by such evidence of in-

Todd, formerly secretary and treasurer of the Birmingham Debenture the findings of the court to Admiral company, have been arrested on charges Schley. He was seated in the public of embezzlement. Four warrants are held against Morgan for amounts aggregating $62,000. Two warrants are held against Blinn, one charging the embezzlement of $25,000, while the other charges the embezzlement of a check for $25,000.

The Damage to the Shamrock London, Dec. 14.—Sir Thomas Lip- r ton said last night: "I have been informed from New York that all the Shamrock II's sails, gear and blocks have been destroyed by fire. All this naterial had been specially tested and the entire boat is now left in the condition of a newly launched vacht. While I am not willing to say that it | will absolutely prevent a race, it is a great disappointment and an immense handicap in the future,"

Prize Going to Fight Tuberculosis Stockholm, Dec. 14.—Professor Behrng, who was recently awarded the Nobel medical prize of above $40,000. announced yesterday, during the course of a lecture, that his experiments demonstrated the possibility of immuning cattle from tuberculosis, by innoculation. The professor added that trains stop, as follows: he proposed employing the Nobel prize money in combatting cattle tuberculosis Schley Declines Propositions Washington, Dec. 14.-Admiral Schley's mail has been steadily growing since it became known that the report of the court of inquiry was approaching completion. He has received a number of offers to go on the lecture platform. One proposition was a fixed price of $500 a night for lectures to last 40 nights. Admiral Schley politely declined this and all other offers.

Congressional Poets Scarce as Hen's Teeth-A Dying Man's Strange Request-John Quincy Adams as a National Song-Not a Judge of His Dougherty's Story of a Boy and a Thee." Presiding Elder.

[Copyright, 1901, by Champ Clark.] Colonel John A. Ely, a distinguished ex-Piker, now a Democratic leader in the land of the Dakotas, once became so sick that the doctors gave him up and informed him that if he had any farewell messages to deliver or any final arrangements to make toward setting his house in order he had better be about it, for his time was brief. Whereupon the colonel amazed his intimates by preferring this strange request: "Be sure to bury me in the Swedish graveyard."

A long time, like Mohammed's coffin, he was suspended between heaven and earth, and his friends nearly worked themselves into vertigo trying to solve the problem as to why he had' chosen that particular place of sepulture, for they knew that while in health he and the Scandinavians, who were generally stalwart Republicans, had not been enamored of each other. One night, just as he began to show signs of recovery, Colonel Reuben C. Pew, now marshal of the St. Louis court of appeals, who was watching by the sick man, could retain his curiosity no longer and determined to clear up the great mystery.

So he said, "John, you are liable to die before morning, and blanked if I don't want to know what made you desire to be buried in that Swedish cemeterv.'

"Because," replied the jocund ex-Missourian, with a feeble smile, "because that is the last place on earth the devil would go to look for a Democrat.'

So congress is perhaps the last congregation of men which a person would visit expecting to discover a poet. It is generally taken and accepted that the poetic faculty needs quietude, rural scenes and an æsthetic atmosphere to induce its sustenance, notwithstanding the fact that General Lytle wrote that | tributed the following: splendid, spirit stirring lyric, "I am dying, Egypt, dying," in his tent amid the clangor of arms the night before the battle of Chickamauga, where he died a hero's death and where a magnificent monument marks his last resting place on the field of glory.

Milton lived and died in the erroneous belief that "Paradise Regained" was superior to "Paradise Lost," the truth being that few read the former under any condition whatever, and none would read it save for the fact that he were dazed by the resplendent glories of the latter.

Genius and Beauty. So with Dr. English. Though quite a prolific author, his fame rests solely on one popular song-"Ben Bolt"which has been sung by two generations of lovers, which has been used as one of the leading features of "Trilby," which Dr. English hates most heartily, and the mere mention of an infuriated bovine.

We have been searching long for a song which shall be as thoroughly a national American air as "Die Wacht am Rhein" is German, "The Marseillaise" is French or "God Save the Versifier—Thomas Dunn English's queen is English.

In days we fought with George the Third When independence was the word One voice from rising manhood heard
As well as old age hoary;
One purpose then we had in view,
To form of states a Union true,
And eyes and hearts were turned to you,
Our banner grand, Old Glory.

With you we scorn both lord and lown, With you we scorn both lord and low We heeded not old England's frown; We fought the bulldogs of the crown And smote the skulking Tory. cided to celebrate the date by killing off a few Christians. He did so with a vengeance. The most horrible deed perpetrated during the festival was on Christmas day, when the assembled Christians, gathered in their place of meeting, were set upon and slaughtered, while the Romans looked on in great glee at the sight of antipagan people being put to death for their religion's sake.

When Rome was no longer a pagan state, the feast began to be celebrated in the Christian style, although some of the songs that were sung and some of the rites of the festival would greatly shock the strictly orthodox churchgoer of the present day. At that time murder of Jeremiah Shumway, the aged there were no excursion trains to carry those who wished to take part in a Merrill committed the crime, and the public celebration from point to point, and the electric telegraph had not been thought of. From Station In Cornwall to Inventor Marconi In Newfoundland-Great Results Promised From Experiments Under Difficulties

St. Johns, Dec. 16.-Signor Marconi announces the most wonderful scientific discovery of modern times, in statng that he has received electric signals across the Atlantic ocean from Lis station in Cornwall, Eng. He explains that before leaving England he had made his plans for accomplishing this result, for, while his primary object was to communicate with occan liners in mid-ocean, he also hoped to succeed in attaining the wonderful scientific achievement of wireless telegraphy across the Atlantic.

Marconi's station in Cornwall is most powerful. He possesses an lectric force generated there a hundred times greater than at his ordinary stations. Before he left England he arranged with the electrician in charge of the station, which is located at Poldhu, to begin ending signals daily after a centain late, which Signor Marconi would able him upon perfecting his arrangenents here. Signor Marconi arrived ere a week ago Friday and selected signal Hill, at the entrance to the harbor, as an experimenting station and noved his equipment there. Last Monday he cabled the Poldhu station to bcgin sending signals daily. On Wedaesday Marconi elevated a kite with an aerial wire, by means of which signals are sent or received. He remained at the recorder attached to the receiving apparatus, and signals were received by him at intervals, according to the pro-New York, Dec. 16.—The presence of gram arranged previously with the oper-private detectives searching the piers ator at Poldhu.

This signal was repeated so frequently and according to the detailed plan arranged to provide safeguards against possibility of a mistake that Marconi was satisfied that it was a genuine transmission from England.

Again on Thursday the kite was elevated and the same signals were renewed. This made the assurance so omplete that Marconi cabled to his rincipals in England and also informed he governor of Newfoundland, Cavendish Boyle, who apprised the British cabinet of the success of the experi-

The National Base Ball League as wisely decided to stay right out of any public trust. The move won ball in that league, and perhaps in all of them. The people would never have retained their interest in seeing a lot of hired men kicking a ball lazily around a field at day wages, all working for he same men and all utterly indifferent o the fashion in which they played and utterly careless as to the fate of the contest. The old games of base ball when everybody got excited and howled for the best men from their own city were the real games, after all. Freedmanism and commercialism have done harm to base ball, and to an extent that the National league directors never realized till last season. With a trust scheme on they would have utterly destroyed the league. Brockton Enterprise.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Sunday Schools.

Henry H. Faxon has repeated hi annual gift to the Sunday Schools of the city, having forwarded on Saturday last to 23 pastors his checks for $25. As usual the gift is accompanied by a letter but the one this year will not ause as much comment as last year. The letter recognizes the worth of Sunday schools and appeals to the mem pers to do even greater work:

Quincy, Dec. 14, 1901. Dear Sir-Inclosed find check for $25 o be expended in such a manner as will best add to the enjoyment of the children of your Sunday school at the hristmas festival.

It is of vital importance that we hould constantly and firmly endeavor o impress upon our youth the mighty influence for good which the Sunday schools of today are exerting upon the uture of this nation. That future vill be bright if the children are the church as their training schools for ood citizenship.

Let us therefore, do all in our power to encourage and keep them in hese places where their characters will be properly moulded.

Yours very truly, Henry H. Faxon.

PROPOSED BUILDING RULES

Some Question As to Whether Quincy quires Such Stringent Regulations.

Accompanying the proposed ordinance establishing the office of Inspector of Building are 24 pages of rules and regulations for the inspection and construction of buildings. The question has been asked, does the Charles Dockendorff was the guest of city need such stringent regulations? An instalment of the rules without his brother John of Canton, last week. the slight amendments made at the last meeting of the City Council is

SECTION 1 .- MEANING OF TERMS.

In the construction of this ordinance, if not inconsistent with the context, the following terms shall have the respective meanings assigned to them:

"External wall" shall apply to every outer wall or vertical enclosure of a building, other than a party wall, above the foun-

"Party wall" shall apply to every wall used or built ntended as a separation of any building from any other building. "Foundation wall" shall mean that portion of external walls below the level of the street curb; and for walls not on any street, that portion of the wall below the level of the ground outside of the wall. When it is prescribed that walls shall be of a certain "thickness," this shall mean exclusive of air spaces.

"Brick building" means a building the walls of which are built of brick, stone, iron, or other substantial or incombustible which are of wood.

"Dwelling" means any building any part of which is occupied by one or more families. "Tenement house" means a building which, or any portion of which, is occupied, or intended to be occupied, as a dwelling by more than two families living independently of one another and doing their cooking upon the premises; or by two or more families above the second floor, so living and cooking.

SECTION 2.—MASONRY WALLS. FOUNDATIONS.

1. Every building or structure, hereafter built of brick, stone or iron, or other hard or incombustible materials, shall have foundations resting upon the solid ground, not less than four feet below the surface exposed to frost, or upon concrete, suitably driven piles, or other durable structure; provided, that a one story building may have foundations not less than three feet below the surface exposed to frost.

2. Every foundation wall constructed of brick, or stone or similar substance, shall be properly bonded and in rubble stone foundation by headers extending through the walls every two feet, and all foundations shall be solidly built with one-third cement mortar. Excavations for foundations shall be made six inches beyond the outside of foundation walls, and shall not be filled in until walls are inspected.

SECTION 3.—SUPPORTS.

1. Supports of brick buildings other than their foundations shall be of iron, stone or brick piers.

2. For brick buildings used as dwellings exceeding 35 feet in height, there shall be under all columns or piers a footing of stone or concrete not less than 24 inches square and 12 inches thick; in brick buildings other than dwellings, all columns or piers shall have a footing of stone or concrete not less than one foot larger on all sides than the arear of the pier and 12 inches

3. No pier in any brick building shall be less than one foot square, and if of brick they shall be hard burned. All piers shall be built with, and all footings bedded in cement mortar.

4. Brick piers under lintels, girders, or columns of brick buildings, other than dwellings, shall have a cap-iron at least two inches thick the full size of the pier.

5. Every metal column in a brick building shall rest on an iron plate not less than two inches thick. Wooden columns, supporting girders and floors in such buildings shall set on inch and a half iron plates with sockets or counter sinkages.

SECTION 4.—BRICK WALLS.

1. The height of a wall means the height from the mean grade of the sidewalk, or adjoining ground, to the highest point 2. No soft brick shall be used in the construction of the walls of any brick building.

3. All floor bearing walls in brick buildings shall be not

4. For all brick buildings, except dwellings not exceeding

35 feet in height, there shall be under all foundation walls of block or rubble stone, resting on the earth, a footing course of stone or concrete, not less than 12 inches wider than the bottom width of said wall, and not less than 12 inches thick.

less than twelve inches thick.

5. Foundation walls of brick shall have footing courses, bracketed out six inches on each side of the wall one foot high.

Partition walls not bearing floors shall be not less than 12 inches thick their entire height, with a footing of brick bracketed out six inches on each side, 1 foot high, or stone or concrete not less than 24 inches wide and 12 inches thick.

SECTION 7 .- PARTY WALLS, HOW BUILT.

All party walls shall be built through and at least twenty four inches above or distant from the roof boarding, at every part of the roof and shall be covered with a coping of stone, iron or other metal. But when the wall extends 36 inches above the adjoining building, parapet walls may be omitted.

SECTION 8 .- WALLS OF STABLES, ETC.

The external walls of brick buildings, not exceeding 30 feet in height, and not exceeding 2,000 superficial feet, to be used for stables or light mechanical purposes, may be 12 inches thick.

SECTION 9 .- WALLS OVER 60 FEET HIGH The thickness of walls and foundations in buildings exceeding 60 feet in height shall be determined by the Inspector.

To Be Pushed to the Front

Washington, Dec. 16.—Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee says that no definite plans have been made thus far for considering the question of further reducing the war taxes, but there has been much informal discussion of the subject, and there seems to be a general purpose to push this important question to the front soon after the holidays.

MORE RIOTING AT LYNN

By Morocco Strikers and Non-Union Workmen

MANY MEN ARE INJURED

Fence Pickets, Lead Pipe and Bricks Were Freely Used-Manufacturer Kelley Says That He Has Fears For His Life and Property

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 16.-There was plenty of trouble around the Thomas A. Kelley & Co. morocco factory Saturday night, and fights were frequent between the men employed in the factory and the partisans of strikers in which those who had congregated in that vicinity freely participated. A dozen or more men had their heads laid open and two of them were very seriously injured. Joseph Hix, a foreman in the glazing department, was knocked down and beaten, being rendered unconscious. He was finally rescued by the police and taken to his home, where he is Low under a doctor's care. Anton Garnotscheffski, a workman, was chased by a crowd armed with fence pickets and pieces of lead pipe, and received a scalp round that required four stitches to close it. Karas Karson, a Greek, was arrested on the charge of disturbing the eace. He was seen throwing stones This was the only arrest made.

The trouble started at 4:30 p. m., when he first detachment of 14 men came out f the factory, escorted by Officer Murphy, and attempted to proceed to ne of their boarding houses on Morris street. To do this they were obiged to eass through Linden street, and there the strikers and their associates had ade preparations to give them a warm eception. Little piles of bricks had been made every few feet along the street, ready for instant use, and as the den came in view the air was quickly filled with missiles as they were hurled at them.

The policeman was powerless to proect them and his company melted in a eneral stampede. The mob wrenched ickets from the fences close at hand and gave chase to the frightened worknen. It was in this melee that the workman with the long name received his injuries.

The men succeeded in reaching their oarding house at last, but the shower lown by the crowd in its mad rush, but ustained no injury.

A little later another batch of about 20 workmen, escorted by Officers Cronin and Curry, emerged from the factory and headed for the other boarding ouse on River street. They crossed Summer street and dodged behind a billboard through a vacant lot, and here the mob assailed them with all sorts of missiles. During the mixup Officer there were many narrow escapes from

Then the door was broken peril was seen by the life-savers and the notice of the mob that was waiting outside. He was not successful, and through a window to an adjoining roof he was pursued by the crowd of men and then jumping to the street below. and boys, who overtook him on Put- The jump was three stories, and Lenam's mill bridge and beat him into in- gasse was last seen running up the sensibility. Just before 6 o'clock another lot of about 50 workmen came out of the factory and started up Summer street on their way to Raddins station to take a train for Boston. They were vell guarded, but the large mob that folowed them made things decidedly livey on the way. While waiting on the tation platform for the train, the men ere pelted with missiles of various kinds, and after they had entered the cars, many windows in the latter were broken, causing much excitement among the other passengers. Several times subsequent to this men who came from the factory singly were chased by hoodlums, and only the lost energetic use of their legs saved hem from personal violence.

Thomas A. Kelley fears that his facory may be burned, as he claims to have eceived letters threatening both his life and property. The board of trade has given up all hope of effecting a settlement of the need and seeking relief from colds and coughs strikers waited in the vicinity in the they had no opportunity of so doing. About 6 o'clock a delegation of 100 Poles, who had been engaged by the firm, arrived on trolley cars and were lodged in the factory without any The police have been informed that a committee of three or four workmen who are now in the factory visited various stores on Saturday night, purchasing all the revolvers they could obtain, and a box of cartridges with each. This is taken to indicate that the nonunion men are determined to defend themselves if they are again attacked.

BULLET IN HER HEAD

ashua Woman Killed by Boarder Who Had Been Dismissed Nashua, N. H., Dec. 16.-Mrs. Eva between Greenland and Nova Zembla. Brooks, wife of George A. Brooks, a car checker for the Boston and Maine railroad, was shot three times and killed Saturday night at her home on Cottage avenue by Charles Hawkins. The latter attempted to take his own life by firing a bullet into his head, but it passed the brain and the effort was unsuccessful.

Hawkins, who is a widower, about 38 years old, with three children, had lived at the Brooks house until within a few days, when he was ordered away by Mr. Brooks, owing, it is said, to certain attentions to Mrs. Brooks which the husband did not like.

About 6:30 Saturday evening Hawkins, who, the police say, had been drinking to excess, called at the home of Mrs. Brooks and demanded admission. He was met at the door by Mrs. Bridget Hallissey to whom Hawkins said: "I am going to kill four people. Get out of the way." With these words he sprang upstairs to the apartment where Mrs. Brooks and two children were.

In a few seconds Mrs. Hallissey heard three shots in quick succession and ran from the house to the shation nouse a few doors away and notified the police of what had occurred. Four efflers started at once for the Brooks house, and met Hawkins running in the direction of the police station, with a revolver in his hand. Upon seeing the officers he pointed the weapon at his own head and fired, the shot entering the right side of the brain. Hawkins was taken to the station.

Mrs. Brooks, who was about 35 years old, has two children, aged 10 and 5 years respectively. One of the child en stated to the police that after Hawkins had fired the shots he stooped over the bent form of his victim and kissed her lips. Then he rushed from the house.

An autopsy held on the body of Mrs. Brooks showed that three shots had been fired into the body, one entering the back of the head and penetrating the brain, one striking between th shoulders, and the third entering the left side. Any one of the shots would have proved fatal, but it was decided that death resulted from the wound in the

GAVE BUT LITTLE LIGHT Rosebery Did Not Tell Liberals How to Regain Unity

Chesterfield, Eng., Dec. 17.-Lord Rosebery's long expected and much heralded speech, delivered here last night, was received with marked enthusiasm by an immense crowd. It can hardly be said to have thrown much light along the pathway of the Liberal

The speaker himself confessed that Le did not pretend to say how this cohesion should be accomplished. In urging his fellow Liberals to reorganize, Lord Rosebery quoted the following words from the message of President Roosevelt:

"We hope to keep going by slow steps, not by bounds. We must keep our eyes on the stars, but we must also remember that our feet are on the ground."

The former premier declared that the ministry was wrong, but the Liberals should be careful how they tried to set it right. Turning from the immediate outbreak of the war, Lord Rosebery touched upon education, in which he said Great Britain was woefully behind her sister nations. Her commercial development was also sadly atrophied, said the speaker, and the time would soon come when Britain would be forced to fight for trade supremacy. She would then be as helpless as though armed with bows and arrows.

Lord Rosebery maintained a discreet vagueness on the question of his personal inclinations concerning the leadership of the Liberal party. He said he could not imagine himself in the position of a minister, but in the next breath he told how he would reorganize the war office if it fell to his lot.

SCHLEY CASE IN SENATE Jones Offers a Resolution Providing Thanks For the Admiral

Washington, Dec. 17 .- An echo of the verdict of the court of inquiry in the case of Rear Admiral Schley was heard in the senate yesterday, when Mr. Jones of Arkansas introduced a resolution extending the thanks of congress and of Quincy. the American people to Admiral Schley and to the officers and men under his command during the battle of July 3, 1898, off the harbor of Santiago. In submitting the resolution, Mr. Jones made no statement, and it was referred without comment to the committee on naval affairs.

Late in the day Secretary Long acknowledged, in a formal letter, the receipt of a request from Admiral Schley for permission to file a bill of objections. The secretary's response was brief and purely formal. It granted the request and allowed until Friday next in which to submit the bill.

Miles Endorses Dewey's Judgment Cincinnati, Dec. 17.-General Miles arrived here yesterday. In speaking of the findings of the Schley court of inquiry, General Miles said: 'I am willing to take the judgment of Ad niral commander of a fleet and as such has known the anxieties and responsibilities which rest on a man under hese circumstances. He was instrumental in the destruction of one Spanish fleet, and knows and realizes the feelings that encompass an officer under such conditions. ## CALMLY FACED DEATH

Luigi Storti Pays Extreme

Penalty of the Law

END OF REMARKABLE CASE

Immigrant Made Friends After His Conviction and No Effort Was Spared to Save Him From Being Bay State's First Electric Chair Victim

Boston, Dec. 17 .- Luigi Storti was electrocuted at the Charlestown state prison at 12:30 this morning. He went to his end with every outward appearance of physical strength and mental firmness, to be the first subject in the electric chair under Massachusetts

His passage from his cell in which he had spent his last days to the death chamber took but a few seconds. With scarcely any show of 'hesitation he took his position in the chair, attendants adjusted the electrodes, an unseen hand at the switch, and a small company there were in the presence of Geath.

Storti had given his life for the murder of Michele Calucci, and the law had been fulfilled. His last words were in prayer.

The electrocution was successful in every way and it was conducted in a very brief interval of time. Storti was spared any prolongation of anguish after the officers appeared at his cell, for he was in readiness for his end and under the ministrations of his spiritual adviser, Fr. Ubaldus, he passed through the short corridor and into the death chamber. The witnesses required by law were seated directly in front of the

An instant after Storti had been bound the current was applied, the body slighty quivered and all was over. There was no sound and nothing could break the stillness of the chamber except the peculiar vibration of the current as it performed its mission.

The current was applied three times, There was no question that death had ensued on the first shock, but as this was a first electrocution in Massachusetts it was deemed advisable that there should be no question raised as to the actual re-

Storti was informed that he was to die this morning just after he had partaken of his dinner yesterday noon. In the presence of Fr. Ubaldus, Warden Bridges had read to him the sentence of death. Storti received the word with remarkabe resignation. While physically he was considered not over and above strong, Storti surprised all the doctors who had been called to see him in days past, and who learned of his condition when he knuew that lis noments were numbered.

During the afternoon Fr. Ubaldus several times went to his cell and again in the evening made him a visit. Storti had his confession about 10:30 in the evening. He was then left alone until shortly after midnight, when Fr. Ubaldus returned again to the cell to administer the communion. After the communion, Storti spoke of his nother, to whom he was greatly attached, and asked the clergyman to send a kindly message to her that he died brave and in the hope of a hereafter. Fr. Ubaldus then asked him if he had a last message to give out, saying that it was time for him to be going. He requested Fr. Ubaldus to tell his friends that be died forgiving them all. To the world le wished Fr. Ubaldus to say: "It is true that I killed Calucci, but I did it in selfdefense. On the night that we were in the room I had no thought against Calucci, although he boasted of betraying my sister-in-law and my little sister. He said he was going back to Italy to dishonor them again, but I made no reply. I had no weapon. It vas Calucci's hatchet that was in the room, brought there by Calucci. Calucci was getting up to kill me, as I thought, and I took the hatchet and struck him two or three times. I do not remember how many. I die, for I know there is no hope to save me now, but I go praying to Jesus, to Mary and to St. Joseph." When he had finished this message

Fr. Ubaldus handed to him the crucifix and the condemned man was in readiness and went to his death.

The murder for which Storti died attracted no general notice in this city, where brawls among foreigners are frequent in the North End quarter. Interest began while Storti was in shadow of the death chair. The original date for the execution was to be in the week commencing April 7, last, but respites prolonged his life many months; respites granted by Governor Crane and his executive council because counsel had carried legal questions into both the state supreme court and the supreme ourt of the country for decisions.

No Massachusetts murderer on whom capital punishment was inflicted received such attention from the law courts as did Storti, a remarkable thing because Storti was a poor Italian immigrant without a personal friend on this remedy is for sale by all druggists.

No good can come to the tions to be present were sent to Mayor naval service by reopening it .- Lynn Hall, Candidate Jones, Chairman Jameson of the Republican Committee, Senator Sprague, Representatives Badger and McKnight and others, includ ing Mayor-elect Charles M Bryant.

Mr. Bryant hoped to be present but was delayed at an important meeting of the Finance Committee of the City

A meeting of the club for the transaction of business was held at o'clock, and half an hour later the doors were opened and the guests invited to enter.

Andrew Johnson presided at the neeting and the first speaker was Mayor Hall who spoke of the financial ituation of the city. He was not in favor of long loans but of paying as you go. The orders that he had vetoed Boston Presbytery will be held this during the past year were not for his evening at the United Presbyterian own benefit but for the benefit of the whole city. This year the appropriations of $35,000 for sewer assessmen dded over one dollar to the tax rate.

Next year $50,000 must be approoriated for the sewer assessment, which would add $2 to the tax rate. It was therefore wise to go slow and pay as

Frederick L. Jones, the Republican candidate for Mayor at the recent municipal election, said that for a defeated at length. man he held up well. He was not afraid to hold his head up. There was not much need of talking. He had been defeated fair and square and that was all there was to it, but there was another year coming.

Chairman Jameson of the Republi can City Committee likened the recent North Quincys and Merrymounts municipal election to that of a little A man who desired office saw them all and they promised to vote for him captain, and H. Hay-Pauncefote Treaty Ratified by the Senate

FEW OF THEM SATISFIED

According to Teller, Who Thinks Better Terms Could Have Been Secured -- Mason Considers It a Triumph Over the Previous Agreement

Washington, Dec. 17 .- The senate yesterday ratified the Hay-Pauncefote isthmian canal treaty by the decisive vote of 72 to 6. The vote was reached a few minutes before 5 o'clock, after almost five hours discussion behind closed doors. There were no sensational inidents during this entire time. The depate was confined exclusivey to a disssion of the merits of the agreement nd the policy of its provisions. The rincipal speech of the day was made by Senator Teller in opposition to the reaty and he was followed in rapid accession by several other senators, ho spoke briefly either for or against e motion to ratify.

Mr. Teller expressed confidence that he resolution would be adopted, and aid that while he had no purpose to atempt to prevent that result, he was convinced that there are very few senators who are really satisfied with the treaty. With Great Britain in her present mood he believed, he said, that it would have been possible to secure a treaty which would give entire satisfaction, and he sharply criticised the state department for failing to do so. He took the position that it would have een sufficient to abrogate the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and said that England knew well enough that with the result expected she could very well trust the United States to maintain the neutrality of the canal, as this country had been prepared to do so for many years. Senator Clay was one of the southern senators who spoke in advocacy of the treaty. He contended that the treaty should be ratified because it secured the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer

Senator Mason made a strong plea for the treaty, expressing his gratification that American diplomacy had succeeded in securing such a triumph as was this treaty over the original Hay-Pauncefote agreement.

Senator Bacon's speech was made in connection with a motion to amend the reaty. He said that Great Britain rejected the amended Hav-Pauncefote treaty, but sent up another treaty about identical with the former treaty, as amended, except as regards the Davis imendment. He considered that fact the most important feature of the whole

There was an exceptionally full senate when the time arrived for a vote, and votes on the amendments succeeded each other quickly.

President Consults Democrats Washington, Dec. 17.-President Roosevelt is adopting the plan of securing information from Democratic senators and representatives regarding applicants for office in the south. Yesterday he consulted Senators Foster and McEnery and Representative Brossard of Louisiana, regarding Louisiana appointments. He also consulted Representatives Clayton, Thompson and Wiley of Alabama, about some appointments in that state.

Long Argument Cut Out

Washington, Dec. 17.—Plans were made on both sides of the house of representatives yesterday for the two days' Philippine tariff bill debate, which begins today. Each side will have 414 hours. This considerably restricts the limits of debate, particularly the opposition, which had intended to make this bill the test for a rather elaborate arraignment of the policy of the party in

Points of Difference Adjusted

MATRON AND MAID.

Miss Mary Clagett has opened a barber shop in Spokane, Wash. She is the daughter of the late Judge Clagett of San Francisco.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor wore lately at a ball a crown which was an exact rehome here yesterday afternoon of acuts | production of the one worn by Queen Victoria on her jubilee day, and Mrs. Clarence Mackay has one closely resembling it.

"Not at all. Mamma intends me to marry," was the unexpected response of Beerbohm Tree's young daughter to the visitor who remarked, "I suppose the first governor of the state to die in | you intend to be a great actress when you grow up." Miss Josephine Bowen Holman, the flancee of the famous inventor, Marconi, is an Indiana girl. Her marriage with Signor Marconi will take place governor of the state for the term to early next year, and thereafter she will live with her husband in England. Mrs. Octavia Dancy of St. Louis served her turkey Thanksgiving day on a platter 400 years old. It was brought a platter 400 years old. It was brought to America in 1700 by John de la address, to act as solicitors, special agents

Pryme, in whose family it had already been for more than 200 years. Mrs. Charles F. Sprague, a member of the famous Weld family and the wife of the Massachusett's ex-congressman, has purchased one of the handsomest of the old time Venetian palaces and will have it transplanted to Brookline, thereby to surpass the exploit of Mrs. Jack Gardner.

Mrs. Kendal, the English actress, had a very interesting reunion at her house is willing to settle on the same terms as | the other day in order to raffle a fan which had belonged to the celebrated actress, Sarah Siddons. This had been owned by various people since the great actress' death. The fan was von by Mrs. Fred Terry (Miss Julia Neilson)

Mrs. Otis Skinner, known on the stage as Maude Durbin, has become a student at the University of Chicago. Although Mrs. Skinner has been the most successful leading lady of her husband's company, she did not care to take the part of Francesca in the Da Rimini play this year, and so while Mr. Skinner is on the road Mrs. Skinner is studying literature at the university.

THE WRITERS.

The will of the late Sir Walter Be sant, the author, shows the gross value of his estate was £8,812.

Rev. S. Baring-Gould thinks out many of his plots while lying in bed. The foundation for more than one story has been developed in a single sleepless night.

Jerome K. Jerome seems to have forsaken England, except as a place to visit occasionally. After a long sojourn in Germany and only a look in on London he is off for Brussels, where he is to spend the winter. He has been at work on a long novel which he wishes the public to take seriously.

Mme, Sarah Grand was before her marriage Miss Frances Cook and was born in Yorkshire, England, of Irish Quaker parentage. When quite young, she married an officer of the English navy named McFall, a widower with two children, but she assumed the nom de plume Mme. Grand from the beginning of her literary career.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The German emperor wears two bracelets on his left wrist. One con tains a useful little watch; the other is in the form of a gold cable.

The czar of Russia is said to have personally a great admiration for Tol stol and his works, though the latter's political and religious opinions naturally do not permit him to make his adas follows: (See note of explanation at bottom. miration public.

King George of Greece has not always been the expert yachtsman he now is. When a young man, he had a strong aversion to the sea, which he overcame only when he received the crown of Greece, and then merely beknow how to use the pistol for self pro-tection. The theory should be carried water.

OLD WORLD WAYS.

Emperor William's war bonnet has a bee in it again.—Philadelphia Ledger. Nine hundred thousand persons are on the verge of starvation in two provinces of China. And yet the civilized powers of the world insisted upon the payment of an indemnity which is certain to be wrung from the poor people. -Cleveland Leader. General Botha has countered Kitch-

THE RAILROADS.

It would be at least worth an experiment for railroads to issue no double orders at all, but only single orders. If there had been a single order to stop at Seneca, there might have been no accident .- Detroit Journal.

There have been since January last some twenty-five serious railroad accidents, of which twenty-two were due troops. clined to Cease Fighting

During the last few days most persistent reports emanating both from South Africa and from Boer headquarters in Europe on an approaching crisis in South Africa affairs have been current. It is alleged that Mr. Kruger will abandon his demand for independence and the Boer leaders in the field are inclined to cease fighting and seek the best terms obtainable. In a speech yesterday at Cape Town

Mr. Sprigg, premier of Cape Colony, decared that the outlook had never been brighter than at the present moment. A dispatch to The Daily News from Joannesburg says that important developments may be expected in a few days. General Botha summoned a meeting of burghers to discuss the sitnation and to communicate Steyn's and against the Brooklyn Heights Railroad DeWet's views. The position at this moment is such that it is a toss-up whether peace is concluded or the war continued.

The war office has issued the latest monthly statement of British casualties in South Africa, which shows that from the beginning of the war to the end of last month the deaths in the South African field force have totaled 18,798 officers and men.

EXPRESSION OF CONFIDENCE

And Praise For Achievement In Destroying the Spanish Fleet-Call For Expression of Thanks of Congress and Investigation of the Navy

Washington, Dec. 18 .- Representative Griffith of Indiana introduced in the house yesterday a resolution for an investigation of the navy department and of the Schley case. The preamble expresses confidence in Admiral Schley, recites the allegation of the Maclay history and refers to reports that Captain Crowninshield and other naval officers were furnished proofs of this history. The large amounts of prize money received by Admiral Schley and the captains of the ships participating in the Santiago battle are set forth as among the subjects to be investigated. Representative Schirm of Maryland introduced resolutions which, it is said, to a considerable extent, represent the views of the Maryland delegation in congress. Representative Wheeler of Kentucky introduced a resolution to investigate the conduct of Rear Admiral Schley from the time he took command of the flying squadron up to and including the lestruction of the Spanish fleet, July 3, 1898. It recites the action of the court of inquiry, and declares the American people desire an investigation by citiens not connected with the navy department. Representative Mudd of Maryland also introduced a resolution relative to Admiral Schley, as follows: "Resolved. That the thanks of congress and the American people are hereby tendered to Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley and the officers and men under his command for their victory over the Spanish forces and the destruction of the Spanish fleet in the naval batle off Santiago de Cuba, on July 3, 1898."

> If Marconi has not been deceived a the transmission of a message across he Atlantic by his wireless method we have entered into another realm of disovery that exceeds, in value all previous nventions. When the inventor firs made public his plans they were reeived with doubt and each stage of their development has been subject t distrust. The great Edison can as ye hardly bring himself to believe that Marconi has really succeeded to the extent of his claims. Other electrical experts are quite as skeptical. We notice, however, that Marconi keeps right on. At first he sent messages few hundred feet, under favorable conditions. Then a little farther. Then the Etruria and Umbria, hundreds of miles apart, exchanged messages, and then there is a word sent from the Lizards to Newfoundland. The greatest proof of the value of Marconi's system is the ordering him to leave Newfoundland by a telegraph company that controls the franchise of the island. If it was of no value the telegraph line would have no objection to his making scientific experiments. There is a vast amount of detail to be worked out beore the system becomes practical for usiness operations, but a beginning as been made and enough demonstrated to show that there is a strong oundation for Marconi's claim. - Lynn

Some Question As to Whether Quincy Requires Such Stringent Regulations.

Accompanying the proposed ordinance establishing the office of Inspector of Building are 24 pages of rules and regulations for the inspection and construction of buildings. The question has been asked, does the city need such stringent regulations? An instalment of the rules without the slight amendments made at the last meeting of the City Council is

SECTION 10.—BONDING WALLS.

Every eighth course, at least, of a brick wall shall be a heading or bonding course, except when walls are faced with faced brick, in which case every eighth course shall be bonded with Flemish headers, or by cutting the courses of the face brick, and putting in diagonal headers behind the same.

SECTION 11.—OPENINGS, ETC.

All openings in brick walls, not supported by stone or iron intels, shall be properly arched with brick; no timber shall be used in brick walls, except in case of arched forms, arched their whole length. No side wall of a brick building shall be carried up in advance of the rear walls.

SECTION 12 .- WALLS ANCHORED, ETC.

1. All brick walls in any building on which the ends of beams rest shall be anchored at each tier of beams, at intervals of not more than 10 feet apart, with wrought iron anchors, at least 1 inch by 11 inches, well built into the walls, and well fastened to the tops of the beams; and where the beams are supported by girders or on partition plates, the ends of beams resting upon girders or partition plates shall be fastened together and strapped by wrought iron straps or tie irons, at the same distance apart, and in the same beams as the wall anchors and shall be well fastened.

2. The ends of all girders or partition plates, resting on or abutting any wall, shall be anchored to it.

3. Anchors shall not be run through partition walls.

4. If side or partition walls are carried up in advance of front walls, they shall be anchored to front walls by wroughtiron anchors, not less than 3 inch by 11 inches, at a height of every ten feet, and built into partition or side walls not less than 36 inches, and into front walls, at least half its thickness.

5. Plates of all roofs shall be bolted to walls, not less than every 10 feet; bolts to be built into walls twenty-four inches.

Section 13.—Construction of Chimneys.

1. All chimneys hereafter shall be built of brick, stone or other incombustible material, and shall have a footing of masonry or iron supported by iron, or corbels of brick or stone. No chimney shall be hung to an eight-inch wall, or bear or rest upon wood. No chimney corbelled from a wall shall project more than the thickness of the wall.

2. All brick smoke flues less than 8 inches thick shall be lined with flue lining, from two feet below any woodwork in basement, to not less than one foot above roof, the balance of flue above this lining to be smoothly plastered inside. All brick vent flues shall be smoothly plastered or cement washed on the inside. All flues shall be topped out at least four feet above the highest part of the roof at the point through which they pass, with brick or stone, except those passing through the ridge which shall be at least two feet above the ridge, and the topping-out shall not have more than two inches projection, unless covered by a cap of improved incombustible material, properly secured; and in no case shall a nail be driven into the masonry of any flue. All wood-work in brick buildings shall be placed distant one inch, and floor timbers, headers, trimmers and girders at least two inches from the outside of every chimney flue, and the space around such wood-work and brick-work of chimney where it passses through floors shall be closed by a proper fire stop of incombustible material. In chimneys with more than one flue, the withes shall be con structed of brick laid flatways and bonded every eighth course and plastered.

SECTION 14 .- FIREPLACES, HEARTH, ETC.

1. All hearths shall be supported by trimmer arches of brick or stone; or be of single stones at least six inches thick, and supported entirely by iron beams, one end of which shall be securely built into masonry of chimney or adjoining wall. The brick jambs of every fireplace, range or grate opening must be at least 8 inches wide each, and the back of such openings must be at least 8 inches thick, for at least 2 feet above

2. All such hearths and supports shall be at least 12 inches longer than the width of such openings, and at least 18 inches wide in front of the chimney breast. The brick-work over all fireplaces and grate openings shall be supported by proper iron bars or brick or stone arches.

BATES NOT GUILTY.

Was Defendant in Suit Brought by Inspector Keniley.

The case of G. B. Bates, who was complained of by J. J. Keniley, Inspector of Plumbing, for violation of the Ordinance relating to plumbing, was heard Tuesday at the Superior court at Dedham. This was a case where the Inspector claimed a short T Y was used instead of a long T Y When the case was hear in the lower court Mr. Bates was found guilty and fined. He took an appeal. The jury made its report this morning and found Mr. Bates not guilty. It would appear from this that plumbers can use any kind of a T Y desired. #### A CABINET CHANGE

Postmaster General Smith to Resume His Editorial Duties

Washington, Dec. 18.-Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia has tendered to the president his formal resignation as postmaster general, to take effect early next month, and Henry C. Payne of Wisconsin, vice-chairman of the Republican national committee, has accepted the tender of the office, to which he will be nominated immediately after the holiday recess. Mr. Smith has agreed to remain until Jan. 15, if necessary, but will return immediately thereafter to Philadelphia to resume the editorship of the Philadelphia Press.

This change in the cabinet was formally announced at vesterday's session of the cabinet. All the members of the cabinet expressed their profound regret and the president paid a very impressive tribute to the services and personality of the retiring nember of his official family. He said that he had sought to persuade Mr. Smith to alter his determination and to remain in the cabinet, but without success, and he had finally accepted Mr. Smith's reasons

THE PHILLIPPINE BILL.

Passed by the House by a Vote of 163 to 128

ATTITUDE OF THE MINORITY

Defined In a Motion to Recommit, Which Did Not Receive a Republican Vote-McCall Made Extended Argument Against the Measure

Washington, Dec. 19 .- The bill to provide revenue temporarily for the Philippine islands passed the house yesterday by a vote of 163 to 128. Five Republicans-Messrs. McCall (Mass.), Littlefield (Me.), Heatwole, Eddy and Stevens (Minn.), voted with the Democrats against the bill, and three Democrats-Messrs. Robertson, Davey and Broussard (La.), voted with the Republicans for it. Mr. Meyer (Dem. La.), was paired in favor of the bill with Mr. Foster (Dem. Ills.). Mr. Warner (Ills.), who voted against the Porto Rican bill last congress, voted for the Philippine measure yesterday. Mr. Crumpacker (Ind.), who also voted against the Porto Rican bill, was absent.

In the course of the debate yesterday the Democrats were several times taunted with their failure to present an alternative proposition for the pending measure, but just before the vote was taken on the passage of the bill the attitude of the minority was defined in a motion to recommit, offered by Mr. Richardson, the minority leader. It in structed the ways and means committee to report the bill back amended so as to reduce the customs and internal revenue laws of the United States to a revenue basis and to extend them to the Philippines until the latter, with the aid of the United States, should be able to set up a stable independent government. This proposition did not command a Republican vote and the three Louisiana Democrats above mentioned voted against it.

The bill passed yesterday imposes the Dingley rates on goods entering tle United States from the Philippines and the rates established by the Philippine commission on goods entering the Phil ippines from the United States.

It also provides for collection of tonnage taxes on vessels plvit the United States and the Philippines and that foreign vessels may ply between these ports until Jan. 1, 1905. The duties and taxes collected under the provisions of the bill shall go into the Philippine treasury to be expended for the use and benefit of the islands.

Mr. McCall, a Republican member of the ways and means committee. opposed the pending measure in a vigorous speech. Referring to the Porto Rico decisions by the supreme court, Mr. McCall said:

"Four of the five justices who upheld the law were of the opinion that the fifth justice in deciding with them assumed a position inconsistent with that taken by the same justice in another decision promulgated by him on the same day. One justice said that the two positions were irreconciliable. If his positions were irreconciliable, who shall say which one was right, and which was

"What have we seen in the last three years," he asked. "We have witnessed the solemn farce of four or five very estimable American gentlemen sitting as a legislature over ten million of people, of whose language, customs, conditions and existence they were probably ignorant four years ago. We have witnessed the spectacle of an American army, numbering over 70,000 i. en, engaged in conquering a people struggling for independence. We have seen our highest court apparently forgetful that this nation was established as a protest against the power of one people to tax 50c to $1.00 permanently another people, declaring congress exempt from the constitutional limitation upon the great central power of taxation, and thus opening the way for autocratic government and for the exploitation of subject peoples. We have seen our permanent standing army multiplied more than threefold and the expenses of our military estab lishments approach that of the most army-ridden nation of Europe. We have seen ourselves take a position highly inconsistent in point of justice with the Monroe doctrine, when, de manding that the governments of the eastern continent shall keep their hands off from this hemisphere, we ourselves. with hundreds of millions of untilled acres and vast untouched forests, seize at one stroke a thousand islands in the other hemisphere. "I believe now, as I have always believed, that when our commissioners set their hand to the treaty annexing the Our trade with those islands appears in effect. For sale by all druggists.

today to have reached the magnificent proportions of the trade of a corner grocery; but if it should promise to bring to this country all the wealth of the Indies, I believe our national honor, the preservation in their integrity of Republican institutions, our future peace and safety, every dictate of interest and justice, demand that we shall now so shape our steps that we may return again to the God of our Fathers."

After a few remarks by Mr. Greene (Pa.), in opposition to the bill, Mr. Mc-Clellan(N. Y.) closed the debate for his side. The acquisition of the Philippine islands, he said, was the most costly plunge ever made by a reckless gambler at the Monte Carlo of international

Convicts' Plot Exposed

Leavenworth, Kas., Dec. 19.-When convicts Turner Barnes and Bob Clark, leaders in the mutiny of the federal prison here of Nov. 7, were arrested at Lawton, Clark handed a letter to the sheriff, requesting him to mail it. The letter was addressed to Clark's brother at Keokuk, Ia. Suspecting a plot, the sheriff handed the letter to Deputy Warden Lemon. Since his return Warden McClaughey has had experts working on the letter, which was in cipher. Last night the key was found. Clark has requested his brother to get a confederate, board the train at Guthrie, overpower the officers and kill them, if necessary, to enable him to gain his Croker Names Schley For President Indianapolis, Dec. 19.-At Frenchlick Springs yesterday Richard Croker expressed a very decided opinion that Adniral Schley would make a strong presidential candidate in 1904, and that the probabilities all favor a boom for him in the east, with a strong following both in the south and west. He expressed the opinion that congress would not interfere in the Schley matter in any way and that this would be to the advantage of Schley and the Democratic party, for inaction would be tantamount to an indorsement of the majority verdict and thus commit the Republican party to it.

Michigan's Oldest Man Dead Ludington, Mich., Dec. 19 .-- Louis Rock, oldest man in Michigan, died here yesterday at the age of 107. He was born Dec. 15, 1794, on a whaling vessel bound from Havre to Newfoundland and was the first white man to enter the Yosemite valley. This was in the spring of 1844, when he was in charge of a hunting party, all of whom were killed by Indians, he alone escaping. During his last years he became a charge on the city, having deeded his little property o Ludington for his care.

MOB TOOK POSSESSION

Of Pro-Boer and Anti-Chamberlain Meeting

WRECKED THE TOWN HALL

Assault From Outside and Within the Bullding Caused Speakers to Fear For Their Lives-Lloyd George Is Denounced as a Traitor

London, Dec. 19 .- David Lloyd-George, M. P., spoke in Birmingham town hall last night. The majority of the audience were enraged by his pro-Boer and anti-Chamberlain utterances. They rushed the police cordon guarding the platform. In the meanwhile the building was besieged from the outside by a mob, who smashed windows and tried to force the doors, which had been barricaded. They fusilladed the audience with stones through the windows. The police reserves were turned out and succeeded in dispersing the mob after repeated charges. A number of persons were injured and the town hall was wrecked. Not a single window was left whole.

The students of Birmingham university, which was founded by the efforts of Mr. Chamberlain, held a meeting of protest yesterday and crowds were awaiting admission to the building long before the doors of the town hall were opened. The building filled quickly and it was immediately seen that trouble was coming. While the organist was playing the dissentients began singing "Britons Never Will Be Slaves," until the organist was compelled to desist. Then cheers were raised for "Joey" and a white flag was unfurled amid deafening shouts of "Traftor" as Lloyd-George and friends appeared ca the platform.

All attempts at speech-making were futile, owing to the continuous diu of hissing, hooting and singing. The speakers had to, perforce, content themselves with dictating a few sentences in the ears of the reporters. These were mainly of protest against the agitation stirred up by the "jingo" press.

In the meantime the enormous crowd outside the building had become more noisy and more menacing. Presently a stone came through a window. This caused a stampede among the occupants of the gallery. From this time forward pandemonium reigned in the building and ugly rushes were made for the platform.

The police were soon overpowered. Lloyd-George and his friends were compelled to retreat to an inner room for safety. They were unable to leave the building for fear of mob violence and were kept prisoners until a late hour, when Lloyd George, disguised as a chief constable, left the town hall with a posse of policemen.

Many constables were scriously infured in their attempts to clear the streets, which they did not succeed in doing until a heavy downfall of rain and sleet came to their assistance.

It is rumored that one civilian bas died of injuries received. Several arrests for resisting the police have been made. At a meeting held outside the town hall resolutions of confidence in the government were carried. This meeting sent the following telegram to Mr. Chamberlain:

"Lloyd-George, the traitor, was not allowed to say a word. The citizens have passed a resolution expressing confidence in the government and tl eir admiration of your unique and fearless services for king and country." Estimates of the numbers of the demonstrators vary from 10,000 to 50,-

000 persons. The Birmingham riot is considered a curious illustration of the varigated career of Joseph Chamberlain, the colonian secretary. The Aston Park riots of 1884, it is pointed out, were demonstrations on the part of the Chamberlainites against the so-called Tory intruder, Lord Randolph Churchill, while that of yesterday was against an extreme radical. The feeling against Lloyd-George has been so strong during the past week that even tickets were forged to enable the "jingoes" to gain admission to the town hall. This compelled the Liberal association to print different tickets, but their efforts to exclude their opponents were quite Novel Entertainment at the Park and Downs Church.

The enterainment given by the adies' Aid society of the Wollaston Park and Downs church Wednesday evening, was a most successful affair. The entertainment in the way of a Japanese wedding, was enjoyed by both young and old. The parents of he bride and groom marched in first, and as they turned to march toward their seats they kneeled very slowly and bowed their heads. Then rising they went to their seats. Following them came the "go-between," who would correspond to our minister, followed by the bride and groom Lastly, came the six bridesmaids who like the others, came in couples and bowed before the go-between. When Patrons or at her home No. 44, Spear Street, Quincy.

One of the largest granite deals ever consumated, affecting Milford interests, was made public this noon, says a dispatch of Wednesday to the Boston Globe, involving five Milford quarries New York building firms. The deal day in New York.

Large Granite Deal.

The Milford pink granite construc tion company, just organized under the laws of New Jersey with $500,000 capital, absorbs the properties, quarries and contracts of the Bay State pink granite company of Worcester and Milford and with these properties are joined the assets, contracts and property of the D. H. Hayes construction company of Chicago and those of the Dutton granite company of New York city. The par value of the capital stock is $100.

The property acquired in Milford in cludes the Damrell Bros' quarry, Kcefe quarry, old Milford pink granite quarries owned by Woodbury & Leighton of Boston; Darling Bros' quarry, owned formerly by D. W. Darling of Worcester, and Jasper P. Darling of Chicago.

The officers of the new company are general manager, Daniel W. Darling of tan of Milford, treas, and sec.; Messrs. Hayes, Darling, Brittan, E. F. Burns of Chicago and H. H. Picking of East offices of the company are now at Worcester and New York, but will later be concentrated in the latter city.

The company is producing 25,000 cubic feet of cut granite per month at Milford and has 275 cutters at work or about 500 employes in all. The company has improvements almost completed that will make the monthly output 40,000 cubic feet, and is planning to do a business in 1902 aggregating many hundred thousand dollars.

This deal involves the retiremen from Milford granite holdings of George Draper and Woodbury & Leighton.

Surprise Party. Everybody has a birthday sometime

That of E. Frank Mitchell was on Wednesday, and a few of his many friends decided that this year a more extended notice should be taken of the event. Shortly before 8 o'clock they walked in upon him at his residence on Pleasant street, and with them went a handsome Morris chair. The uninvited guests were told to make themselves at home, and but a few minutes at whist. At the conclusion of two hours' play, it was discovered that Mrs. William Westland and Richard Gordon had made the most points, and their skill was rewarded with two pretty souvenirs. It was also discovered that John Lawry in some unaccountable way, had secured the smallest number of points, and he was presented with a German automatic toy to console himself with,

An affair of this kind would not have been complete without refreshments, and a pleasing lunch was served, Popular games were then in order until King's Daughters, and the Ladies' aid a late hour when the guests took their Society had their respective booths departure, after wishing Frank many beautifully trimmed and lighted, and a happy returns of the day, and receiving from him his thanks for their beautiful gift.

SHOP TODAY. PROPOSED BUILDING RULES

Some Question As to Whether Quincy Requires Such Stringent Regulations.

Accompanying the proposed ordinance establishing the office of Inspector of Building are 24 pages of rules and regulations for the inspec in consolidation with Chicago and tion and construction of buildings. The question has been asked, does the has been in process of formation for city need such stringent regulations? An instalment of the rules without weeks and was only concluded yester- the slight amendments made at the last meeting of the City Council is printed below:

SECTION 15.-RECESSES IN WALLS, ETC.

No continuous vertical recess, chase or flue shall be made in any party wall so deep that it will leave the thickness at the Rack less than 8 inches at any point, and no recess of any kind shall be made in any 8-inch wall. No horizontal recess shall be made in any wall, except by a special permit from the Inspector. No continuous vertical recess, other than flues, in stacks, shall be nearer than 7 feet to any other recess.

SECTION 16.—FIRE WALLS.

1. No buildings erected for mercantile purposes shall be built more than 50 feet in width, measuring along the line of wall facing the street, without a brick partition wall at least 8 inches thick if less than 35 feet high, and 12 inches thick if over 35 feet high and not exceeding 60 feet in height; said wall shall be built up at least 12 inches above the roof at its highest point, and the top of said wall shall be covered with a coping of stone, or iron or other metal; and where there is a mansard or pitched roof, the wall shall be built 24 inches above every part of the roof covering.

2. The provisions of this section shall not apply to single rooms, halls, workshops or manufactories requiring larger dimentions, the construction of which must be approved by the

SECTION 17.—PARTITION WALLS IN DWELLINGS.

All brick buildings to be used as dwellings, tenement or lodging houses, in excess of 40 feet in width, shall have brick partition walls, not less than 12 inches thick, on which the floor beams shall rest, and said walls shall not be more than

SECTION 18.—OPENINGS CUT IN PARTY WALLS, ETC.

No opening or doorway shall be cut through a brick party or partition wall of any building without a permit from the Inspector; and every such doorway shall have top, bottom and sides of stone, brick or iron; shall be closed by two sets of wrought-iron or metal-covered doors (separated by the thickness of the wall) hung to rabbeted iron frames, or to wooden frames entirely covered with metal, or to iron hinges in brick or stone rabbets; shall not exceed 10 feet in height by 8 feet in width; and any opening other than a doorway shall be protected in a manner satisfactory to the Inspector.

SECTION 19.—SCUTTLES, BULKHEADS, ETC.

All brick buildings more than 25 feet in height shall have scuttle-frames not less than 2 x 3 feet in size, or bulkheads anp doors, on the roof, made of or covered with some incombustible material: and every scuttle shall have a stationary step-ladder. and every bulkhead shall have stairs furnished with a sufficient guard or hand-rail, all ready for use at all times; and in a tenement house such a scuttle or bulkhead shall never be locked, but may be fastened by a hook on the inside.

SECTION 20 .- FRAMING FLOORS, ETC.

The ends of all floor-beams and rafters of a brick building entering a wall shall be cut on a splay of four inches in their width, and no roof or floor-beams resting upon the same wall on opposite sides shall have less than 4 inches of brick work between the ends of such beams.

SECTION 21 .- HEADERS, How HUNG.

Every header more than four feet long, used in any brick building, except a dwelling, shall be hung in stirrup-irons of suitable dimensions for the size of the timbers, and securely joint-bolted. All tail beams shall be properly framed or hung

SECTION 22.—CUTTING INTO FLOOR BEAMS.

No floor timber, header or trimmer of any building shall be cut into more than 2 inches in depth for piping without permit from the Inspector; and no cutting shall be made in any timber at a greater distance than two feet from its support.

SECTION 23 .- WOODEN BUILDINGS, FOUNDATIONS, ETC.

1. Foundations of wooden buildings shall rest upon solid ground or suitably driven piles; if of stone, they shall be not less than 20 inches thick at bottom and 16 inches thick at top; and under buildings more than 2 stories high shall be not less than 22 inches thick at bottom and 18 inches thick at top.

2. Foundation walls of brick shall be not less than 12 inches thick, bracketed out at bottom 8 inches one foot high, and laid in one-third cement mortar.

3. All foundations shall be thoroughly bonded, by headers extending through the wall every two feet, and rubble stone foundations shall be laid in mortar one-third cement.

4. Foundation walls shall not be laid on frozen ground.

SECTION 24-UNDERPINNINGS.

1. All brick underpinnings shall be at least 8 inches thick, and all brick underpinnings averaging over three feet high shall be not less than 12 inches thick, and under buildings three or more stories in height shall be not less than 12 inches thick their entire height.

2. All brick work exposed to frost shall be constructed with hard burned brick, suitable for outside use.

3. Any foundation for any dwelling built on other than gravelly or porous soil, shall be underlaid with suitable trench stone to the depth of 12 inches and 4 inches wider than the wall, and said trench shall have an outlet of 4-inch glazed drain pipe. [To be continued.]

Councilman Freeman moved to lay n table.

Councilman DeNormandie would avor the motion if it was for the purpose of securing further light, but if it was a motion to kill the ordinance, ne hoped that there would be no post ponement, but a direct vote tonight. Personally he did not care whether the ordinance was passed or not. If the ordinance as drafted was not satisfactory it should be killed. The Committee had, however, given it very areful study. The Ordinance taken as a foundation was endorsed by the State Inspectors. The draft had been carefully considered by the Master Builders' Association, the Chief of the Fire Department, the City Solicitor, and Commissioner of Public Works, and their suggestions incorporated. Councilman Nichols opposed laying

Tuesday night the Ladies' Benevoent society of the Atlantic Memorial Congregational church gave a turkey supper in honor of the Boys' brigade. The ladies prepared an elaborate spread and the boys provided healthy appetites which made the supper part of it a great success. The tables ooked most attractive. The flowers were furnished by Derringer the florist. The guests of the evening outside the members of Company N were Col. Coleman of Charlestown, Mr. W. F. Blake and Rev. J. H. Whitaker of Atlantic. After supper Capt. Geike introduced Lieutenant Moffat as toastmaster, who was exceedingly bright and apt in his remarks. Speeches were made by every person present each boy giving a story, conundrum, or reminisence of camp life. The meeting ended with songs and with lusty cheers in honor of the ladies.

Red Letter Night.

Wednesday evening was an eventful night in the history of Maple lodge, K. & L. of H., No. 313, and shows that this long established society is popular in the city.

The grand officers were present by initation at Wilson hall and initiated ten candidates in the presence of visiting delegations from Boston, Charlestown, Somerville, Medford, Worcester and Wollaston. Mrs. Carrie Ingram, the district deputy, and suite, were also present. Each of the candidates initiated received a gold medal of the order. The lodge also received six more applications for membership.

After the business there was a banquet in the lower hall, speeches by the Grand officers, deputy and others, instrumental music and a good time.

CABINET'S HEAD POLITICIAN

Who Keeps In Touch With the People More Than Any Other Member-No Break Up of Cabinet Likely to Follow the Resignation of Smith

Washington, Dec. 19.—The retirement of Postmaster General Smith 's not to be taken as an indication of the general breakup of the cabinet, as some commentators try to make out. The retirement was decided upon before anyone expected that President McKinand was deferred after Mr. McKinley's leath so as to give the new president a chance to get his administrative mahinery into good working order. It is time to time, and all in the same way that Mr. Smith retires-after reaching what they consider the highest point of neir possible usefulness, witnessing the aunching of their special enterprises and having got things into a postion hand on the lever and let them run. Mr. Payne was in the president's aind as soon as Mr. Smith announced his definite purpose to return to journalism, and it was obviously impossible Third 2 4:49 P.m. First 18 p.m. New 10 p.m. Full 25 a.m. to move him. The president had intended to invite Mr. Payne to a position requiring special administrative capacity in case a suitable opening offered itself. His faculty for management has been abundantly proved in private business; his health is so greatly improved since his late trip abroad that no apprehension was felt on that score; and politically he and the president are in thorough accord as to the southern policy. The bitterness which once existed against Mr. Payne among the labor unions on account of his relation to the Milwaukee street railroad system, in which occurred one of the most serious strikes of recent with the better understanding between the parties to the struggle. The choice of the chairman of the executive committee of the National Republican committee for this particular place in the cabinet has a certain significance all its own. The postmaster general is the chief politician of the cabinet. The system over which he presides ramifies into every crossroad hamlet in the United States, and there is no department which comes and keeps in so close touch with the people as his. It becomes of prime importance, with matters as they are, that the postmaster general shall "know" politics and politicians and be able to judge for himself what appointments are going to foster factionalism and what are going to be popular and in the interest tions to the findings of Admiral Dewey of general good feeling. On the politstated that such objections may not be Payne is all that could be asked in the the navy.

esident's behalf It may be said for the reassurance of doubters and the disillusionment of those who might cherish false hopes. that the two policies particularly linked with Mr. Smith's administration will be carried forward under Mr. Payne as he understands them, and the president is in full sympathy with them. These are the rural free delivery, which now runs almost automatically, and the reform of second-class postage abuses which Third Assistant Postmaster General Madden has in charge. The portfolio will not change hands until about the middle of January. It is the present purpose of the president not to send the mination of Mr. Payne to the senate till after the Christmas holidays.

New Welterweight Champion Buffalo, Dec. 19.-Rube Ferns, the welterweight champion, went down to used as a cemetery and has extended defeat at the hands of Joe Walcott, the Barbadoes black, in five rounds at Fort Erie last night. Walcott battered down Ferns with terrific body blows and right and left swings to the head. To save Ferns from being completely knocked out, Referee McBride stopped the bout and awarded the decision to Walcott. The men met at 142 pounds and the bout was scheduled for 20 edy for almost all obstinate, constricted coughs,

Nothing to Say About Gift Washington, Dec. 19 .- Andrew Carnegie was in the city yesterday and lunched with the president at the White House. It is understood that the proposed gift of $10.000,000 by Mr. Carnegie to the government for the establishment of a university of higher learning in this city was discussed, but

LYNN STRIKE CONTINUES Kelley Company's Offer of Settlement Not Considered Acceptable

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 19 .- Thomas A. Kelley made an unsuccessful attempt to effect a settlement of the morocco strike yesterday afternoon. He called a conference of the employes of the Weber Leather company, the Pevear company, the A. B. Hoffman company and Thomas A. Kelley & Co., but as the employes of the first three companies had already made a settlement, only a committee from the Kelly company conferred with Mr. Kelly. Mr. Kelly agreed to give $10 a week to side glazers and $11 to bower glazers, as this was the price formerly received by the employes of the Kelly company and the price agreed upon in other factories now. The employes of the Kelly factory objected on the ground that the process in the Kelly factory was different from that in other factories, and therefore refused to entertain the offer. Last night there was the same gathering around the factory as usual, and about 75 employes were escorted away ley would not live out his second term, under police protection. There was no violence shown.

Convenient Pole Saved Lives

South Norwalk, Conn., Dec. 19.-There were many narrow escapes from death not unlikely, however, that certain last night in a fire which totally deother cabinet members may retire from stroyed the building occupied by the Snap Hook and Eye company. A number of young women were working on the second floor and the flames cut off their escape by way of the stairs. A pole was found leaning up to one of the windows from the ground. One where their successors have only to keep after another the girls grasped the pole and slid down to the ground in safety. A few minutes later the room from which they had just escaped was enveloped in flames. The loss was $43,-000. The origin of the fire is unknown

> Costly Stable Fire Clinton, Mass., Dec. 19.-The Clinton House stable, a large wooden building in the rear of the Clinton House, vas burned by a fire that started from an oil stove in the sleeping room of John Mc-Donald, the hostler, this perning, causing the loss of $15,000. McDonald was taken to the Clinton hospital very seriously burned. Such was the rapid spread of the flames that only nine of the horses in the building were saved. Many of the animals burned were trotters and were very valuable.

Policeman For Fifty-Six Years Lynn, Mass. Dec. 19.—Captain John A. Thurston, who has been the oldest policeman in active service in the coun try, died yesterday, after 56 years of police duty at Lynn. He was born in Bradford, and early in life came to Lynn, where he learned the shoemaking trade, and later did a little manufacturing. In 1845 he was appointed on the force of constables of the town of Lynn, and had been connected with the police Governor Stickney's Appointments Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 19.-Governor Stickney has appointed James W. Brock of Montpelier sergeant-at-arms to succeed T. C. Phinney, deceased. > Thinks Boers May Yet Win New Haven, Dec. 19 .- General Pear son, representative of the Boer cause, addressed a company of about 600 persons in Harmonie hall last night. He was repeatedly cheered when his utterances reflected the Boer determination to fight their cause to the bitter end. General Pearson said that with the friendship of a strong power the Boer cause would yet be successful.

Agricultural Society Sued Farmington, Me., Dec. 19.-Mrs. Minni E. Thornton of Chesterville has brought suit against the Maine State Agricultural society for $5000, as a result of the death of her husband on the grounds of the association last September. Mr. Thornton was killed by a stray bullet from a shooting gallery during the progress of the fair in Lewiston

Plaintiff Won on Fourth Trial Providence, Dec. 19 .- After four trials a jury yesterday brought in a verdict for the plaintiff for $6000 in the suit of Catherine Kolb against the Union Railroad company. The plaintiff's husband was killed as a result of a fall from a car. Two juries dis agreed and there was one verdict for the defendant, but a new trial was granted.

Few people can understand the feel ings of the pugilist as he is being counted out. He hears the seconds ticked off. He struggles to rise, but struggles in vain. He has lost the fight.

There are some who are making losing fight for life that can appreciat this; those whose lungs are diseased. With every tick of the watch, they know that they are being counted out.

The great question is how can a quick rally be made to continue the fight against disease? Many who have asked that question have found a satisfactory answer in the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures bronchitis, obstinate, deep-seated coughs, hemor-rhage, night-sweats, emaciation, and other conditions which if neglected or unskilfully treated may find a fatal termination in consumption.

"When I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. John T. Reed, of Jefferson, Jefferson Co., Ark., "I was very low with a cough, and would at times spit up blood. I was not able to do any work at all. was weak and my head was dizzy. The first bottle I took did me so much good that I had faith in it and continued until I had taken twelve bottles. Now I do not look like nor feel like the same man at lwas a vegrago. People twelve bottles. Now I do not look like nor feel like the same man as I was a year ago. People were astonished and said they did not think I could live. I can thankfully say that I am entirely cured of a disease from which had it not been for your wonderful 'Discovery' I would have died."

There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery," which no "just as good" medicine can show.

CANAL BILL REPORTED

15c 2 for 25c SAFEST COURSE TO PURSUE

Work Can Be Carried to Successful Termination Within Reasonable Time at Cost Not to Exceed $180,-000,000-Starter of $10,000,000

Washington, Dec. 20.-Representative Hepburn of Iowa, chairman of the house committee on commerce, yesterday made the report of the committee in favor of the Nicaragua canal bill. After stating the terms of the bill the report says in part: "The purpose of this bill is to concentrate authority and responsibility for the construction of this great work in the hands of the president. It has been believed by your committee that this course would be a safer one to be pursued in carrying out the purposes of large a sum of money, all the work and all the expenditure to be made at a distance so far from the capital, than any other method that could be devised." The report refers to the "exhaustive report made by the isthmian canal commission," and adds, "no doubt is expressed by the commission as to the practicability of the enterprise; on the contrary, they join with a score of pre decessors in expressing their belief that the work can be carried to a successful termination, within the limits of reason able cost and reasonable time." The report then quotes the declarations of the various platforms and Pres idents McKinley and Roosevelt favoring the canal. Mr. Hepburn secured by unanimous consent the right to have the canal bill made the regular order for Jan. 7, and the continuing order, revenue and appropriation bills excepted, until disposed of. This shows that the time of action has come.

The bill is as follows: Section 1. That the President of the United States be, and is hereby, au-12.00 to 40.00 thorized to acquire from the states of 7.50 to | 25.00 | Costa Rica and Nicaragua, for and in be 12 00 to 35.00 half of the United States, control of 4.50 to 25.00 such portion of territory now belong-1.00 to 3.50 ing to Costa Rica and Nicaragua as may 2.50 to 25.00 be desirable and necessary on which to excavate, construct and protect a cana of such depth and capacity as will be sufficient for the movements of ships of from 15 00 up the Caribbean sea, via Lake Nicaragua, to Brito, on the Pacific ocean; and such sum as may be necessary to secure such control is hereby appro priated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

> New York, Dec. 20 .- The provisional executive committee of the United Irish League of America, formed by the Irish envoys before leaving for Ireland, held its first meeting yesterday at the Hoffman house. John F. Finerty of Chicago, president of the newly organized league, presided.

> A constitution and bylaws, based on the lines of the old land league organization were adopted, and arrangements made to organize the country in support of the Irish leaders and the United Irish League in Ireland, which is now arousing the vigorous hostility of the

> The executive committee was engaged until a late hour in drafting an address to the people of this country on which they base their claim to active support of the Irish cause at the present time. The address starts out with this declaration: "Ireland has called upon us, her kith and kin on this continent, and all lovers of liberty, to aid her in winning back from England the istional independence of which she has been so unjustly deprived and Aso the fertile lands, the natural heritage of her people, of which successive crown confications-the result of violated treaties -robbed their ancestors.

"The grievances under which Ireland still labors would justify an si-peal to arms were her military resources and opportunities equal to Ler wrongs and her resentment. Were she in a posttion to draw the sword or use the rifle, with even a reasonable chance of success, we would prefer the method of obtaining her rights and avenging the insults heaped upon her by a remerseless government to any other. But we know that she is not, at present, in a position to cope with the land and sea forces of England which occupy her fortresses, command 'er scaports and can be heavily reinforced from the milltary depots and naval reserves of her

The address then endorses what Mr.

Redmond and his associates said as to the important part emigration is playcludes this portion with the words: "But although often baffled, Ireland is by no means de 'r, a fila. sense. Leaders have risen, fallen and died. Generations of Irishmen and Irish women have been born and have passed away, either on the ative soil or in exile, but the cause of Ireland will not pass away while the race remains faithful to the cradie land and the seas that break upon her shores proclaim in the mighty accents of the creator that he designed her to be an Irish nation, not a British province."

From the above paragraph is then drawn this conclusion: "The great task, then, of this generation, is to strive and root the Irish people in their soil. The young, rural people of Ireland must be given a living interest in the land that gave them birth. In order that they may cleave unto the soil they must be made, like the Frenchman, the Hollander and the Boer, 'armer proprietors. All people who own the soil they till have illustrated their patriotism by magnificent resistance to tyrants.

"This, allied to the underlying cause of Irish national ndependence, is the noble mission of the United frish League of Ireland. It is our Juty to sustain Ireland in her chosen policy which in no way conflicts with our national sentiments, either as friends of Ireland or as American citizens." The address then calls upon Irish-

Americans to form branches of the suddenly last night of heart trouble, at | United Irish League of America, to cooperate with their Irish rethren in the cause of national liberty and agrarian reform. It further suggests that the league can be modeled after the old land league and concludes with an appeal to every man and woman in America who is friendly to the Irish cause to join the United Irish League of America. The address bears the signatures of the executive committee.

When you were a small boy why did you look up the tree for sound apples when the ground at your feet was covered with fallen fruit?

For the same reason that you should look to Locke when purchasing a piano, even if a dozen dealers have a plausible proposition near at hand. To get the best there is for the price you pay.

It is beyond the power of human intelligence to make 100 pianos exactly alike. But all being the same grade—all must be priced alike.

It is not beyond power of Frank A. Locke, 146 Boylston St., Boston, to select for you the best of any number, and save from $25 to $75 in doing it.

RANCH

Roosevelt

How the Rough Rider, Before He Became President, Restocked His Larder For a Yuletide Feast and Went Home Cold and Wet. ********

One December, while I was out on my ranch, so much work had to be done that ot was within a week of Christmas before we were able to take any thought for the Christmas dinner. The winter set in late that year and there had been comparatively little cold weather, but one day the ice on the river had been sufficiently strong to enable us to haul ap a wagon load of flour, with enough salt pork to last through the winter, and a very few cans of tinned goods to be used at special feasts. We had some bushels of potatoes, the heroic victors of a struggle for existence, in which the pers, and we also had some wild plums and dried elk venison. But we had no fresh meat, and so one day my foreman the saddle band from the plateau three miles off, where they were grazing. It was necessary to get to the hunting couple of hours of dawn when the fore-man wakened me with a touch as I lay asleep beneath the buffalo robes. Dress-ing hurriedly and breakfasting on a cup of coffee and some mouthfuls of bread and jerked elk meat, we slipped out to the barn, threw the saddles on the horses and were off.

The air was bitterly chill. The cold had been severe for two days, so that the riv er ice would again bear horses. It had al-ready frozen once and then again thawed Beneath the light covering of powdery snow we could feel the rough ground like wrinkled iron under the horses' hoofs. There was no moon, but the stars shone brilliantly down through the cold, clear air, and our willing horses galloped swiftly across the long bottom on which the ranchhouse stood, threading their way deftly among the clumps of sprawling sagebrush. A mile off we crossed the river, the ice cracking with noises like pistol shots as our horses picked their way gingerly over it. On the opposite side was a dense jungle of bullberry bushes, and on breaking through this we found ourselves galloping up a long, winding valley which led back many miles into the hills. The crannies and little side ravines were filled with brush-wood and groves of stunted ash. By this time there was a faint flush of gray in the east, and as we rode silently along we could make out dimly the tracks made by the wild animals as they had passed and repassed in the snow. Several times we dismounted to examine them. A couple of coyotes, possibly frightened by our approach, had trotted and loped up the valley ahead of us, leaving a trail like that of two dogs. The sharper, more delcate footprints of a fox crossed our path, and outside one long patch of brushwood a series of round imprints in the snow betrayed where a bobcat, as plainsmen term the small lynx, had been lurking around to try to pick up a rabbit or prai-

As the dawn reddened and it became light enough to see objects some little way off we began to sit erect in our saddles and to scan the hillsides sharply for sight of feeding deer. Hitherto we had seen no deer tracks save inside the bullberry bushes by the river, and we knew that the deer which lived in that impeneand that in such a place they could only be hunted by the aid of a hound. But just before sunrise we came on three lines of heart shaped footmarks in the had just crossed a little plain ahead of from the lay of the land we believed we

there was a brush coulee. Riding to one side of the trail, we topped the little ridge just as the sun flamed up, a burning ball of crimson, beyond the snowy waste at our backs. Almost immediately afterward my companion leaped from his horse and raised his rifle, and as he pulled the trigger I saw through th twigs of a brush patch on our left the erect, startled head of a young black tail doe as she turned to look at us, her great, mulelike ears thrown forward.

The ball broke her neck, and she turned a complete somersault down the hill,

The entrails and viscera we threw off to one side after carefully poisoning them from a little bottle of strychnine which I had in my pocket. Almost every cattleman carries oison and neglects no chance of leaving out wolf bait, for the wolves are sources of serious loss to the unfenced and unhoused flocks and herds. In this instance we felt particularly revengeful because it was but a few days sin we had lost a fine yearling heifer. The tracks on the hillside where the carcass lay when we found it told the story plainly. The wolves, two in number, had crept up close before being discovered and then raced down on the astonished heifer almost before she could get fairly started. One brute had hamstrung her with a snap of his viselike jaws, and once down she was torn open in a twinkling.

Merry Christmas! Many hundred years ago, Where Judwan rivers flow,

Made the eastern hilltops bright,
Rose a giar whose radiance mild
Shone upon a little child.
Resting in a lowly manger
Wise men found the little stranger.

Chatting there upon the ground,
Lo, they hear a wondrous sound!
High in air and coming near,
Angel voices sweet and clear,
Rang the glad song from the sky,
"Glory be to God on high,
In the carth good will abound,
Peace and joy be ever found!"
Sing we now as they same then

Sing we now as they sang then, "Peace on earth, good will to men!" This is why the joy bells ring; This is why the children sing.

Merry Christmas, one and all! Merry Christmas, great and small!

As the angels from above Sang of our Redeemer's love, So on all glad Christmas days We will sing the Saviour's praise!

-Boston Herald. CHRISTMAS WISH.

I wish that good old Santa
Would travel like a show
And to his tent of playthings
For nothing let me go.
And take along my stockings
The Cit in laughing sides

To fill in laughing glee With all the things he fondly

Hangs on the Christmas tree. I'd see the pasieboard camel

Wink at the kangaroo;
I'd see the china wombat
And quagga chase the gnu;
I'd see the rubber ostrich Serenely wink his eye
To see the monkey capture

The peanut on the fly, And then I'd see old Santa With all his books of rhymes; I'd grab him by the whiskers

And kiss him fifty times Beneath the fairy dom

And with a lot of playthings Go running gayly home. 'Tis then I think old Santa Should up and go away

And in some other village
Put up his tent next day,
And then go on still farther, And farther still and still To let all lovely children

Their great big stockings fill. 'Twould then be always Christmas,

All musical with joy
And bending tree and turkey
And hobby horse and toy,
For while upon his travels
Old Santa'd scatter cheer;

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 22-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.-Our gifts to our King.-Matt. ii, 1-12.

The story of the birth of Jesus is always an interesting one and particularly that part which tells of the coming of the wise men from the east and of their worship and gifts. Who these wise men were, whence they came or how God led them to come we do not know. Ingenious imaginary descriptions have been given of them and of their meeting together and their journey to Bethlehem, guided by the star, but all these descriptions are speculative. No definite information has been given on the subject, nor is it specially needed.

The fact that wise men did come from the east to seek and to worship Christ at His birth is the certain revealed fact. We know also what they gave to Christ, and it is this that concerns us now. In their gifts they should instruct and inspire us.

The wise men gave themselves to Christ. They gave themselves to Christ at a great sacrifice. It took time and money, the endurance of hardship and the sacrifice of comfort to make their long journey to Bethlehem that they might prostrate themselves before Christ and practically offer first of all themselves to Christ. If we have not done so, we should give ourselves to Christ. Christ is our King, and the King wants first of all His subject-the love of his heart and the consecration of his life. All other giving to Christ is in vain unless we first give ourselves

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW Many Industries So Busy as to Wish to Postpone Deliveries

New York, Dec. 21 .-- R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Holiday trade reached its maximum this week. nearly all sections of the country reporting exceptional distribution. While the class of goods especially stimulated by Christmas demand occupied the position of greatest prominence, general merchandise was not far behind in activity. Transporting interests were just beginning to overcome congested conditions when severe storms made the situation more complicated than before. While it has been assumed on all sides that Mr. Gage would retire when the time seemed most propitious and just the right xan had been found to take up his work where he left it, the assertion that the time was so close at hand gave Washington a good deal of a shock. Mr. Roosevelt, who knew Mr. Gage only slightly, but respected him highly before entering the White House, has s'nce come to have the warmest personal regard for him, and has never been able to look with complacency upon the possibility of his retirement. He considers Mr. Gage the ideal public financier, and his achievements as secretary an unalloyed triumph.

The secretary, on his part, has Lever lost an opportunity of saying that Mr. Roosevelt was trying to do his full duty to his great office, in utter disregard of personal advantage or disadvantage to result from his conduct. If the secretary had felt as the gossips describe him as feeling, he would have got out out some time ago, and the president would have speeded his departure. Of course discussion is rife here as to who will succeed Mr. Gage when he does retire. As the lines are drawn now. they tend to focus upon T. Jefferson Coolidge of Boston. Mr. Long will probably be the next cabinet member to retire, unless his enemies compel him to remain by making him a target for gratuitous attack. The choice of a New England man would thus forestall the re-establishment of the geographical balance in the cabinet, particularly as a western man is succeeding an eastern nan in the postoffice department. Mr. Hanna's choice would probably be Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland.

Mr. Hay and Mr. Hitchcock are liable o return to private life before the four years of President Roosevelt's term are out, but there is still considerable for them to do. A serious objection to bringing Mr.

Herrick into the cabinet would be, if | hand. redited reports are true, that it is the president's intention to make Governor Taft a member of his official household, and he would rather not have two Ohio entrance would most naturally be on the retirement of Secretary Hay, as Secretary Root would then doubtless be promoted to the secretaryship of state, leaving the war portfolio vacant. When Mr. Root's name has been mentioned heretofore in connection with the premiership, objection has been heard in some quarters on the ground that his health was too poor to justify the risk of his succession to the presidency. XMAS CHILDREN'S PARTY.

Merry Times For the Little Folks of the Household.

Christmas is the children's own season. The youngster who goes through child hood without having stored up the memory of many whole souled Christmas froles is being robbed-a robbery of the worst character. Not only the great day iself, but the entire holiday week should be remembered in the mind of the small person for its "jolly good times."

But, apparently, in the whole range of entertaining there is nothing so difficult o "give" successfully as a simple party for children. This comes about because a little sensible thought is not brought to bear upon the subject beforehand.

The keynote of catering for children should be extreme simplicity, says What to Eat.

Do you remember that rabid little joke-

Plain, wholesome food, of which the youngsters can eat plenty without injuring their health should be provided in satisfying quantities. Serve everyday viands, but serve them in such a way that they will appear to be of most unusual varieties.

For example, plain bread and butter cut in the usual way the youngster who goes a-partying would scorn; but cut the bread into fancy shapes—diamonds, hearts, triangles-with a cake cutter; form it into sandwiches, tied with bebe cibbon—such sandwiches will be considered delectable feasting.

Don't serve tea or coffee. Pure milk, chocolate not too rich and lemonade are the more sensible beverages.

For a buffet refreshment serve cold sliced meat, preferably lamb, beef or chicken; bread and butter sandwiches, with perhaps a little good marmalade spread between well baked rolls, hot bouillon, pure ice cream with homemade cake, fruit and simple bonbons. If the-feast is to be a "sit down" affair, havesomething on the following order: Clearbeef soup with croutons, chicken with cranberry sauce and one or two of the vegetables in season, or chops with peasor spinach and baked potatoes, a simple pudding, ice cream and cake, with fruit.

But whatever the plan of the festivity may be let a number of merry little catches be introduced. Children love mysteries and surprises. Provide plenty of the german favors which contain paper caps, etc. Have a bag suspended from the ceiling which, when struck with a cane, bursts, showering sugared almonds and other good things.

In the center of the table on which the feast is spread have a miniature Christmas tree arranged to stand upright in a green basket or box. This tree is resplendent with tinsel paper, and from its branches dangles an inexpensive gift for every child of the number.

Around the tree, upon the cloth, may extend a wreath of red carnations. After the meal this wreath is discovered to be composed of boutonnieres—as many as there are children in the gathering. Each child receives his gift by drawing the red ribbon which lies nearest his

'Tis now the joyous Christmas time; The panes are etched with pens of rime. (Alas, that one so young as I Should lend myself to such a lie! Alas, that truth should be defied When both the windows at my side, Though screened by wire, are open wide.

The air is rent by sleet and hail; The snow is deep on hill and dale. ('Tis hard to think that this is true When grass is green and skies are blue, But think it true a poet must, Though every wanton, wayward gust Increase his table's coat of dust.)

The yawning grate with flame's aglow; The walls are green with mistletoe (And yet upon the street without I hear the melon huckster's shout, And as I toil to earn a check My comar stiff becomes a wreck. And beads of sweat run down my neck.)

The singing wires are harped, I ween, By frosty fingers all unseen. (Another fib for which I'm paid-In fact, it's ninety in the shade; But art defhands the early bird, And Christmas lays can't be deferred; I'm laying this on August third!)

Good Afternoon

This is coffee-room weather. A city. with so clean a record as Quincy has, from January 1 to April 1. In one city 400 and 500 bolomen, and practically coffee rooms with simple viands, like nicely baked beans and tish balls, took their place, sold at little above cost and was paid, and a bank account to the credit of coffee rooms had begun. Miss Bracket wished to start some and to pay the cost, but her gentle life will help our large body of working men along these lines in 1902.

SUPPLEMENTARY REASONS

To the Argument Made Before the Court of Inquiry-Insistence Upon as soon as the senate convenes. In the Contention That First Report Was Court's Unanimous Opinion

Washington, Dec. 21.-Judge Advocate Lemly and Solicitor Hanna yesterday afternoon submitted to Secretary Long their report upon the bill of objections filed by Admiral Schley, tack upon Gage, which the president rethrough his counsel, to the findings of the Schley court of inquiry.

The report says that it is "somewhat difficult to deal with this paper on account of its general and non-specific character and sweeping, though unsupported, assertion of opinion by the applicant and his counsel that, in their judgment, the adverse finding of the court is not justified by the evidence. The paper might be dismissed as simply a not unexpected expression of dissatisfaction with an adverse judgment but for the fact that it contains a number of mis-statements and particularly has woven throughout its entire structure an inaccurate and misleading use of the words 'majority of the court.'

"The findings of fact and the opinion of the court of inquiry in the case of Admiral Schley upon the more important and material points before it were not reached by a majority of the members only, but by the entire court. The points of the precept upon which all the 'nembers of the court unite appear to be incontrovertibly established by the evidence. It is not understood how any other conclusions could have been reached upon them; and they constitute the essential features of the entire matter under inquiry.

"The evidence adduced before the court conclusively shows that on May 26, 1898, when within a few Liles of Santiago, to which point he was under orders to proceed with the utmost dispatch, and where he was advised that the enemy's fleet was reported to be. and where in fact it was actually was, Commodore Schley turned about with the fleet under his command, cor sisting of some of the best vessels of the American navy, and headed for a home port more than 700 miles distant, without sufficient reason or excuse for such action, taking with him at the same time the scouting vessels the department had sent there to watch the entrance and leaving the port of Santiago, with the enemy's fleet inside, unguarded. Upon this point the court says in its opinion: 'He should not have made the retrograde turn westward with his squadron.' In the face of the facts the court could not have found otherwise.

action with his fleet Commodore Schley | trust law, and the attorney general conwas overtaken by a dispatch vessel sidered that he could not convict under bearing an urgent order, dated May 25, from the department, in substance directing him to proceed to Santiago, ascertain facts, report and not suffer the enemy to escape; that, nevertheless be continued to retreat with his squadron, telegraphing to the secretary of the navy: 'It is to be regretted that the department's orders cannot be obeyed.' The court found that he should have promptly obeyed the navy department's order of May 25. Disobedience of an important order in time of war having thus been virtually confessed, no other finding by the court was possible.

"Commodore Schley's explanation of the retrograde movement and of his disobedience of orders, as made at the time in a full telegram to the department on the subject, was, in substance, shortage of coal and inability to coal the ships of his squadron from the collier. The evidence developed before the court shows that the squadron was well equipped with coal and that coal had been and could be readily taken from the collier. There was nothing for the court but to find as it did that Commodors Schley's official reports regarding the coal supply and the coaling facilities of the flying squadron were 'inaccurate and misleading.' An attempt to justify by inaccurate and misleading official reports the turning homeward of a powerful squadron at a critical period of war in disobedience of orders is a very serious matter.'

In substance the balance of the report is an argument supplementary to the argument made by the writers before the court of inquiry. They insist that the court was justified in rejecting Admiral Schley's evidence by the number of witnesses who took issue with him, and that there is no sufficient reason for a reopening of the case as requested by Admiral Schley. Secretary Long has not yet acted upon the report but is expected to do so today. If adopted, the report will be forwarded to Admiral Schley.

WAKEMAN'S LACK OF TACT Has Cost Him the Position of Ap-pra ser at Port of New York Washington, Dec. 21.-The president Not Sustained by Navy De- has removed Appraiser Wakeman of New York, on the recommendation of Secretary Gage. He will be succeeded by George Whitehead of New York. After the cabinet meeting yesterday orders were issued at once by the presi dent for papers to be made out for the instantaneous removal of Appraiser Wakeman "for the good of the service." and the nomination of Mr. Whitehead

meanwhile the appraiser at the port of Boston has been detailed to look after the appraiser's duties at New York, so that Wakeman will be unable to do anything by indirecton even to impede or embarrass the work in New York. Wakeman could not have demonstrated more strikingly the lack of tact of which he is accused than by his atsents as if it had been directed against himself. The letter received by the president consists of a studied and systematic attack on the administration of Gage in the customs division. This letter also announces the appraiser's intention not to resign, and argues that his resignation would be a virtual admission of guilt or incompetency and a surrender to the enemies who have been seeking by unfair means to recomplish his downfall.

Wakeman asserts that Secretary Gage is to blame for much of the friction that has occurred in the administration of the customs business of New York, and that the secretary had lent aid and comfort to his enemies by listening to allegations and complaints from persons whose reputations ought to nullify any testimony they might offer.

Many Lives Were Jeopardized

New York, Dec. 21.-The lives of 100 girls were threatened last night by fire which broke out in the building of the Baroness de Hirsch institute and training school for girls. The inmates had retired, when flames were discovered quickly the whole building was filled with dense smoke and the girls in their night robes fled to the top floor. Many of them climbed on the window sills and made ready to jump, but were warned back by the spectators. In the rush several of the girls were tramped down or swooned. Finally ladders were placed at the windows and the work of rescue was carried out quickly and successfully. None of the girls was seriously injured.

These thoughts passed quickly through her mind. The risk of losing his love and respect seemed too great to face. She slipped the bracelet from her wrist and handed it to the man. "There, take it and go quickly," she said, with white, drawn face.

He snatched it from her and walked away, humming a lively air and look ing the virtuous man he claimed to be as he passed her husband a short distance from the gate.

John Graham greeted his young wife affectionately, and together they entered the house. He observed her pallor for the first time as she turned up the light of the dining room lamp.

"What's the matter, Annie?" he inquired anxiously. "You look as if you had got a fright. Have you been moping in my absence? Silk In England.

King James I. was very anxious to naturalize the silkworm in England and to establish a native manufacture of the product. To this end a great many mulberry trees were imported from North America, and a fine plantation of them was made near St. James' palace on ground where Buckingham palace now stands. This plantation was known as the Mulberry Gardens and became a kind of recreation ground. Both Evelyn and Pepys record their visits here, and Dryden is said to have brought a lady friend here to enjoy the "mulberry tarts." Close by were the necessary houses and appliances for rearing the silkworms and the manufacture of the silk. But the king's experiment failed.

The National Period of American Literature

BY LORENZO SEARS, LIT. D., Professor of American Literature in Brown University. ्रिकालकार्वाकार्वाकार्वाकार्वाकार्वाकार्वाकार्वाकार्वाकार्वाकार्वाकार्वे опиниментиничением IX.—John Pendleton Kennedy. William Gilmore Simms.

> ASSING from the New York coterie and by the little company of poets who were keeping up the literary traditions of Philadelphia as best they could, one would have found in Baltimore in 1832 a lawyer and a statesman who was showing that the south could contribute its own characteristic share to the romance of the period. John Pendleton Kennedy, born in 1795, joined the volunteer service in the war of 1812, at the close of which he began legal studies and in 1818 took up literary pursuits as a diversion. Politics appears to have been forced upon him with the honor of repeated election to congress and attendant positions of responsibility culminating in the secretaryship of the navy, an office that has been filled several times by men of letters. Twenty years before this, in 1832, he published his first novel, "Swallow Barn; or, a Sojourn In the Old Dominion," portraying plantation life in Virginia on its white side, genial, generous and hospitable. The sketches which are here strung on the thread of a story have a flowing ease of diction and an accuracy of observation that are continually suggestive of Irving and "Bracebridge Hall." Their minuteness of descriptive detail is photographic in accuracy, leaving also strong impressions of salient features and a general view of somewhat drowsy and disheveled landscapes, like those of the Hudson in the days of the Dutch. Sleepy Hollow is recalled by the dell on the banks of the James and Ichabod Crane by the Pedagogue club. Faithful representations are given of the courthouse scenes and county politics, of domestic economies and extravagances, of convivial boards and moonlight hunts.

"Horse-Shoe Robinson" was one of the earliest examples of historical romance written in America. Cooper had set a copy which none of his countrymen had been able to imitate for ten years after "The Spy" was written, but by 1835 Kennedy could send out something better than an imitation in the story which closes with the battle of King's Mountain in the war of independence. This time he placed his romance in South Carolina and went back as far as Scott did when he began "Waverley; or, 'Tis Sixty Years Since." Historical events of the Revolution were getting far enough back to be seen in proper perspective. Around them were gathering the mist of tradition, sufficient to produce a requisite halo of romance. Even a delightful myth had time to harden into a fact in threescore years, and what statement of contemporaries was ever so definite and well attested that the acumen of a later criticism was not able to upset? This writer was as faithful to the record as a novelist is required to be, but every one knows that there is no such basis for fiction as fact and that history is the most ductile, malleable, pliable and flexible of all materials. Therefore if any statistician approaches our first or second or twentieth writer of historical romances with Pilate's question, "What is truth?" let him turn to historians in every nation and time from Herodotus down to find a satisfactory answer. If he then addresses the great body of readers, he will also discover that the history they remember best was learned in novels and sometimes that the later the history the nearer the sifted tradition comes to romance.

Three years later he published "Bob of the Bowl." In this story he came nearer his home, but went further back in history to the colonial days of the second Lord Baltimore and of the disturbances consequent upon King Charles' order to substitute Protestants for Roman Catholics in every provincial office of trust. Pictures of domestic life alternate with wilder scenes on land and sea in a time when smuggling was not sharply distinguished from legitimate commerce by adventurous skippers. Portraiture of colonial life itself ranged from the governor's mansion to the corsair's hiding place, from the nobleman and cavalier to the tailor and mountebank. In it all a picture of the times is afforded that no chronicle or annals or more pretentious history has given. As the author had begun his literary career with the anonymous and Salmagundian "Red Book" of local funmaking and satire upon the town, so he closed it with a political satire entitled "Quodlibet, by Solomon Secondthought, Schoolmaster," on the period of the national bank and contemporary issues. But the last book is not like the first nor is any one of his three other umes like either of its companions. They are as diverse at least as the provinces with which they deal and, while remaining faithful to the features of each, are broadly and pleasantly southern in their general character.

A more prolific southern author was William Gilmore Simms of South Carolina. He, too, began life as a lawyer, but left his profession for a more active career as a writer, first of verses after an unsuccessful newspaper experience, publishing his "Lyrical and Other Poems" in 1827 and three other volumes in as many years. "Atalantis, a Story of the Sea." composed on the Massachusetts shore, brought him a generous welcome by the guild of authors in New York, the Harpers issuing this poem and also his first tale, entitled "Martin Faber." Then followed a time of production marvelous in its industry and fertility-poems, plays, reviews, essays, biographies and, more numerous still, novels which flowed from a quill that surpassed the so called ountain pen of recent invention and untrustworthy habits.

"The Yemassee," "The Partisan," "Southern Passages and Pictures," 'Donna Florida," "The Wigwam and the Cabin," "The Damsel of Darien" and the like are the author's sign manual of the gifts that are to follow and of what sort they will be. There will be sunshine in them as in the land where they were written, but alternating with black clouds and terrific storms, loyalty with disloyalty, peace with war, family affection with the feuds of kinsmen, the love of independence with fidelity to colonial tradition, love with duty, filial devotion with a lover's consecration, all intensified by the undenible influences which belong to race and environment.

To characterize these 44 volumes that he published in 33 years would manifestly be beyond the scope of anything less than a literary biography. On the other hand, it may be said of this voluminous writer, as of many who have written less, that to quote a single passage as an example of his production is as just as to bring forward a scale of bark and say, "Behold the Passing by "Guy Rivers" and the rest of his border stories and the Indian romance of "The Yemassee," a great success, the first of the Revolution tales, "The Partisan," appears the same year with Kennedy's "Horse-Shoe Robinson," 1835. In this, as in the most of his narratives, true or fictitious, there is an abundance of action, and, while the reader is hurried over rough places, there is no danger of falling asleep.

In "Mellichampe" the career of Marion during the period described, the writer asserts, is true to the letter of written history. If the story varies from this, the author is careful to mention in a preface that the divergence is supported by tradition. But he will not dignify this interesting episode with the name of historical romance, because it contains nothing which had a visible effect upon the progress of the Revolution. Still, it throws a strong light upon "the times that tried men's souls" and gives that personality and particularity to events and actors which the best histories cannot stop to give in dealing with large issues.

The reader who takes up these romances of our earlier writers must not expect them to resemble the fine spun creations of the present day. They are not fabrications of the drawing room and the city street or country village. They belong to the frontier, the settlement or the colonial town, to backwoodsmen, patriot troops and British regulars. As such they have a roughness or sometimes an inartistic artificiality that is no better, with scenes that would be overdrawn if they were less than true in their violence. They represent the heroic time in all its strength of purpose with the incidental bitterness that grew out of it between men of the same neighborhood or of the same race who had resorted to arms on a question of loyalty to an oppressive government or of independent home rule. Fourscore years later readers of these romances could understand in the light of a subsequent war how families could be separated and feuds spring up between friendly households and some of the distresses of an earlier time be reproduced. A few other novelists of this primitive period do not deserve the oblivion that is likely to befall them. Dr. Robert M. Bird of Philadelphia is best remembered by the character of Spartacus in "The Gladiator," but "Nick of the Woods," a post-Revolution story, endeared him to the youth of his day and gave him the questionable pre-eminence of being the patriarch of all who manufactured dime novels stuffed with Indians, tomahawks and scalping

A physician of New York, Dr. William S. Mayo, gratified the roving procensity of the Yankee nation by constructing a story out of his observations during a tour through the Barbary states and Spain, in which he weds Jonathan Romer, a thoroughbred Vermonter, to an African princess rejoicing in the mellifluous name of Kaloolah, furnishing also a title to a novel of tropical luxuriance in some respects. To this he added "The Berber; or, The Mountaineer of the Atlas," in similar strain, and "Romance Dust From the Historic Placer," stories founded upon historical incidents. Still other writers of kindred fiction who had their brief day of recognition and patronage have faded and disappeared in the receding distance.

ATONEMENT FOR MURDERS

Committed During the Boxer Uprising-Heads of Fifty Villages Guarantee Protection to Chinese Christians If They Will Return Home

Pekin, Dec. 21.—The officials of Tung Chow gave a remarkable funeral yesterday to a number of native Christians vho were massacred last year. This action was taken in accordance with an agreement between missionaries and the officials, by which the missionaries were to refrain from demanding the punishment of those who murdered the Christians if the officials would make public atonement for the crimes and impress the people with respect for missionaries and converts.

The funeral procession traversed the principal streets of the walled city of Tung Chow. There were 79 coffins to be interred and these were ollowed by hundreds of relatives of the victims The procession was composed of a company of Chinese cavalry, a company of infantry, several bands and hundreds of men carrying gaudy funeral emblems.

The procession took two hours to pass the reviewing stand, where were gathered the city officials, General Ma, commander of the Chinese troops who be sieged Tien Tsin, Mr. Conger, American minister to China, and many American and English missionaries.

An immense crowd witnessed the uneral services at the cemetery. The Chinese troops, the police and the funeral attendants formed in a square, with the officials, the missionaries and the white clad mourners in the centre near the grave.

Chinese officials from 50 villages where the Christian converts had been massacred attended the interment and bowed before the banners, as they eulogized the Christians for having died in defense of their faith. These of ficials subsequently signed documents guaranteeing protection to the Chinese Christians if they would return to their Christmas exercises consisting of singing and recitations were held in Pond school Friday afternoon previous to the distributions of gifts from the trees to every pupil in the building.

The Penniman kindergarten and first primary held very pleasing public exercises Friday morning. A number of Christmas songs made Christmas seem near. The marching by the children was a new feature. A glorious Christmas tree stood in one corner of the room. Each child had made a neat little article for papa and mama. Kind friends had prepared ice cream and cake and a bag of candy for each child present. Miss Knight and her assistants deserve much credit for the excellence of the program.

In the afternoon the scholars in grades two and three gave exercises appropriate to Christmas. Their teacher, Miss Harriet C. Taylor, is to be complimented as well as the children, for the success of the program. Ice cream and cake was given by parents.

ROOT CENSURES MILES

And the Approval by Secretary Long of Inquiry Are the Latest Phases of yesterday. She was hauled off and the Schley-Sampson Controversy

THE DISMISSAL OF MACLAY

Washington, Dec. 23.-Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, commanding the army, received on Saturday from Secretary of War Root, by direction of and in the name of the president, one of the most stinging rebukes ever administered to a high military officer, because of an interview he gave a few days age to a western newspaper expressing his views on the findings of the Schley court of inquiry. Coincidently, Admiral Dewey, the highest officer of the navy, received an indirect but somewhat severe rebuke from Secretary Long, because of his declaration in the memorandum he filed with the report of the Schley court that Admiral Schley was in command at the battle of Santiago. The veiled rebuke to Admiral Dewey is contained in Secretary Long's indorsement on all the papers in the Schley controversy, in which he approves the findings of he majority of the court of inquiry, disapproves Admiral Dewey's individual memorandu a, and indorses the recommendation of the court that no further proceedings be had in the premises, thus closing the whole case so far as the navy department is concerned and refusing the application of Admiral Schley for a rehearing. The action of Secretary Long in the Schley case, like that of Secretary Root in the case of Lieutenant General Miles, was taken after consultation with the president and with the latter's full approval, so that the effect of the whole is to make it unmistakably clear that P:resident Roosevelt is determined the Schley controversy shall end at once so far as the army and the navy and the executive department of the government are concerned; and as a logical sequence to the closing of the case, Secof Maclay, the author of the history of he navy, who accused Admral Schley of cowardice and thus brought on the court of inquiry. The action of Secretary Long in the Schley case was not unexpected, and therefore created little comment. But sensation was caused by Secretary Root' severe letter of ensure to Lieutenant General Miles for obtruding his opinions on a matter effecting the disci-

Whose Object Is to Oppose American Occupation of the Philippines-Restoration of Military Control In Misamis Recommended

Manila, Dec. 23.-General Davis, commanding at Zamboanga, Island of Mindanao, has requested that the prevince of Misamis, Mindanao, again be placed under military control.

General Davis has proof that the recently elected presidents and vicecouncillors, and the leading men of Cagayan de Misamis, are guilty of treason in furnishing ammunition to the insurgents within the past month. The fiscal of the province of Misamis is also implicated. The evidence shows that all these men were members of the secret Katipunan society. General Wade, commanding the American forces on Cebu island, concurs and endorses the request of General Davis, and reviewing the situation in Mindanao says he is satisfied that the ends of justice, peace and good government will soonest be obtained by the restoration of military control to the province of Misamis and the evercoming of all resistance to that authority.

It is expected that the United States Philippine commission will efuse this request, as they did a 'imilar application made by General Chaffee c : cerning the province of Tayabas, Luzou, where the rebels have recently been particularly active.

General Chaffee, speaking with the correspondent here of The Associated Press on the situation in the islands, said he considered conditions in the Philippines to be hopeful and that by the end of Februrary all the turbulent provinces will have been pacified. General Chaffee excepts the Island of Samar, however, which will probably require some months longer. Governor Crane Says Nothing Regard. ing Tender of Cabinet Position Springfield, Mass., Dec. 23.- The doubt in regard to Governor Crane's attitude toward President Roosevelt's tender of the office of secretary of the treasury must be cleared up from Washington. The governor himself has absolutely nothing to say. It is learned at Dalton that he has dispatched his decision to which ought to reach its destination today. What the governor has said to the president is left wholly to inference and no pointers can be obtained from him. The reporters have found him absolutely impervious to attack.

son was committed to the Montpelier jail by Justice Dickie upon the charge of assault with intent to kill upon William Recor of East Barre. Recor has several bad gashes in his head made with a knife, and his condition is such that he may not recover.

Kennerson admits the assault, but says he mistook Recor for another Likely to Undergo Substantial Modi- man, although he will not say who his intended victim was. Kennerson is about 40 years old and Recor 35, the It-Unwilling to Make a Bargain latter being married. The assault took place just after dark Saturday night near the East Barre postoffice, Recor being attacked from behind. Assistance reached him just in time vo save him from being killed.

WONDERFUL CALMNESS

and Left No Message to the World-Electrocution Successful In Every Respect-Brief Story of His Crime

Boston, Dec. 24.-Without fear, Franceszek Umilian walked from his cell to the electric chair at 12:30 this morning and died without a murmur. A wonderful prisoner, he showed that he believed death preferable to imprisonment. When he was on trial for murder he was asked if he would not make a confession and thereby escape death and in its place take a life sentence At that time he said no; he would rather die than drag out his life behind the bars. He showed that he had the moral courage of his convictions, for he made no faltering step and left no message to the world. The electrocution was successful, even more so, if it were possible, than that of last week. The death warrant was read to him during the day, but to it he made no reply. He was in readiness soon after midnight after Fr. Anderson, the prison chaplain, had spent a few minutes with him in prayer. Officers went after the prisoner and he rose from his couch and prepared to go with them. With the crucifix in his left hand and following after Fr. Anderson he walked down the corridor and into the chamber, gave a glance around the room and with marrellous calmness seated himself in the chair. He was absolutely without sign of fear, and yet there was no bravado; it seemed a natural act of his and he did not show any excitement even when the 50c to $1.00 leathern band was placed over his eyes. 50c to 3.50 The preparations were speedily ac-50c to $3.50 complished and at 12:20 the signal was He died without a sound and the stilless of the death chamber was only broken by Fr. Anderson's prayer for the dying. To the witnesses only a few feet away it did not look as if the unfortunate man's lips even moved in prayer, Per pair 25c but there had been a slight response to Fr. Anderson. The current of 19 ampheres was applied for seven seconds, seconds, and the two strengths repeated, making the total contact a minute. After a brief wait, a second contact, for not over two seconds, was given. Muscular action had shown enalty was a horrible one. Kasimiers Jedrusek, commonly called "Jack," disappeared on Dec. 31, 1899, from the farm of Monroe Keith in Granby. He and Umilian were employed there as farmhands. On the following April 10, after a long search about the farm, the body of Jedrusek, horriby cut up and headless, was found in a sack in an unused well. Two days later the head was unearthed under the barn. Umilian and his wife Rosa were arrested, and both protested their innocence. Rosa was not prosecuted.

The conviction of Umilian was secured on circumstantial evidence. The government held that a corn-cutter had settlers. been used to cut up the body, and that the crime was committed while the Keith family were at church. The motive, so far as it was established at the trial, was that the men had trouble because of a charge of two pounds of butter alleged to have been stolen by Jedrusek, and because Jedrusek had written to the priest at Chicopee before Umilian was married to Rosa, a domestic employed by Mrs. Keith, warning the priest that Umilian had a wife in the old country. It was also shown that Umilian had made threats against Jedrusek in substance that he would fix him if he meddled with his proposed marriage with Rosa, which took place Nov. 18. Both men had lived in the Connecticut vailey for about 10 years. During that time Umilian had saved and deposited in savings banks about $1400. Mr. Keith said both men were on the farm when he left for church, Jedrusek having harnessed the horse. He was missing when Mr. Keith returned, and Umilian and Rosa both said they did not know where he had gone. Witnesses testified to overhearing the quarrels between the men over Rosa. Umilian insisted that he did not kill Jedrusek, and knew nothing about the crime. No actual evidence of the murder was adduced. Umilian was tried before Judges Sherman and Stevens at Northampton on Oct. 5, 1900. The jury was out five hours. Sentence of death in the electric chair in the following July was imposed at the next sitting of the court. Before July came, however, Umilian was relife imprisonment. After a hearing the successor.

request was refused. Umilian was removed to the state prison on July 1, and practically since that time had been in murderer's row. He took his imprison ment with indifference. At his trial he was asked by Judge Sherman if he wished to say anything, and his reply was: "Me no kill Jack or anyone."

Ministers Think They Are a Backward Step

A QUESTION OF PRINCIPLE

Rather Than the Quantity of Beer Consumed at Socials-Methodists and Baptists Adopt Resolutions Concerning Socials of Students

Boston, Dec. 24.-Recent reports of the inauguration of a series of "beer socials" at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have aroused the clergymen of various denominations and the matter was taken up by the Baptist, Methodist and Congregationalist ministers at their weekly meetings yes-

At the Methodist preachers' meeting Rev. Dr. W. T. Worth gave a lengthy report of the investigation committee that had been appointed at the meeting of a week ago to look into the statements regarding the recent beer-drinking by students at Technology. The substance of this report was that Dr. Pritchett of the institute wrote to the committee a full letter, in which he says that the amount of beer drank at the "student smoker" was very small-only 56 pints for 97 men, according to the report of the president of the class-and that he allowed the gatherings of the classes on the property of the institution, where a simple lunch was furnished, with a moderate amount of beer, rather than have the students meet at hotels and restaurants.

The committee declared that this was not a question of pints and quarts, but a question of principle.

Resolutions were unanimously adopted, saying that "the members of the Boston Methodist ministers' meet ing are greatly shocked and pained at this decadence in temperance sentiment and practice and hereby express our earnest hope that this backward step may be speedily abandoned in the interest of a really safe and technical education and for the sake of moral welfare of the hundreds of young men who are receiving its valued instruction, and of the thousands who, we believe, shall yet share its superior intellectual and practical advantages."

tions, which were adopted: "The Baptist conference of Boston and vicinity are constrained to make public their deep regret at the attempt C. Rathbun, who was tried on the made lately by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to establishamong man by giving him poison, was found its students the beer-drinking habits of guilty last night of manslaughter and German university life. While dishis punishment was fixed at 2 to 14 claiming all right or purpose to interfere years in the penitentiary. Rathbun's with the personal opinions or habits of the professors or the students, they deem it proper for them to respectfully urge that it is the settled policy of this commonwealth not to encourage the use of intoxicating drinks, but to discourage it by all possible restriction on the tariff, and they deem it unseemly for an institution supported by the state to antagonize this policy, especially as it is generally conceded that the use of intoxicating liquor as a beverage constitutes a serious impediment in the way of that intellectual culture and progress which the institution was founded to promote." A similar resolution was offered at the Congregationalist ministers' meeting, but it was tabled. On motion of Rev. Mr. Carter it was voted to invite President Pritchett of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to address them next Monday on the "Students'

This idea of a canal commission, which Senator Morgan has already fathered, is only too liable to degenerate into a scheme for providing politicians with "fat snaps" a salaries of $10,000 or $5,000 a year. Springfield Republican.

As it is impossible to assign any ne date for the landing of the Pilgrims themselves, so it is impossible to assign any one date for the acceptance of the Pilgrim idea in America. The progressive landing of the men and women and children of the Pilgrim band represent fairly well the progressive landing, so to speak, of all that the Pilgrim stood for. He did not himself realize what his coming to this country meant. So far as his ideas were definite they were what in this day we are too apt to call narrow. He was insignificant in himself, and there was not one of his landings which did not appear insignificant to him. In all that bitter winter, when he was trying to gain a foothold on a forbidding shore, there was probably no time when some members of the band were terprise as foolish or futile. It must have seemed like the impertinence of a few pigmies toward the giants of nature. And yet that vessel and its passengers stood for a free government not to be realized fully in a day or a amphed at last. So their ideas finally come to the acceptance which The loyalty of Gov. ### BURKE VS. BURKE.

Will Thomas F. or James F. be Chief of Police?

Will there be a change in the head of he Police department?

Rumor has it that there will, if Mayor-elect Bryant can decide on which of two men to appoint. Both of these men are from Ward

Four but the strange part of it is, one s prominent in the Republican forces and one is a leader of the Democracy.

Many will be surprised if there is any change for they say the administration of Chief Hayden has been satisfactory. They realize, however, that he does not live in Wards Four, Five or Six and any one outside of these favored places should not aspire to any office in 1902, unless it be Chief Williams of the Fire department. The two West Quincy candidates for

Chief of Police are said to be Thomas F. Burke and James F. Burke. The former has never aspired for office but few have been more prominent in politics since Quincy became a city. At present he is chairman of the Ward Four Republican Committee and on the executive committee of the Republican City Committee. He is also a member of the Norfolk County Republican Committee.

James F. Burke, said to be his rival, has had many plums in the past, having been postmaster under President Cleveland and City Treasurer since. Before these appointments he was elected to the City Conncil and as a Representative to the Legislature. He has been president of the Democratic City Committee and a worker for the party for years.

Probably if interviewed both men Tobias H. Burke, their brother, is assistant postmaster of Quincy.

Homes For Martins Designed by Arthur Orr.

REAL PALACES FOR BIRD PETS.

Arthur Orr, the board of trade operator who lives at Evanston, Ill., on the bluff overlooking the lake, has solved the problem which bothers people each year for a month before Christmas, says the Chicago Record-Herald. He has found an absolutely novel Christmas gift with which to make his they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 25c. and 50c. Trial size free. At all druggists. Mr. Orr has contracted with a car penter to build a number of martin boxes, veritable bird palaces in fact, and these homes for the feathered kind he is going to present to many of his friends who live along the lake in the north suburbs. The martin houses are to be placed upon poles to be erected in the grounds of the recipients in time for the coming of the families of the purple martins from the southland in the spring. Two of the most ornate birdhouses have already been completed and have been presented to Hiram R. McCullough, vice president of the Northwestern railroad, who lives in Lake Forest, and to Charles W. Deering of Chicago, Dec. 23.-The jury in the case the Deering Harvester company, a of Lawyer Alexander Sullivan, on neighbor of Mr. Orr. In giving these two presents a little ahead of the Christmas time Mr. Orr told his friends that if they wanted the pleasantest day with a verdict of guilty. As pun- neighbors possible to have they should each get a colony of purple martins to $2000. This carries with it no prison locate on his premises. Mr. Orr has had the martins now for two seasons would deny that they are candidates. manded that Sullivan be taken to jail, and he knows whereof he speaks. As a matter of fact, he has so many mar demand. Sullivan's counsel entered a tins that the question of supplying accommodations for them all has becom a serious one, and as he does not wish the birds to go far away he is giving his friends the birdhouses in order that they may get the advantage of the feathered overflow.

The coming of the martins to Mr. Orr's doorstep makes a story of inter est. Three years ago the Chicago board of trade man did not know that the beautiful purple martins ever came north of the Ohio river. One day when In Wisconsin he heard the sweet twittering notes of some birds, and, looking up, he saw that they were martins. He said to himself, "If they have them in Wisconsin, I can have them perhaps in Illinois." And he has succeeded in getting them. When he was a boy in Louisville, Ky., a German neighbor of the Orrs put up a miniature Swiss cottage on a pole, and the purple martins made a home of it. The memory of the birds chung to Mr. Orr all through his after life, but he never saw one in the north, although they are plentiful in some localities, until he met them i

Last spring the birds came back again and in largely increased numbers. A second house was put up, and it was occupied speedily. The birds ere this have left for the southland, but there is no question about their return next year. They have some severe fights with the English sparrows and strangely enough, with the native redheaded woodpeckers, who insist on poking inevisitively into the martins' housekeeping. The birds are protected in every way possible, and Mr. Orr enjoys the music of his boyhood. During the the usual motion and the prisoner was evening a young lady asked Kubelik for his autograph. Her request led to similar requests from half a hundred others. For a quarter of an hour Kubelik was kept busy writing his name on cards, says the New York Times. Among those who requested the young musician's autograph was Marcus Braun, the president of the Austro-Hungarian Republican club. But instead of handing Kubelik a card on which to write his name Mr. Braun handed him a check from his checkbook. It was a blank check on the Secrush to the roof and to the wind ws to ond National bank. Kubelik took it and filled it out as follows:

It is possible that these officers, being on the retired list and therefore a little off the main line of discipline, may not be called to account, provided they recognize the lesson of recent events nd have the prudence to keep their own unsel hereafter; but if they do anyning further to keep alive the naval controversy they will hear from the presi dent with a message which will make their ears ring. He is resolved, at any ost, to stamp out this scandal.

The dismissal of Maclay and the repri mand to Miles are conspicuous parts of his program. He has no purpose of takother, and any officer who reopens the squabble in Sampson's behalf will suffer as prompt and exemplary punishment as he who champions Schley's

Certain members of congress are wailing over what they call the president's "gag" policy as applied to them. In order to save them from mortification he has allowed his purpose to be con reyed to them of throttling summarily as far as lies in his power, any attempt to fan the quarrel into fresh activity by legislation. In plain terms, they know now that if they insist upon dragging him into it by the passage of an act which glorifies one party to the mplied disparagement of the other, they must be backed by a two-thirds vote for he will put his veto on the measure and leave them to test their strength in an effort to pass it again over his statenent of the reasons for his disapproval.

The claim of Edgar Staunton Maclay that he is protected from summary dis missal by the civil service rule requir ing that charges be made in writing and that the accused be given three days to answer, is not regarded as of serious consequence here. The offence for which he will be dismissed has already Secretary Long; and his dismissal could be treated simply as postponed. All the secretary would have to do

Three Firemen Injured

Rochester, Dec. 26 .- A fire of mysterious origin was discovered yesterday in the J. S. Graham Machine company's large factory. The plant, known to the firemen as the most dangerous factory in the city, was totally destroyed, entailing a loss of about $100,-000. The machinery in the upped floors fell, crushing out the west wall. Three firemen were caught and injured.

the birthday of William McKinley a presents from a Christmas tree. national holiday fails to consider that no man's birthday and no other day there was the usual Christmas service are legal holidays by national enact- with elaborate music. ment. The birthday of Abraham Lincoln is not a holiday in Washington over which congress has jurisdiction. Legal holidays so far have been establised by the states, to which the matter seems to belong, and the practice of the states is by no means uniform. Washington's birthday comes nearest to being universally observed, but it is not a legal holiday in Mississippi, while Lincoln's birthday is a legal holiday in but a few states. The birthdays of Jefferson Davis and Robert Lee are celebated as legal holidays in few southern states. So far as can be seen, no very good purpose has been subserved as yet by making a holiday of any man's birthday, for in most cases the respect paid to that idea of the day is only scant. In fact, the Tonight growing tendency to note the birthday of Abraham Lincoln seems to be quite apart from any reference to its status as a legal holiday, and to have special significance for that reason.—New Bed- Hood's Pills ford Standard.

ut there is another and a more danus enemy to be reckoned with. sia is the real piece de resistance. ile Count von Kanitz, the Agrarian der, declares that the shaping of rmany's commercial relations with merica will be the most important ask of the next decade, St. Petersurg is looked upon by most Germans most to be feared in the immediate iture. M. de Witte has given a broad nt of what Russia may be expected do in certain contingencies, and Herr hter has reminded his countrymen Russia's ability to strike without rliamentary delay.

The result of raising the grain duties ould almost inevitably be a tariff war with Russia. Germany might retaliate inst the United States, but scarcely inst Russia. Since the conclusion of present German-Russo treaty Geran exports to Russia have more than ubled; hence the interests at stake

In German government circles a still reater danger is thought possible. Rusia without modifying her tariff could trike Germany a terrible blow. She would only have to prevent her peasants from crossing the German frontier in spring and autumn to sow and reap, and Prussia's corn either would never grow or would rot on the stalk.

This is Germany's vulnerable spot. her heel of Achilles. No doubt her eastern land owners regard the low prices of corn as a cruel trial, but the greatest calamity that could befall them would be the cutting off of the supply of la-

Count von Bulow's almost arrogant assertions in the reichstag that Germany will not allow her domestic policy to be dictated by outside influences are patriotic, but they do not divert attention in Germany from the fact that the unusual pressure exerted upon the separate German states by the financial position of the empire is becoming nore and more unfavorable.

Back of the new tariff there is something more than complaisance toward the agrarians. The ambition to become great sea power as well as a great land power and the general restlessness which has been the German temper for some time are luxuries that must be paid for. Germany has been trying to expand in every direction at once, and she has overreached herself.

It is not likely, however, that the new tariff bill, if it ever passes, will leave the reichstag for a year, and in the meantime there will be an opportunity to amend it in the light of the economic situation in Germany and the attitude of foreign countries.

GERMAN TRADE CRISIS. PROPOSED BUILDING RULES

Some Question As to Whether Quincy quires Such Stringent Regulations.

Accompanying the proposed ordinance establishing the office of In spector of Building are 24 pages of rules and regulations for the inspecram from Berlin to the St. Louis tion and construction of buildings. The question has been asked, does the Democrat, is girding herself for city need such stringent regulations? An instalment of the rules without the slight amendments made at the last meeting of the City Council is

SECTION 28 .- BUILDINGS SEPARATED BY BRICK WALLS, ETC.

1. A wooden building to be used as a dwelling, tenement, lodging house or hotel, shall not exceed a height of 45 feet. The external walls of any wooden building shall not be placed at a less distance than 2 feet 6 inches from the line of the lot upon which the building is to be located, unless a brick external wall is substituted for the wooden wall, and of a thickness prescribed for the erection of external walls in brick buildings. Such walls shall be built 24 inches above roof boarding at every part of the roof and shall be covered with metal; but where these walls extend 3 feet above adjoining buildings, parapet walls may be omitted.

2. There shall be a space of 3 feet 6 inches between wooden buildings over one story high already erected, and those that shall be built upon adjoining lots, unless a brick external wall separates them, as prescribed in Article 1 of this section.

3. There shall be a space of 3 feet 6 inches between wooden buildings already erected upon a lot and any wooden building over one story high that shall afterwards be built or moved upon the same lot. If there is to be a less space between them they shall be separated by a brick wall at least 8 inches thick. There shall be a space of 3 feet 6 inches between any wooden building or buildings, over one story high, already erected upon a lot, and any wooden building that shall afterward be erected upon or moved upon the same lot. If there is to be less space between they shall be separated by a brick wall at least 8 inches thick.

4. All additions or alterations that shall be made to buildings already erected shall be subject to the provisions of this section.

SECTION 29.—SILLS, POSTS, ETC.

All wooden buildings and their projections over one story in height, used as dwellings, stores, stables, or for manufacturing purposes, shall have sills not less than 6 x 6 inches, and if over one story and a half high, girths and posts not less than 4 x 6 inches, and if three stories high posts 4 x 8 inches shall be used; posts, girths and sills mortised and tenoned and pinned together, and wherever ledgers are used in dwellings there shall be fire stops cut in tight, of same size as wall studs.

SECTION 30 .- RAFTERS AND PLATES.

1. All dwellings over one story in height shall have plates not less than 4 x 4 inches, or its equivalent, and if over 16 feet in width shall have rafters not less than 2 x 6 inches, set not more than 24 inches on centres.

2. No studding for any part of the outside walls of any building over one story in height shall be less than 2 x 4 inches.

SECTION 31.—GIRDERS, HEADERS, TRIMMERS, ETC.

1. There shall be girders not less than 6 x 8 inches under main partitions, and summers or floor joists doubled or their equivalent, under all cross partitions, in the first floor of all dwellings.

2. Headers and trimmers of all openings over 4 feet in length in first floor of dwellings shall be floor joist doubled, or their equivalent, and in any other floor if deemed necessary by the Inspector.

3. Trusses, etc. All self-supporting walls or partitions above the first floor in any building shall be trussed in a manner approved by the Inspector.

4. Beams carrying main partitions in first floor shall be supported on piers or posts not more than 9 feet apart; trimmers in first floor over 12 feet in length shall be supported by a

5. All buildings shall be braced in each story, and in cross partitions if deemed necessary by the Inspector.

SECTION 32.—FLOORS, ETC.

1. In all dwellings the sizes of floor joists shall be as follows:

| DISTANCE BETWEEN BEARINGS. CLEAR SPAN OF         | SIZE OF JOIST.   | DISTANCE ON CENTRES                                |
| 10 feet. 11 " 12 " 13 " 14 " 16 " 16 " 17 " 18 " | 2x7 inches. 2x7 inches. 2x8 " 2x8 " 2x9 " 2x9 " 2x10 " 2x11 " 2x12 " | 16 inches. 16 " 16 " 16 " 16 " 16 " 16 " 16 " 16 " |

Or of sizes giving their equivalent in strength of floor.

2. The attic floor joists in dwellings can be one inch less in depth than is given in the above table except lengths 12 feet and over may be 2 inches less, and any attic, whether finished or unfinished, to which there is access, that can be used for storage purposes, shall have the same strength.

3. The openings at the floors, whether caused by ledgers or floor joists projecting above sills or girders, shall be stopped by pieces cut in tight; in dwellings where floor joists are supported on ledger planks that portion of the outside wall below the ledger forming a part of the basement walls, there shall be stops two inches thick cut in on top of floor between studding.

SECTION 33.-STRENGTH OF FLOORS.

Floors of dwellings shall be of sufficient strength to bear a weight of 40 pounds per square foot; for schools, 80 pounds per square foot; for churches and public buildings, 120 pounds per square foot; for stores and manufacturies, 100 to 400 pounds per square foot; to which in each case shall be added the weight per square foot of the floor itself.

SECTION 34.—CONSTRUCTION OF CHIMNEYS.

1. All chimneys hereafter erected shall be constructed of hard brick, stone, or other fire-proof, non-conducting materials;

two Gloucester Vessels and Their Crews at the Bottom of the Sea Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 26.-The happiness of the Christmas season in this city was sadly marred by the news of the past week that two of the Gloucester fishing vessels and their crews will never return to port.

The crew list of the schooner Iolanthe was given out last week, which meant the loss of that vessel and her crew of 14 men. Now it is the schooner Eliza H. Parkhurst and crew of 7. This vessel left the Bay of Islands, N. F., on Nov. 24, for this port with a full cargo of salt herring. This makes over four weeks in passage, the distance being usually covered in one week, and it is the belief that she foundered in the gale in the Gulf of St. Lawrence the day after her departure. Lynn, Mass., Dec. 27 .- The strike of the employes of the American Express company in Lynn was settled last night, and afterwards the company was cheered and in return the men received a Christmas present of $5 in gold each. The final act was played in the meeting of the Teamsters' union, when President Mackin of the union reported that the express conpany's agreement to give the men $52 a month for a 10-hour day had not only been signed officially by the company, but had been guaranteed by the board of trade arbitrators.

President Mackin said that it was a good victory, for everything that had been asked for had been conceded. The meeting voted unanimously, to accept the agreement. The three members of the board of trade who have acted it the matter were thanked for their work and then cheered. Before the agreement had been reached a committee of the expressmen had waited upon Local Agent Evans and presented him with a gold signet ring in appreciation of his position during the trouble. The gift of the express company of $10 in gold to all its employes who had been on the payroll for a year was distributed to the men in a modified way, each man receiving $5 in gold for the reason that only about half the men were eligible for the $10 gift.

THE REBUKE TO MILES

Said to Have Been Provoked by General Himself

WAS IN TOO GREAT A HURRY

President Would Have Seen Him In Private, but He Insisted Upon an Immediate Interview-Will Say or Do Nothing to Continue Controversy

Washington, Dec. 27 .- So many exaggerations have crept into print and club conversation regarding the interview in which he president is said to have rebuked Ge eral Miles in the presence of a room full of visitors that it is just as well that the actual facts should be set before the public.

General Miles visited the White House on Saturday afternoon, evidently with a view of heading off, by a personal appeal to the president, his impending reprimand. He was ushered into the anteroom, where a number of other visitors were gathered, including senators, representatives and executive officers of the government. When the president entered and began making eye the group of men present, and as Miles advanced toward him, waved his hand toward the door of the cabinet room and said: "In a moment, general; I will see you in there."

Ordinary visitors accept this as a compliment, it being the president's habit to direct them toward the cabinet room if he wishes to see them in private, and there was nothing in his manner toward the general to indicate that he was not as well pleased with the latter's visit as with any of the others of the afternoon. Ignoring the suggestion, however, the general pushed kimself forward and insisted on detaining the president and having his interview then and there.

president, but with no indication of impatience he led the general aside and they had a few whispered words, which appeared to be argument, and in the course of which both voices grew louder and more distinct. The discussion ended with an expression of dissatisfaction from the president with the general's errand and a declaration that he wished to hear no more of it. This is assumed to have applied to the Schley controversy, which the president is bound to choke off without mercy as far as concerns the services directly under his command.

Good Afternoon.

Dr. Johnson is entitled to much credit for his promptness in connection with the cases of smallpox at Wollaston. His suspicion being aroused, he promptly visited the house and saw the patients long enough to assure himself of the nature of the illness and at once situation to the Board of Health.

The discovery of smallpox among employes of a laundry naturally causes some alarm. It seems as though the disease could not have broken out in a worse place. Undoutedly it came from soiled clothes sent to the laundry. I the cleansing process through which the clothes pass prevents the spread through the clothes themselves, th danger is not so great, but whether this is a fact we are not informed. The course of the proprietor of the laundry in withholding from the Board of Health the nature of the sickness in his household and at the same time attending to his business, is something which may demand further attention The only excuse is a belief that the disease was varioloid, which is no classed by the Quincy Board of Health as a contagious disease. The rules of the Board, however, place the duty of reporting contagious diseases upon physicians, and in the case at Wollas ton no physician was called in.

Drift of Opinion.

The sum total of human happiness, produced through the agency of the Salvation Army and Volunteers of America, Christmas, the greater part of which would not have been experienced but for their splendid exertions, would fill a large page in the ledger of good deeds. Too much praise cannot be bestowed on their humanitarian efforts.-Lynn Item.

The higher a man's rank the less excuse there is for him under such circumstances .-Waltham Free Press.

Worcester wants a new charter, so does Taunton, and so does Brockton. It is quite likely that nine out of ten Massachusetts cities are in the same boat, and equally probable that not one out of the ten can get a satisfactory charter under the present requirements for revision. Why not make common cause in the coming session of the legislature and secure the framing of a uniform charter for the cities of the state, which shall be submitted for adoption in each city at the next state election-Haverhill Gazette.

There is many a neglected bit of battered humanity that may be compared to an old freight car. Such human relics of a now departed but once illustrous age of activity and service are all about us. Many are the burdens such souls have carried in their day, many are the useful ministries they performed for their fellows, many are headache, heartburn and what not the errands of social service on which they have run. Never conspicuous persons, they were yet "ever faithful." Their duties were alway humble and pelled to go on the siding in order to get out of the way of the swifter and statelier figures of the time. But Heaven has kept a record of all their moral mileage, and let not earth de spise these sidetracked survivors of an earlier generation. Honor to the old freight cars !- Zion's Herald.

by Capt. Kincaide the Adjutant. The Inspector's comments were, on the whole, complimentary to the zeal of the command, and his criticisms kind. Col. Oakes read from the returns, showing that there were 683 enlisted men on the rolls, but 66 less than the total permitted by the apportionment. He called attention to the fact that the Inspector had dropped in upon three of the companies unaware, and urged upon company commanders the importance of getting out a full attendance at drill nights. While the Fifth was not so bad in this regard as some other organizations its minimum attendance at drill never having fallen below 32 or 33 in any company, still this should be improved, since there were many which showed a full enrollment of 60 enlisted men and none fell below an enrollment of 50 enlisted men. Col. Oakes stated that two battalion drills had been arranged for the nine local companies in and around Boston. The first drill will be on Jan. 31 and the second on March 7.

The Colonel also said that he was confident that in the event of the request of the Brigade Commander for a camp of his command outside of Framingham next summer the request of the Fifth for a separate regimental camp away from Framingham would be granted. If the brigades should be encamped away from Famingham, then the intervals between regiments in the open would be such as to amount to a separate regimental camp for the #### Christmas Festival.

A rousing good time was given the children of the St. Chrysostom's church Thursday evening, at the Christmas party held in Brasee's ball Wollaston. From 5.30 to 7.00 the little children romped about, played games and had a most jolly time. Ice cream and cake were served to them all during their fun. Those who desired spent a little time dancing.

From seven to eight an entertainment or pantomine show was enjoyed by both young and old. Most of the subjects were from "Mother Goose Melodies." The text accompanying was sung by the following chorus: Miss Margarite Mills, Margarite Sibley, Mildred Maxim, Jessie Fowler, Christine Fowler, Mary Bates, Eloise Flood, Robert Sibley, Anna Whitacre, Otto Whitacre, Victor Fowler, Willie Weston, Adrian and Dorothy Miller and Nancy Brown.

The different pantomines were: Little Miss Muffett, Little Bo-Peep, Jack Spratt, When I Was a Bachelor. Ride a Cock Horse, See Saw Marjorie Daw, Old King Cole and Lord Ullen's

Daughter. After the entertainment dancing was indulged in by the young people, until eleven o'clock. Ice cream and cake was for sale during the evening. Music was furnished by Sprague's orchestra.

PROPOSED BUILDING RULES

The Journal reports a very interest- Some Question As to Whether Quincy Requires Such Stringent Regulations.

Accompanying the proposed ordinance establishing the office of In spector of Building are 24 pages of rules and regulations for the inspection and construction of buildings. The question has been asked, does the city need such stringent regulations? An instalment of the rules without Dress Gloves. the slight amendments made at the last meeting of the City Council is Working Gloves, printed below :

SECTION 40.—SMOKE-PIPES OF FURNACES, ETC.

The smoke-pipe of any hot air, steam, hot water, or other furnace or stove, passing beneath wooden beams or ceilings, shall be kept at least 24 inches therefrom, or the wood-work shall be protected by a tin shield suspended at least 2 inches below any wood-work; if the beam or ceiling is plastered and protected by a tin shield suspended two inches below the plastering, the pipe may then be kept not less than 6 inches from

SECTION 41 .- FURNACES, How SET.

Tops of furnaces set in brick shall be covered with brick so as to be perfectly tight, and shall be at least 6 inches below. . and the tops of portable furnaces at least 12 inches below any wood-work, or the wood shall be protected by a tin shield suspended at least two inches below the wood-work.

SECTION 42.—HOT AIR PIPES, ETC.

No wood-work shall be placed at a less distance than 1 inch from any tin or metal flue or pipe, used or intended to be used to convey heated air, unless such flue or pipe be cased with metal or asbestos paper or other fire proof material, or the woodwork tinned. Openings in breasts, partitions or floors, through which furnace pipes pass, shall have fire stops of sheet iron, tin or masonry.

SECTIN 43.—STEAM PIPES.

Steam pipes shall be kept at least one inch from all wood work, and where they pass through wood shall be protected by an incombustible ring or tube, or rest on iron supports.

SECTION 44.—REGISTERS, How SET.

Registers connected with hot air furnaces shall be set in incombustible borders, at least two inches wide. Register boxes shall be made of tin plate, with a flange on top to fit a groove in the border.

SECTION 45 .- ASH DEPOSITORIES.

1. Depositories for ashes in the interior of any building shall be constructed of incombustible materials, so as to entirely enclose their contents.

2. Ash shoots, if inside of a building, shall be made of hard brick; if erected outside the building, they shall be constructed of galvanized iron, of not less than 16 gauge, well riveted at the joints, and where put up in sections shall be strongly wired together by means of loops riveted to pipes, and such pipe shall be kept one and one-half inches away from all

3. Notice in Case of Unsafe Chimneys, etc. If any chimney, flue or heating apparatus shall, in the opinion of the Inspector of Buildings, be unsafe by reason of endangering the premises by fire or otherwise, he shall at once notify in writing the owner, agent or other party having an interest in said premises, who upon receiving said notice shall make the same safe, in pursuance of the terms of said notice.

SECTION 46.—BOILER HOUSES, BOILER ROOMS, ETC.

1. Boiler houses, and boiler rooms in establishments where inflammable materials are used, or where shavings or other highly inflammable materials are used for fuel, shall be enclosed in brick, stone, or concrete walls or iron studs filled with concrete. Roofs or floors over such rooms or houses shall be made of iron, brick, stone or concrete arches or slabs; or, if of wood, shall be protected with fire-proof tile, or plastered on iron laths or wire netting, or covered with metal.

2. The ceilings over all other stationary boilers, where there is a space less than 5 feet between ceiling and boiler, shall be plastered on wire netting, or covered with metal, and the doors in all boiler rooms shall be of iron, or of wood covered with metal.

3. The floors of rooms containing stationary boilers shall be made of incombustible material for at least 5 feet in front, and for such distance on the sides and rear as may be required by the Inspector of Buildings. Wooden floors under portable boilers shall have protection of incombustible material.

4. The provisions of this whole section shall apply to buildings already erected if found necessary, and ordered after examination of the premises by the Inspector of Buildings.

SECTION 47.—STAIRCASES AND SCUTTLES.

1. All buildings, if over three stories in height, used for tenement purposes, shall have a staircase from street level to roof, with a scuttle to roof, for at least every three families occupying the building, or front and rear staircases not opening into the the same corridor, or shall be provided with suitable fire-escapes. The Inspector may require that proper fire-stops shall be provided in floors, walls and partitions of such buildings and make such furthur requirements as may be necessary or proper to prevent the spread of fire therein, or its communication from any steam boiler or heating apparatus.

2. All buildings for factory or shop purposes shall have a similar staircase and scuttle if more than ten operatives are employed above the second floor, and suitable fire-escapes shall be

3. Elevators and light shafts, if of wood, shall be lined with sheet-iron or tin, or plastered on metal lathing throughout.

SECTION 48.

No person shall within one hundred feet of any other buildings erect or use any building for a planing mill, wood-working establishment, hotel or public hall, or for any manufacturing or other hazardous business, without first obtaining a permit in writing from the City Council, and no such permit shall be granted until after such notice to owners of adjoining property

SECTION 50 .- APPLICATIONS FOR PERMITS.

1. Every person intending to erect any building, or to raise, move or make any additions or alterations in any building or its foundations, already erected, or hereafter to be built, except necessary repairs not affecting the foundations, external partition or party walls, chimneys, or stairways, shall, file an application for a permit with the Inspector of Buildings, on forms furnished by him, giving a description of the building, or additions, alterations or repairs; and shall submit plans of such work or buildings for examination and approval. The Inspector of Buildings shall report to applicant on all applications for permits within 7 days from the receipt thereof, but if the Inspector shall deem it necessary to establish grade lines other than those stated in the application he shall have 3 days additional time to make a report. 2. No permit issued shall be in force for a longer time than one year from date of permit. 3. No cellar or basement floor of any building shall be constructed below the grade of 13 feet above mean low water, or at a grade that will prevent connections being made with the sewer; provided, however, that the City Council may by license, subject to revocation at any time for sufficient reason of public health, authorize cellar or basement floors to be constructed in buildings, no part of which is to be used as a dwelling, so much below grade as they may designate in such license. 4. The City Engineer shall establish grade lines below which the cellar and basement floor of any building shall be built. 5. The said grade lines shall not be below 13 feet above mean low water, nor shall any grade line be established that will prevent any building from being connected to the sewer. 6. The Inspector of Buildings shall designate, in every permit for the erection of a new building, the lowest grade at which the cellar or basement story of such building may be laid, and the City Engineer shall give the grades for any building, when necessary, and asked for by the Inspector of Buildings.

Undercurrent In Favor of Hanna For President

MISTAKES BY ROOSEVELT

Would Be Selzed Upon by Prominent Party Men, Especially In the South, For a Movement In Favor of Ohioan -Dissatisfaction Over Patronage

Washington, Dec. 27 .- A strong undercurrent of feeling has developed here in favor of Mark Hanna's nomination for the presidency in 1904, should there be any seeming slip made by the Roosevelt administration between now and that time. In fact Mr. Hanna is already the residuary legatee of the mistakes, actual or fancied, of Mr. Roosevelt.

Those persons who go away from the White House disgruntled for any reason by the straightforward methods of the new president, and his rigid insistence upon high ideals of the public service, at once set up the image of Mr. Hanna in their inner temples of reflection. They realize that he symbolizes with the American people the administration of the late President McKinley and that if President Roosevelt's nomination is to be prevented at all, it must be by coujuring a contrast between the smoothness with which the affairs ran under erkiness, in some quarters a least, of the present regime

Those who are dissatisfied with Roose velt realize that this is their only card to play; to turn to Fairbanks, or Spooner or any of the others who might have been regarded as presidential possibilities to succeed McKinley had he lived, would now be fruitless. The Republican nomination in 1904 will go to either Roosevelt or Hanna, provided the two men are then alive; it will go to the former if his administration has been a success, as the politicians and the public reckon success; and to the latter, if for any reason Roosevelt, judged by the same standards, fails,

Hanna is for the renomination of Roosevelt, outwardiy, at least, and is reasonably friendly toward the young man. But should anything happen within the next two years to injure Mr. Roosevelt's prestige, Mr. Hanna would not be the man to refuse a presidential nomination from the Republicans. The south is already in a state of political turmoil; Mr. Roosevelt's insistence upon high character in quarters where the regular Republican organization has no high character is occasioning what amounts to a revolution. The organization men of the far south, party any votes except in national conventions, are so distrustful of the ideals was much better, and it was thought of the young reformer that, as one of could have the entire vote of my country without laying out a dollar; we await only a signal to rush to his sup-

Mr. Roosevelt has dispu are related as merely typical of the la- warning. tent material for a wide-spread Hanna movement on the part of the politicians; with the public the movement would be represented by them as one directed toward the restoration of the McKinley system to the White House, and in the country. This would obviously be effective only in case something ' happened to the Roosevelt administration to make the former one, in popular estimate, seem more attractive. It cannot be denied that Roosevelt is making some enemies among the politicians. The whole dispute concerns patronage. Shall a president merely vise the recommendations of the senators of his own party for the offices in their respective states, or shall he inreach a proper standard of ability and integrity, in case there is a difference of opinion between the president and any senator as to these points? That such differences arise must be apparent to one who reads the list of members of the

LOOKING TOWARD 1894 TO DEFEND HER MOTHER Young Woman Fires a Bullet Into Her Father's Back Somerville, Mass., Dec. 27.-James

R. Dobson is at the Somerville hospital suffering from a shot in the back, and his daughter, Florence Dobson, 22 years of age, is charged with the shooting. Dobson, who is a painter by trade, came home under the influence of liquor and began to attack members of his family. His son, James, 20 years of age, was out of the house at the time, leaving the mother and three daughters-Lottie, Helen and Florence-at home, unprotected. Thinking that her father would murder the mother, Florence hastened to her brother's room and took from the bureau a revolver, with which she fired the shot. The bullet entered the small of the back. Doctors say he has a fair chance of recovery.

Arraigned in the municipal court the daughter peaded not guilty to the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, and her case was continued to Dec. 31. Her bail was fixed at $1000, which was given by Charles F. Watkins of West Somerville. The girl is quite ill from the effects of the unfortunate experience. The young woman bears an excellent reputation.

Ice Companies May Consolidate

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 27.-At a meeting of interested parties last night a consolidation of all the local ice companies was proposed. The idea is to have a new company purchase the other companies before ice harvesting begins, and to establish an artificial ice plant. This would mean than Lynn would be sup plied with artificial instead of natural ice. The new company has options on the late president with perhaps the two companies and has made an offer to the three others.

MAY SUE CROKER Belmont Stirred Up Over Turn of

Affairs In Congressional Fight New York, Dec. 27 .- The factional disagreement among the Dermocrats of the 7th congressional district over the nomination of a candidate for the seat in congress, made vacant by the resignation of Nicholas Mullen, reached the election bureau yesterday. The friends of Joseph O'Grady, represented by Asa B. Gardiner, filed protests against the nomination of Perry Belmont and John E. Bennett. The main objections set forth were of a technical nature and questioned the legality of the nominating conventions. An 'ncident of the contest is a personal quarrel between Richard Croker and Perry Belmont, and the latter has threatened to sue the Tammany leader for libel.

The greater New York Democracy, in convention last night, unanimously nominated Perry Belmont as its representative for the 7th congressional dis-

Perry Belmont last night filed with the board of elections objections to the certificate of nomination filed by O'Grady. The objections are that Belmont is the nominee of the regular convention and that O'Grady is not, in that the convention which nominated O'Grady was not legally called. Argument will be heard on the objections Saturday.

Protests were also filed last night against the certificates of nomination of John E. Bennett and Fritz Lindinger, independent candidates in the 7th dis-

O'Neil Case Dismisseq

New York, Dec. 27.-Justice Holbrook handed down an order in the court of speial sessions yesterday dismissing the charges of oppression brought aganist Deputy Police Commis sioner Devery. The charges were made at the instance of a dismissed patrolman named O'Neil, who alleged that Devery had refused to hear witnesses summoned by O'Neil when he was caled upon to answer a complaint that he (O'Neil) had drawn a revolver without cause in making a daylight arrest.

Washington, Dec. 28.—The gathering of German warships in the vicinity of Nenezuela, and the presence in the same locality of many American, British, French and other foreign warships, is directing attention to imminence of the naval demonstration Germany is about to make against Venezuela. Thus far the German government has not made known the exact details of her proposed move, the official communications to the United States being confined to an inquiry as to the attitude of this government on the question of a demonstration, in view of the purpose on the part of Germany not to acquire any permanent foothold in Venezuela.

The answer of this government was entirely satisfactory to the German authorities, who, since, have proceeded with the execution of their plans for coercing Venezuela. It is said to be probable that the first move by Germany will be the establishment of a blockade of Venezuelan ports so as to prevent the introduction of food products into Venezuela, and thus starve the besieged into submission.

Venezuela, it is said, is entirely dependent on the outside world for its main ports of Venezuela, probably La Guaira and Maracaibo. In this connection most positive assurances have been given to the United States governdue to Germans, thus disposing of the extra ornament being simply the gold report that there is any ulterior purpose to establish a German coaling station on Venezuelan soil.

On the part of Venezuela it is semiofficially understood that President Castro has made known that he is prepared for any eventuality. There is complete silence, however, as to the defensive measures Venezuela is adopting, but there is no indication that she is laying mines or preparing in any way to resist an occupation of La Guaira or Maracaibo, which are such open ports that they are practically defenseless against such powerful armament as the Germans can bring to bear.

The reliance of Venezuela appears to be on the practical difficulties Germany will encounter. Venezuela herself, it ts asserted, has no need of outside supplies and, while corn is much used, in an emergency there are many other cereals which can be put to use. Moreover, the natives are said to be meat eaters almost exclusively, and to have no need for corn or outside products.

With reference to German occupation of one or more ports, it is thought to be likely that Venezuela will rely on harassing the invaders. The fresh water supply of La Guiara and Maracaibo is drawn from interior streams and lakes, and these are expected to be cut off. The interior of Venezuela is regarded as safe, as it is said that it red, for the cross. would take at least 200,000 German soldiers to make headway through the wild and uneven country against guerilla tactics.

There appears also to be much reli ance on the part of Venezuela in the sentiment and sympathy which can be aroused within the United States when a European invader is actually operating on American soil and Venezuela issues a declaration of war. Venezuela, it is understood, also relies largely on the fact that foreign capital is invested in the large Venezuelan ports and would be the heaviest sufferers from any destruction wrought by the Germans.

places and little Venezuelan capital, it ade, Venezuelans declare, will prove trical connections to the three wires. quite as onerous to American, British and other foreign shipping as it would to the internal interests of Venezuela. and these shipping interests are expected to appeal to their several govern-sides that at the last moment a clash may be averted. The German mirister post, and there is some hope that he may bring about a settlement. The outlook for a cash settlement, however, is rather meagre, since Venezuela's treasury is empty and all of the Venezuelan officials are on half-pay. Another possible means of settlement is prominent Venezuelan official now on foreign service who has been summoned by cable to return to Caracas, probably for the purpose of going on a special mission to Germany.

The presence of the North Atlantic squadron and many other American warships in West Indian waters is the source of much speculation in Germany and Venezuela. The Berlin officials are assured that the presence of American ships has nothing to do with Germany's plans against Venezuela, but at Caracas the presence of American ships in the neighborhood is looked upon with satisfaction and is construed as distinctly significant.

Appetite - How the Confederacy Lost a Recruit-A Scholarly Congressman-Never Forgot His Greek.

[Copyright, 1901, by Champ Clark.] Hon. J. M. Robinson of Indiana once told this story:

"We have a county in Indiana called Posey, and it is not an unusual thing to hear of some awkward thing that happened in Hoop Pole township, in Posey county. But Posey county is one of the richest in the state in soil, culture and institutions of education and libraries. Senator Turpie, who was universally recognized in Washington as well as in Indiana as one of the ablest men who ever graced the senate, told me of an incident that came under his observation, in which an old farmer of Posey county was the chief factor. The old fellow came to Washington to see the sights. He was taken to the house of representatives to see the members legislating and to see the hall, but he took no interest in that. He then was taken to the senate chamber, smaller, but more elegant in its appointments, but he cared nothing for that. Then he was taken to the new public library, the most elegant building in the world, but he saw nothing there to interest him, and he uttered tion for it. Then he was taken to the president's room at the capitol. On the wall hung a picture of George of dollars, the most splendid carpets and furniture, thousands of dollars of fresco on the ceilings and on the walls, and the old leg weary, eye weary farmer seated himself in one of the presi dent's great easy chairs and exclaimed: 'By thunder, boys, this is fine. This makes me think of home!"

Beecher's Mot.

During his long, splendid and turbulent career Henry Ward Beecher said as many fine things as any man that ever lived. Robinson's tale of the Posey county farmer's utterances recalled to every mind one of Beecher's most philosophic mots. On one occasion he declared, "When I see a man who has nothing good to say of the place from which he came, I wonder what mean thing he did there." That is a sentence worth treasuring up in the mem-Collecting Tribute From Candidates.

Lost a Recruit.

Conversation turning on events of the civil war, Mr. Kluttz contributed the following:

"At the beginning of the late unpleasantness between the states Captain (afterward Colonel) Hans Jones was faising a company in my town for the Confederate service. Among others who agreed to volunteer was an honest old German named Rauscher, who had been told that it would be a mere holiday trip, and that they would have a of that outlandish word. In the evening of his life Edward Everett placed his countrymen under lasting obligations to him by delivering all over the land a magnificent lecture on George Washington, the proceeds of which he donated to the Ladies' Washington Memorial association, thereby enabling them to purchase Mount Vernon and save it from the ruthless grasp of the land speculators. #### ROOSEVELT'S SYMPATHY. Expressed For a Rough Rider Who Got No Chance to Fight.

Probably the autograph of President Roosevelt which gives the best insight into his character is that on the back of the discharge papers of Major Dunn, late of Washington, but now on the staff of General Wood in Cuba, says a dispatch from Washington to the Philadelphia Press. Major Dunn belonged to the Roosevelt rough riders and had good fighting stock in him, but he was among the unlucky fellows who got no farther than Florida and whose only fight was with mosquitoes and flies. For these men Colonel Roosevelt was often heard to express the most profound sympathy.

He and young Dunn were good friends, and President Roosevelt entertained the Washington officer often before his departure for Cuba. When it came to signing Dunn's discharge from the volunteer army, the president handled the paper for some time and then expressed with the same pen his profound admiration for a man who performed such a disagreeable task during the Spanish-American war with such credit as did Major Dunn and his sympathy for a fellow who could not fight when fighting was in progress.

He was looking around for a crowbar to strike her dead when she passed quietly up stairs, and the cat came out of retirement and put it down in her notebook that the performance was not yet half over. For ten minutes after being left alone Mr. Bowser walked up and down to recover from his perturbation, and when he had somewhat recovered himself he sat down to his subject again. It was hard to pick up the thread again, but he finally got another verse and smiled blandly as he read it over:

"The moon it was bright And the campfires alight

As John Smith he was led out to die;

His grief none can tell As he took a farewell And wiped a sad tear from his eye."

But after a minute the smile faded. Mr. Bowser remembered that Captain Smith didn't weep when he was led the sake of saving a booby.

All the wearing apparel was intact, with the exception of the rubbers which the girl wore on the night of her disappearance.

With the exception of some slight discoloration of the face, the body was in a state of good preservation and but little decomposed. The body was easily identified as that of Nell Cropsey. The spot where the body was found had been dragged a number of Mexico City, Dec. 28.—The Pantimes since her disappearance but with no result.

Coroner Fearing summoned a jury and called in three physicians to make a thorough and exhaustive autopsy, to learn if there were any signs of violence on the body.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was that the girl "came to her death by being stricken a blow on the left temple and by being drowned in the Pasquotank river. We have not yet investigated nor heard any testimony touching as ! to who inflicted the blow and did the drowning. We are informed that one out. We recommend that investigation as to his or any one else's probable guilt be had by one or more magistrates in Elizabeth City township and that said Wilcox be held to await said investigation."

Great crowds assembled in front of the Academy of Music building where the jury was in session waiting for the verdict as to whether the girl met with foul play or committed suicide.

Anticipating that trouble may be brewing for James Wilcox, the naval reserves have been ordered out to maintain order and peace and to see that no violence is offered Wilcox. The form of the latter was altered somewhat, giving its contents the shape of a resolution rather than a mere recommendation. A new clause was added, whereby the various governments within six months after the adjournment of the conference will send their ratifications of the commerce and reciprocity resolutions 'to the bureau of American republics, if they desire to adhere thereto.

Wayward Woman May Share Riches Port Huron, Mich., Dec. 28.-Maggie Madwick, who is in jail here awaiting trial on a serious charge, received a letter yesterday from her aged husband, Elias Madwick of Walford, Ont., whom she deserted some time ago, stating that he had just fallen heir to $50,-000 in England. He begs her to return to him and go to England with him to claim the amount. He did not know of her arrest and wrote a letter to Chief of Police Petit, asking him to find his wife and telling of the fortune which had come to him. The police will probably release the woman providing she goes direct to her husband.

The average fire doesn't amount to enough to make such speed necessary. - Brockton Enterprise.

If anyone wants to buy a church and run it to suit himself, he will note that the old Methodist edifice at North Dighton will be sold at auction. There are hundreds of men who have often told how churches ought to be managed, and here is a chance for one of them to buy one at a very reasonable figure and go ahead and show just how the thing should be run Such an opportunity as this does not occur often in one's life time and critics ought to fall over each other in the rush to clinch a bargain and show their ability to a waiting and wondering world .-Taunton Gazette.

The danger of neglecting the privilege of voting has been illustrated this year by the vote on the license question in Fitchburg, Woburn and Chelsea. All three cities voted license by narrow majorities-Chelsea by a exajority of 3, Woburn by a majority of 27 and Fitchburg by a majority of 8. There is no doubt that a majority of the voters in all three places are opposed to license and that the stayat-homes are responsible for the result. ne vote is a mighty powerful factor for good at times and it is among the better class of voters we find those most prone to forget or neglect to vote. - Dedham Transcript.

The trading stamp operators are finding that Massachusetts merchants of the better class had their experience with the trading stamp several years ago and are not disposed to jump a second time at the visionary benefits which are to accrue through their use. In some of our cities the trading stamp schemes have been kept out by agreement among the merchants, and in those where they have been allowed to work in, merchants are complaining of the brightest agricultural newsthat they are called upon to pay to the papers published in New England, is trading stamp people sums which are just concluding its eightieth volume. was a snoe maker by trade which he followed up to a few years ago. David answered absently, thinka few paces behind them, an extremely | ing of the waiting stranger outside the tall man, wrapped in a black cloak. As David turned the man's eyes looked fato his with a steady, unflinching gaze. The black robed figure was only a short distance behind him, walking with a long, even stride, without sound, his cloak drawn up to his ears, covering his mouth and chin.

As David looked he shivered; then, turning his head quickly, he walked rapidly on, urging his companion to

"But just now you were calling to me to go slower, and now you want to

"Yes; let us hurry-the heat!" And they passed on, the ardent sun beating on their backs.

As they went forward David turned over in his thoughts the strange sight he had seen behind him, that was behind them now, he felt certain, though not daring to look again, a shiver coursfng the length of his spine at the thought of the muffled figure in that fierce heat. And John-had he also seen it? Did he know what came swiftly, without sound, at their heels? He looked cautiously from the corner of his eye at his friend without turning his head even slightly. John plodded on, his eyes on the ground and his big shoes white with the dust, grumbling at the heat, his face dull and expressionless.

At length they reached the cooler air where the road climbed between the arching trees of the forest, and John halted to rest in the shadow. He was older than his friend and tired more

"Now," thought David, "he will look back and see." And he watched the other's face narrowly.

They sat on the edge of their legs hanging down the bank. John's gaze wandered back down the long stretch over which they had come, and David waited.

But the old man only looked out from the shadow with a half smile of satisfaction that so much of the long journev was over, his simple countenance placid with the thought. "How white the road is!" he said.

"And not many travelers on it," said David in half question, still looking earnestly at his comrade's face.

"Not a creature in sight," answered John quietly. "We have the road to ourselves. Others are not such fools to come out in this sun!"

David, reassured by this, turned slowly and looked back. Just below, by the first tree, in full view, silent, motionless, stood the tall figure, a little nearer than before.

David leaped to his feet and ran along the steep road, stumbling, terrified. John saw nothing, and this creature so close, in plain view. "Hurry, hurry!" he called back and ran on. "What has come to you? Are you crazy?" cried the old man. "One can't pause to rest but you jump and run!" "I-I am not-well. I want to get home," panted David. "We have yet far to go. We must not waste time

"You are sick. Yes, you are pale. Your teeth chatter. We will stop at old Andrew's and get you something. It is this scorehing day."

"Yes, yes, we will stop at old Andrew's. He will cure me. It is not far; only beyond the next turn where the trees end." "And we can take the short way home from there, the path from the back of his house up 'The Rocks.'" Again they walked rapidly onward, the old man full of concern for his friend, the young man looking straight ahead.

At the border of the forest the small brown house stood on the edge of old Andrew's scanty farmland, the poor, half barren land of these mountain farms. Beyond the few fields that stretched up gradually from the back of the house rose abruptly "The Rocks," a high cliff, reaching far along the side of the mountain, sheer, forbidding, its bald face crossed by a rough, narrow pathway. By using this steep way the journey to the cluster of houses above the cliff was made much shorter than by following the gradual, winding ascept of the road.

The two friends turned in at old Andrew's little gate. At the door they a fee of $1,400 for collecting $1,500. were met by the farmer's wife, her sleeves rolled up to the elbows.

When the twilight fell, the young man felt able to go on and was anxious to reach his family, so the two men set out along the path through the rocky fields. As they reached the base of "The Rocks" and began the steep ascent the moon rose.

John led the way, stepping cautiously, calling back to the other to avoid the uncertain footholds.

But David, climbing after, thought of nothing but the somber shape that had waited outside and had followed close across the fields after them and which he felt climbed up and up behind him, step for step.

The broad face of the cliff shone in the moonlight. Here and there along the edge of the path, where there was danger, rude railings had been placed to protect the traveler. These were silvered by the moon. At some places a rock jutting out cast below it a dense shadow amid the sursounding whiteness.

As they climbed David tried to force himself to turn and face the man in the black cloak and question him, his name, his mission, why he followed, gaining steadily step by step, but he lacked courage. hind him, ever nearer. When they reached the railing above, David stopped, with his hand upon it. "Now, your name?"

"Do you not know?" The moonlight fell with tender beauty over the broad valley below, upon the white road, upon the forest trees, upon the small brown house at the foot of the cliff. The black cloak floated about his head, before his eyes, coming between them and the fair picture. A hand fell upon his, grasping the rail-

There was a sharp sound of breaking wood as the rotten timber parted in two, and David fell outward, his struggling feet scraping along the rock. Gilbert Parker Says the British Have Deprived Germany of Possibility of South America.

Some comments on the colonial policy of Great Britain, the Anglo-Boer war and Germany's attitude toward England and the United States made by Gilbert Parker, the well known author and member of parliament, are extremely pertinent, coming, as they do, during the present revival of South African war criticism, in the heat of the "American peril" agitation and after the recent conflicting articles in the British press on the necessity for England's allying herself with Germany against this country or with Russia against Germany, says the New York Commercial Advertiser.

"Your question as to my opinion of our colonial policy is rather difficult to answer," said Mr. Parker to his interviewer, "for an Englishman, even if strongly opposed to England's attitude, would try to defend her position when questioned by a foreigner. Not that I myself want to defend England's stand from patriotism alone, for I am a strong supporter of our present policy.

"What about Germany's attitude toward England just now?" continued Mr. Parker. "Well, it certainly shows the existence of a dangerous element in Europe. Germany is a great empire and is ever growing stronger. Her adverse criticism can benefit neither England nor herself. It is dangerous for England, for no country is enriched grounds that it is too short for the ac by making enemies, and it is dangerous for Germany, for she can be sure of this, that no matter whether the nations of Europe love or hate England excuse for folly, for a sinful, wasted it would be absolutely impossible for the German empire, with all her puissance, to make a coalition against or remind us of the brevity of life that

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning Dec. 29 Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.-Numbering our days.-Ps. xc.

The Ninetieth Psalm was written by Moses. It is the oldest poetical selection in sacred literature. The sublimity of its language and the solemnity mired. In majestic tone it sets forth the eternity of God and, contrasted with it, the frailty of man and the with it, the frailty of man and the brevity of human life. "Before the Son Creating a South African Empire. mountains were brought forth or ere We Block Her Way to Exploiting Thou hadst formed the earth and the world even from everlasting to everlasting Thou art God." This of God, but of man: "Our days are passed away in Thy wrath. We spend our years as a tale that is told. The days of our years are threescore years and ten, and, if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labor and sorrow, for it is soon cut off, and we fly away."

The consciousness of the brevity of life suggested to the psalmist the prayer to God, "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." Well may we all bear in constant remembrance the important fact that life is short and that we may, we should, pray to God to teach us to number our days. Man often fails to appreciate the brevity and uncertainty of life. He lives as if he were always to live amid his present surroundings With God it is different. He is conscious, as we are not, of man's narroy span of life, and we need to pray that He may teach us to number our days to keep properly before us the fact that life here will have an end, and that at no distant day.

The purpose of numbering our days is a practical one-"that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." Many in numbering their days apply their hearts unto folly. Life being short, they reason that it should be wasted on the complishment of great results. "A short life and a gay life" is the motto of many. The brevity of life is made an life. But this is not the idea in the mind of Moses. He would have God we may wisely use our lives. Life being short, there is no time for folly, no time for wastefulness. "You have only a few years to live," said a physician to a hardworking, eminent clergyman "and should cease from your arduous labors." "If that be the case," re all the harder, since I have so little time to do my life work in." Number ing our days, let us be wise. Let us apply our hearts to wisdom. Let us give our lives to service. Let us work soon the night is coming when no man

Prevented Germany From Establishing a Protectorate There-A Unique Figure as First Governor of Gnam, Where He Held Autocratic Sway

Boston, Dec. 28.-Captain Richard P. Leary, U. S. N., died yesterday at the Marine hospital, Chelsea, where he has been ill for two months. The body was taken by last night's train to Annapolis, Md. On arrival at Annapolis the body of Captain Leary will be received with full military honors and escorted to the Naval academy. The funeral, which will be military in character, will be held at the academy. The day has not yet been decided upon. Burial will be in the naval cemetery.

Captain Richard Phillips Leary was born at Baltimore, Nov. 3, 1842, the son of Cornelius L. L. Leary, who represented that city in congress at the outbreak of the Civil war.

Captain Leary was one of the best known officers in service, with a record of almost 42 years' service, having entered the Naval academy as an acting midshipman prior to the Civil war.

He was graduated in 1860, and three years later was promoted to ensign. From 1863 to 1865 he was attached to the boackading squadron off Chares-

Up to the Spanish-American war he served on the European, North Atlantic and Pacific stations. From 1883 to 1889 he commanded the Adams on that

He was senior officer at Samoa during the revolution in 1888, and but for his timely and plucky defiance of the German officers in command there the islands would have been seized and a German protectorate established.

During the Spanish-American war, Captain Leary was engaged in blockade service, in command of the San Francisco, Commodore Howell's flagship, having previously commanded the ram Katahdin. No one in the navy had any faith in this craft, and few officers or men cared for service on her. Asked what would be done with the old ship if an enemy's vessel was met, Captain Leary grimly replied that he would order "Four bells!" (go ahead, full steam) and then say his prayers.

Early in 1899, while serving as a naval inspector at Boston, he was appointed governor of the Island of Guam and entered upon the duties of this post with characteristic vigor.

The conditions called for an autocrat. and an autocrat Leary became. And Leary found plenty to do at Guam. He was priest, doctor, judge, and emperor in that little isle. He found the natives gentle, slothful, dirty, and living in a state of Arcadian simplicity. which did not call for clothes for the body or the blessings of the church or state on affairs matrimonial. The innocent islanders explained to the astonished governor that their fathers and family know of no reason for the act. mothers did the same way, but Captain Leary said those days were past, and made the men and women who were living together march up in droves and get married, at the same time issuing a ruling that no more of these promiscuous unions should take place. He also made the men and women put on

Leary found slavery an institution of the island, and this he abolished. The sanitary knowledge of the Guamites he found nil, and he enforced throughout the island certain health laws which have vastly decreased the rate of mortality. He imported hens from America and gave them to the islanders, and they have flourished amazingly, and now add to the wealth and diet of the inhabitants. In some mysterious way be cured the islanders of drunkenness made them pay their debts, an obligation which had been loosely regarded imminent between the state and federal in the past; even persuaded them to come forward cheerfully and pay their

He maintained discipline in his slender garrison with some severity and threatened to enforce his road-building and house-cleaning edicts by shootings and hangings, which were averted by prompt obedience. All this made our first governor of Guam picturesque.

This is merely the technical record of a long naval service, which in its pleturesqueness rivalled that of any Decatur of the old navy, and which was unique in this day of steel ships and breech-loading guns. ### A PICTURESQUE CAREER TIEUP OF COAL DEALERS

May Result From Refusal to Comply With Teamsters' Demands

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 28-The board of trade arbitration committee met Messrs. Sprague and Stevens, representing the Lynn coal dealers, George L. Crane of the Lynn Central Labor union and Agent Nelson of the Team Drivers' union last night to see if some settlement of the coal teamsters' troubles could not be arranged. The latter demand $13 per week for screeners and drivers of single horse wagons; $14 for drivers of two-horse wagons; $15 for three-horse drivers; a nine-hour day, with 40 cents an hour for overtime.

The coal dealers were willing to concede the $13 and $14 provisions, but refused to allow the other demands. At the conference last night they made a still further concession of the $15 a week for three-horse teams; but beyond that the situation remained the same at te conclusion of the meeting as at the beginning.

The matter will be reported to the Team Drivers' union tomorrow for final action, but at present the indications point to the probability of a strike Should one result, it would affect ":60 men and tie up 13 coal dealers in this

Employers Inclined to Resist

Boston, Dec. 28.-Nothing has transpired to materially change the outlook regarding the threatened strike of the teamsters of this city next Wednesday, and as yet the master teamsters show a disposition, as a whole, to resist the demands of their men. The teamsters believe that many of their employers will grant their demands before the time limit expires, but seem firm in their determination to strike in case they refuse to do so.

KING OF SIAM.

Siamese king "would be pleased to visit America in the near future," and Mr. King's formal and official letter, in which he communicated this fact, asserted that the visit of his majesty undoubtedly would add to the intimate and cordial relations now existing between the two countries.

Far more entertaining, however, than this formal communication was a lengthy epistle, marked "confidential," but which also had been transmitted to the senate. In this letter Minister King set forth some facts about the royal ruler's proposed visit which were not referred to in his other docu-

Minister King took occasion to recall, in the first place, that while his majesty was on a tour through Europe "some circumstances occurred which gave rise to much newspaper comment and no end of misunderstanding." While these circumstances are not specifically mentioned, it will be remembered that they were of a nature that did furnish lively talk in the newspapers. It is against a repetition of this comment and a misrepresentation, says Minister King, that his royal highness

BORDER CONTENTIONS

Between the United States and Great Britain

COMING UP FOR SETTLEMENT

Have Long Existed and Created More or Less Friction, but Pauncefote Is Anxious For a Clean Slate Before His Term as Ambassador Closes

Washington, Dec. 30.—It is expected that efforts will be renewed before long for the settlement of the numerous controversies which have long existed between the United States and Great Britain growing out of relations along the Canadian border, the Atlantic fisheries, warships on the great lakes, the Alaskan boundary and other questions. Heretofore the negotiations designed to secure a settlement of the matters recited have not proved effective, largely because of the cumbersome ministry of negotiations, and this has led to a belief that much that could be accomplished by direct negotiations between Secretary Hay and Lord Pauncefote on the main points and the subsequent assembling of a commission representing the United States, Great Britain and Canada to give form to the basis of agreement rendered. British apthorities have expected that when the isthmian canal treaty was once disposed of there would be a renewel of efforts to adjust the Alaskan boundary and other questions, the canal treaty being regarded as one of

Now that the British government has yielded the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and her points in the isthmian negotiation desires to take up some of the other questions in which they have important terests involved. Lord Pauncefote desires to clear up all pending differences and have "a clean slate" be fore his present term as ambassador comes to a close. When he came a Washington there was four great issues between the two governments. The first of these was the Bering sea controversy, which had reached an acute stage. Diplomacy disposed of this is-Buy Your King Arthur Flour at Our Store.

sue. The second issue was over Venezuela, which, like the seal question, at one time threatened war. But the efforts of diplomacy were again sucessful in averting trouble and bringing about a settlement. The third im portant issue was on the isthmian canal, which has been satisfactorily disposed of by the recent Hay-Pauncefote treaty. This leaves only one issue remaining in order to bring about "a clean slate," namely, the border controversy, both as to Canada and Alaska. The British officials usually link these various boundary controversies together, as they are more or less connected. At present a modus vivendi exists as to the Alaska boundary, chiefly for the purpose of avoiding a clash and holding each side in check until a final boundary is determined upon. It seems to be concoled on both sides that the modus can not be carried on indefinitely, and that sooner or later the main question of establishing a permanent boundary must be settled. Lord Lansdowne's desire to take up the question was expressed clearly in his note to Secretary Hay last spring, when the British government declined to accept the senate amendment to the first Hay-Pauncefote treaty. Recently Lord Lansdowne again has expressed in speeches the need of taking up the Alaskan boundary question. Just what steps will be adopted are not disclosed, but it seems likely that direct negotiation and the subsequent assembling of a commission will commend itself to the parties concerned as the most feasible procedure. The border issues, outside of that relating to Alaska, are those which long have existed and have created more or less friction.

The reciprocity question, which is among those formerly considered, is not likely to be taken up in this connection, as Canada desires to make it the subject of separate negotiation. The Atlantic fisheries question also may be the subject of separate nego-

Shot Father and Mother

Paducah, Ky., Dec. 30.-In a drunken fury William Boles, Jr., shot and killed his father and probably fatally wounded his mother at Irvine Depot. He was arrested and the jail is heavily guarded to prevent a threatened lynching. The crime was the result of a reprimand from the father for disobedience of his wishes.

Liberals Won't Have Rosebery's Aid London, Dec. 30.—The Daily News, a Liberal organ, today admits that Lord Rosebery has declined to act with the Liberal party, and, although the paper regrets his voluntary severance from this party, it thinks it well that the air has been cleared and that Campbell-Bannerman is more firmly installed in HER CREW MISSING

Captain Bearse and crew of the Nausett station were promptly on the scene and in the darkness being unable to discover that the vessel was abandoned, fired two shot lines over her. When daylight came it was seen that there was no one on board. The vessel's bowsprit was gone with everything attached, which is evidence of a collision and a basty abandonment of the vessel by her crew. Her fore, main and mizzen sails were hoisted. Carousal, Fight and Fire

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 30 .-- Mr. and Mrs. Boyle had been entertaining a visitor at their home, 193 Hassard street. A quarrel arose between husoand and wife, in the course of which a large lamp was overturned, setting fire to the house. Neighbors heard the cry of fire and turned in an alarm and also rescued an infant from its perilous situation, the parents being in no condition to realize its danger. During the excitement, Mrs. Boyle jumped from the window to the ground, a distance of nearly 40 feet, and sustained painful injuries. The fire was soon extinguished and the whole party locked up for

Parents Fear Foul Play

Wakefield, Mass., Dec. 30 .- Arthur W. Magee, 14 years old, has been missing from his home for about 10 weeks and his parents believe that he has been a victim of foul play. He is described as being 5 feet, 2 inches in height, has large brown eyes and dark hair. His parents are prostrated and have at last asked the public to assist them in the search for their boy.

Prohibited From Saying Mass Holyoke, Mass., Dec. 30.-Rev. A. Ratowski, who has been assisting Rev. A. M. Sikorski at the Polish church in this city, has been refused the privilege of saying mass further at the church, inder direction of Bishop Beaven of Springfield, who has learned that Rakowski had been sent away from a dioeese in Prussia on account of a scandal.

Tumbled Over Embankment Boston, Dec. 30.-In answering an alarm for a slight fire Saturday night, engine No. 13, a three-horse hitch, ran into a board fence on Washington street and fell over a 12-foot embankment. Driver Kelley and Engineer McNerney were considerably injured. The engine was badly damaged and the horses were more or less bruised.

Assaulted With a Stone Fall River, Mass., Dec. 30 .- While on his way home from a saloon late Saturday night, James Dawsaut, 30 years old, was waylaid and rendered partially unconscious by being struck in the back of the head with a stone. Officers arrested Angelo Osnato, 28 years old, for causing the assault.

Head Crushed by Machinery

Westerly, R. I., Dec. 30.-George Howland, aged 15, died from injuries received in the spinning room of the William Clark Thread company while cleaning machinery when it was in motion. His head was terribly crushed between a mule and beam, and he died shortly after the accident.

Coal Teamsters' Strike Averted Lynn, Mass., Dec. 30 .- At a meeting of the Teamsters' union yesterday the proposition of the Coal Dealers' association for a new scale of wages was discussed at length, and it was finally decided to accept it. Charlemont, Mass., Dec. 30.-Henry M. Warner, 61 years of age, and a former deputy sheriff, was the victim of a fearful and probably fatal assault about midnight Saturday night, and Edward Smith, a negro, employed by Warner for many years, is locked up in Greenfield to await the result of the wounds which it is claimed he inflicted.

The affair took place in Mr. Warner's back kitchen and in striving to separate the men Mrs. Warner was also knocked down and badly bruised. She managed to regain her feet and with two other women who were in the house, ran shricking in a driving snowstorm to the nearest neighbors.

Three or four men responded and on eaching the house found Smith walkng the porch with a flatiron in his and, while in the kitchen was the unonscious form of his employer.

Doctors were hastily summoned and heir examination showed that Mr. Warner's skull was so badly fractured that the brain was exposed. In addition he had a wound on the right temple, while the lower jaw was fearfully shattered, only two teeth remaining, Smith was subsequently taken into suctody and removed to the county jail at

There are two versions of the affair, one by Mrs. Warner and the other by Smith

Mrs. Warner says that Smith came ome late and failing to get in at the back door came round to the one on the side of the house, which Mr. Warner getting out of bed, unlocked for him On coming into the kitchen there were some words and then Smith sprung at her husband and knocked him down with a chair. She started to interfere and then Smith felled her also with a chair. The negro then snatched up a flatiron and continued his assault on her husband, while she, with her mother and her sister, ran out for help.

Before being taken to Greenfield, Smith said that when he came home Warner swore at him for being out so late and then struck him. Smith said that he defended himself with a chair. and in doing so, knocked him down. This seemed to enrage Warner, and he jumped up and came for him with another chair. This time Smith said he stopped him "for good."

Neither of the men had been drink ing and Smith seems mild and inoffensive. It is said that the negro has shown signs of mental derangement.

All the foregoing deals with questions of expediency, which are the only questions raised in the circular. But there is a question of principle. and that question strangely enough the circular does not touch. The signers, t seems to me instead of raising the juestion of how big the navy should be, should have raised the question of whether there shall be any navy at all. This I do not propose to argue, as until the world moves much farther toward the millennium it is hardly worth while to argue it.

In determining the question what shall be the size of our navy, there are a great many things to be considered some of which I have referred to.

For instance, our world relations have expanded vastly in the last three years n territorial extent, and vastly more in international extent. It has not been an extension upon the continent, but

BUILDING RULES PROPOSED

Some Question As to Whether Quincy quires Such Stringent Regulations.

Accompanying the proposed ordinance establishing the office of Inspector of Building are 24 pages of rules and regulations for the inspection and construction of buildings. The question has been asked, does the city need such stringent regulations? An instalment of the rules without the slight amendments made at the last meeting of the City Council is printed below:

SECTION 51.-INSPECTOR SHALL EXAMINE BUILDINGS TO BE RAISED, ETC.

The Inspector shall examine all buildings under application to raise, enlarge, build upon, move, or alter, and make a record of

SECTION 52.—WHAT ALTERATIONS, ADDITIONS, ETC., ARE SUBJECT TO THIS ORDINANCE.

Any alteration or addition to any building already erected, or hereafter to be built, except necessary repairs not affecting the construction of the external or party walls, chimneys, or stairways, and the rebuilding or repairing of any building which has been partly destroyed by fire, shall be subject to the regulations of this ordinance.

SECTION 53.

The Inspector of Buildings shall designate, in every permit for the erection of a new building, the lowest grade at which the floor of the basement story of said building shall be laid.

SECTION 54.—INSPECTOR TO EXAMINE BUILDINGS BEING ERECTED, REPAIRED, ETC.

The Inspector of Buildings shall examine all buildings in the course of erection, alteration and repair, as often as practicable, and for that purpose shall have the right of entry thereto, and shall make a record of all violations of this ordinance, together with the location of the building where such violations are found, the name of the owner, lessee, occupants, architect and master mechanic, and all other matters relative thereto. And any owner, architect, or builder notified of any violations of this ordinance shall, if required by the Inspector, leave the work open till he shall again inspect the work and declare such violation removed.

SECTION 55.-INSPECTOR TO EXAMINE ALL BUILDINGS RE-PORTED DANGEROUS, ETC.

The Inspector of Buildings shall examine all buildings reported dangerous or unsafe from any cause, and make a record of such examination, including the nature and cause of such condition, with the location of the building, name of owner, lessee and occupant, and for what purpose occupied; and he shall report any building by him deemed dangerous or unsafe to the City Council for their action.

SECTION 56.—CHANGES NECESSARY TO BE MADE, ETC.

1. If any building in process of erection shall, after examination by the Inspector of Buildings, be deemed by him weak, unsafe or dangerous from poor construction, faulty, weak or unfit material, he shall cause to be made such changes in, alterations of or additions to the work and material as he shall consider necessary for safety.

2. No building hereafter erected, altered, added to or repaired, that is to be finished in whole or in part, shall be lathed, plastered or sheathed until the owner or builder shall have notified the Inspector of Buildings to inspect the same, and shall have received from the said Inspector a notice in writing that the building is accepted.

The Inspector of Buildings on receipt of a written notice from the owner or builder, that any building, or the alterations, additions or repairs to any buildings, is ready for inspection, shall within 48 hours inspect the premises, but shall not accept the building until all the requirements of the law, as to the frame, chimneys, firestops, furnace or steam pipes and all other parts of the construction, have been complied with. The Inspector shall also require that all permanent posts, piers or columns required under girders, etc., shall be in place before he accepts the building.

SECTION 57 .- PENALTY FOR VIOLATION.

Whoever violates any of the provisions of the preceding sections and neglects for 48 hours after written notice from the Inspector of Buildings, served upon him personally or posted conspicuously upon the building erected, or in process of erection, alteration or repair, in violation of said provisions, to alter said building in conformity with the provisions of this chapter, shall be liable to a penalty of not less than twenty nor more than fifty dollars, and to a like penalty for every day's continuance of such violation.

SECTION 58. - APPLICATIONS FOR LINES AND GRADES.

No person shall proceed to erect or make alterations in the location or grade of any fence, wall, or building, which is to abut upon any public street, lane, square, or alley, without first applying to the Commissioner of Public Works for the lines and grade of the street, lane, square, or alley, upon which he intends to build. Such application shall be made in writing, at least 7 days before the work is begun, and the Commissioner of Public Works shall, within said time, furnish the required lines and grades without charge, if in his power so to do. In default of such application, such person shall be held to have waived all claim to damages resulting from such default.

Section 59.—BAY WINDOWS, AND OTHER PROJECTIONS.

No building already erected or hereafter to be built, shall have any bay window or other projection built upon or added to it that will encroach upon the limits of the street, lane, square, or alley upon which said building abuts, without first obtaining a permit in writing from the City Council; and no such permit shall be granted until after such notice to owners of adjoining property as the City Council shall order, and after a hearing pursuant to such notice.

SECTION 60.—ENCROACHMENTS UPON STREET LIMITS.

Whenever the City Council ascertain that any structure placed in violation of the preceding sections, encroaches upon the limits of the street, lane, square, or alley upon which said structure abuts, they shall forthwith issue an order to the party offending, directing that the structure be removed within time therein specified, and in case of non-compliance the City Council shall cause the incumbrance to be removed at the expense of the delinquent.

SECTION 61.-VAULTS AND COAL HOLES.

No coal hole or coal slide, vault or bulkhead shall be constructed in or under any sidewalk without a permit in writing from the Commissioner of Public Works, and in such a manner as he shall

SECTION 62.—PENALTY FOR VIOLATION.

Whoever violates the provisions of either of the four preceding sections shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty dollars.

Harvey Bruce Tells of the Killing of Hallenbeck

FOUR HAD A HAND IN CRIME

Three Were Nephews of the Wealthy Farmer, Who Held a Mortgage on Their Home and Had Foreclosed It and Evicted Them

Hudson, N. Y., Dec. 30.-A sensational episode to one of the most sensational nurders ever committed in New York state has culminated in the confession of Harvey Bruce, aged 21, in the form of statement to his mother and aunt. The statement is witnessed by Mayor Manila, Dec. 30.-General Chaffee, Harvey and County Treasurer Macy when questioned yesterday concerning and tells how the murder of Peter A. the alleged friction between the civil Hallenbeck, the wealthy farmer of and military authorities in the Philip-Greenport, was committed by himself and Willis, Burton and Fred Van Wormer, brothers, aged 20, 23 and 26, nephews of the murdered man.

fect harmony prevailed between the two authorities. General Chaffee said The confession shows that the pris oners, who all lived in Kinderhook, 18 miles from the Hallenbeck home, rode on Christmas eve to the scene of the crime, tied their horse to the barn of personal opinion. He said his relations the victim, walked to the rear of the house in the bright moonlight, rapped on the door and when the old man opened it, shot him to death, firing 13 that every time the slightest friction had shots, 11 penetrating the body. arisen in the provinces between the two authorities he had invariably ordered crime was witnessed by Hallenbeck's wife and old mother, the other memthe military to surrender to the civil bers of the family attending Christmas eve services.

The Van Wormer family lived until last fall in a house in Greenport, mortgaged to Hallenbeck. The boys being indolent and troublesome, the mortgage was foreclosed and the family evicted. This is the basis of the ill-will held against the victim. The shots were heard by the neighbors who saw the fleeing men, and, after investigating, gave the alarm. Suspicion soon rested on the Van Wormers. Christmas day they were arrested vith Bruce at Kinderhook. nother and friends tried hard by testinony before the coroner to establish an alibi, declaring the boys were at home by 9 o'clock Christmas eve. The offiials had strong evidence against them. The horse which they drove had a peculiar shoe with a short cork, the same impression being in the soft earth at the loaded with inflammable ornaments barn where the horse was tied up. The vagon wheels measured exactly the same as the tracks in the snow leading from the Hallenbeck house. One foot print was by feet wearing a "bull dog" shoe, another by shoes having steel heel plates, and the shoes of the pris oners when arrested had those characteristics and fitted the snow prints exactly. The bullets in the body were 32 and 38 calibre, which were the same as revolvers found in the prisoners' home. They purchased masks from a notion dealer at Kinderhook the afterioon of the murder and the men who did the shooting wore masks. Four revolvers were found in the boys' home. The first knowledge of something unless his bowels move once each day. # HANNA'S CONCESSIONS

A PRESIDENTIAL TURNDOWN

ndicating That Foraker's Wishes Must Be Consulted In Making Recommendations - Bailey of Texas Says Gorman Can Beat Hill In 1904

Columbus, O., Dec. 31.-Senator Ianna may win a nominal victory in he contest between Senator Foraker and himself over the organization of the legislature which will be fought out ere this week, but he has already made concessions that prove that he is no onger the power in Republican politics n Ohio that he was when President McKinley lived. Some of the positions involved have distinction, and many of them have salaries worth working for, but the real stakes in the game are the supremacy in Republican politics which has been held by Senator Hanna up to

The first notice that President Roose velt would not attach special importance to Senator Hanna's recommendations, on the ground that he was the national chairman of the party, came to him in the president's answer to a request for the appointment of former Congressman Weaver to be pension agent for Ohio. The request was made in writing, and the president promptly replied that he would not appoint Weaver or any other man to that position in whose indorsement both senators did not join.

Thus admonished that his power was sliding away from him, the senator ealized that Senator Foraker's friends nad plans well laid to organize the new legislature, and that the success of their plans would be generally accepted in Washington and throughout the nation as his displacement as the head of the party in Ohio by Senator Foraker.

Though the fight for organization of the legislature is a bitter one, it is not at all likely that it will involve the senatorship, and Senator Foraker, who was indorsed for return to the senate, vote on Jan. 14

Why Bailey Favors Gorman Houston, Tex., Dec. 31.-Senator J.

W. Bailey has declared unequivocally against Mr. Hill as the Democratic is the only man who can certainly defeat David B. Hill in the convention. Hill's friends are at work all over the country in the interest of his nomination, and I think it would be a fatal mistake for our party to take as its candidate in 1904 a man who did not support the candidates in 1896."

CURABLE AT ALL STAGES Positive Declaration by a French

Washington, Dec. 31 .- Our consul at Lyons, France, has transmitted to the state department a translation of the report of a French parliamentary commission on the causes, curability and prevalence of tuberculosis in general and in France in particular, where 150,-000 deaths from the disease occur an-

the breath of the consumptive nor the air which he expels transmits the disease. It is the spittle, dried and reduced to dust, which is generally the agent of contagion. This dry spittle clings to the walls, furniture and floor of the patient's room for months and even years, but sunlight in a few hours destroys the bacilli.

Alcohol, according to the report, makes the best bed for tuberculosis. The departments of France which are the greatest centres for tuberculosis are almost always those in which the consumption of alcohol is highest. The report declares that consumption is curable at all stages, Dr. Darfberg is quoted as saying: "During the last 10 years I have cured a number of consumptives, who have resumed their occupations, married and had healthy ehildren. I myself am the consumptive that I know the best whom I have cured. I am, therefore, able to say that consumption is curable." Pure air, such as is found in seashore and on high mountains, is the best remedy for consumption, but the remedial process is long and must be continuous.

Buried With Soldier's Honors

Camden, N. J., Dec. 31.-The last re spects to United States Senator William J. Sewall were paid today when Camden's distinguished citizen was laid to rest with full military honors. Public offices and many business places were closed at noon. The public was permitted to view the body from 9 until 11 this morning. Religious services were held at the late senator's house, and were conducted by Bishop Scarborough and Rev. R. A. Rodrick, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, of which General Sewell was a vestryman. The nilitary escort was under the command of Brigadier General Cooper of the New Jersey National guard. The active pallbearers were eight sergeants of the National guard. Major General Brooke was in command of the federal troops.

Maso Demonstration Squelched

Havana, Dec. 31.-The return of General Gomez to Havana did not bring forth the big demonstration which had been predicted for the occasion. #### DOVER WEAVERS STRIKE

Whole Cocheco Mill Force May Eecome Involved

REQUEST FOR CONFERENCE

Was Denied by Agent of the Mills on Different Occasions-Business Men Trying to Avert a Strike Which May Make Thousands Idle

Dover, N. H., Dec. 31.-Claiming that they have been paid less than other workmen employed in the same class of goods elsewhere, and being unable to obtain a conference with Agent Fish. 200 weavers of the Cocheco cotton mills, here, struck yesterday. As the strikers have the sanction of their national organization, it is feared that the entire mill force of the city, numbering from 3500 to 3800, will become involved, if a settlement is not speedily reached.

The striking weavers are those who operated the looms in mills Nos. 1 and 5, and who for the past few weeks have been making flannelette, a product new to the Cocheco corporation. The weavers claim that the price fixed for these goods was 13 1-4 cents a cut, although it is maintained that the price paid in other mills for the same work is from 16 to 18 cents a cut.

Agent Fish of the Coheco mills, in an interview said: "Early in the month I received notice through the overseer that a committee of the weavers had been appointed to wait upon me with reference to the amount being paid for a certain grade of cloth called 'N. N. As this was an entirely new work on which they had just started. I felt that the weavers were not in a position then to tell just how much they could make on it. For this reason it did not seem essential that I should have a conference with this committee." The Weavers' union had a large meeting at their hall last evening, and the strike situation was discussed at considerable length. The weavers who are engaged on other grades of work wholly endorsed the action of those on strike and expressed themselves as being in sympathy with them. While it is generally expressed that the members of the Weavers' union are ready to go out in a body and have a general strike at the Cocheco mills, it was voted that all those who are not already on strike should go to work today as usual, pending definite action tonight. It is generally believed that if Agent Fish continues to refuse to make any concessions that there will be a complete tie-up of the Coheco company. After the meeting last evening there came a telegram from the officers to the secretary of the local union, but as the neeting had broken up and many of the members had gone home the secretary refused to read it or make its contents known to any one. The secretary seemed to be well pleased with the telegram and it is thought by many that it advised a general strike.

The business people in general speak against the methods of Agent Fish in the matter brought to his attention before the strike took place. It is claimed that the weavers on Dec. 2 asked Mr. Fish for a conference and that on Dec. 13 Secretary Hibbard wrote a letter to Mr. Fish, but no notice was taken of either communication. The weavers also say that another letter was written on Dec. 20, when Agent Fish replied: "I will see my help when and how it suits me." The business men of this city are using every effort to avert a strike of the entire weaving force of the Cocheco mills and also to assist in the settlement

Weavers Want Concessions Clinton, Mass., Dec. 31.-For the past few months the weavers at some of the Lancaster mills have been complaining that they have been unable to make more than $5 or $6 a week on a grade of goods known as the 2-47, a narrow cloth shirting of cheap grade. The weavers of the Cameron street mill appointed a committee yesterday to confer with Agent Richardson. It is expected that the matter will satisfactorily adjusted, and that a strike will be averted.

Straw Trimmers' Grievances

Milford, Mass., Dec. 31.-Sixty-five women employed in the trimming room of the factory of Carroll, Hixon & Jones, manufacturers of straw goods, went out on strike yesterday. They claim that they are receiving less wages than formerly and that their work is much more difficult.

Neither Side Will Yield

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 31 .- Another fruitless conference, arranged by outside parties, was held last night between President Clark of the Scranton Railway company and a committee of the ttriking employes. The company would offer nothing except what it has offered all along, namely: That it would take back such of the old men as it needed, er about 56 percent of those still on strike, the company to exercise its discretion in selecting the men to be re-Instated. 'The strikers' committee would accept nothing less, its members stated, this is not attended to, disorders of the stomach than the reinstatement of all the strikarise, biliousness, headache, dyspepsia and piles ers in a body as a union, at an advance the proceedings.

The reason why the order for the new schoolhouse in Ward Two was not passed by the City Council of 1901. which has now adjourned, was be cause the City Council thought that the finding of the Board was the strongest Council. appropriation of $55,000 could not be made without exceeding the debt limit in the inaugura' address of Mayor Hall and that he petition the General Court last January, the debt limit for 1901 for relief. Adopted. was $492,146.25. The city entered the year with a municipal debt of $380, 905.61, so that there was a leeway of over $110,060.00. During the year City Treasurer Gray has paid off maturing municipal debt to the amount of $68,605.61, requiring a tax of over $3 per $1000 of valuation, and another tax of over $1 per $1000 for interest. But the large payment has not reduced the debt and the leeway of $110,000 plu the debt payment was not sufficient to meet the desires of the Council of 1901.

The future City Councils will fine themselves more restricted than in the past, and many believe it will be a good thing, as it may prove a check t extravagance which has been rampant 1902 will not fall due until after Jun-30, but the increased valuation of 190 over 1898 will advance the debt limit nearly $30,000 so that it will be possible to squeeze in the schoolhouse early in the year 1902. Other large Co. for a location of one pole on West appropriations in 1902, including the enlargement of the High school, may have to wait.

But one bouquet was thrown at the each. final meeting of the City Council, a vote of thanks being extended to President Bryant. Clerk Spear did not get the usual endorsement, but was recently voted an increase in salary which is more to the point perhaps. But how about City Auditor Sidelinger and City Messenger Tirrell, the other officers of the City Council?

The postmaster general denies that any ruling has been made that only subscriptions to newspapers and periodicals which are paid in advance are legitimate, which denial is supposed to set at rest the minds of some publishers. It would not be strange, however, if a majority of publishers would welcome just such a ruling as that, as a supplement to their own unsuccessful efforts to establish a strict rule of advance payment for subscriptions. If all papers were served alike and the decree of the postoffice department added to that of the publisher there would not be a loss of legitimate subscriptions, and there would be a reference to the next Council on the give the time to the office he should. ceipts. - Haverhill Gazette.

At present the kingdoms of Wurtemberg and Bavaria are the only states of the German confederation which have their own special postage stamps. It has long been the desire of the German emperor to have uniformity in this respect. Quite recently the Reichsanzeiger announced that after April 1, 1902, Wurtemberg will cease to issue its stamps, and will use those now in use in Germany generally. Bavaria has been approached on the subject but the Bavarians will not listen to the proposal to give up their own stamps.

"I am a general, sir," replied one of the group as he half rose and bowed. "Yes? Ah! Glad to see you, general," continued the little man as he advanced and shook hands, "Now, then, have we any colonels present?"

"I am a colonel," replied three men in chorus as they followed the general's example.

"Ha! Glad to see you, colonels-very glad," said the little man as he extended a hand to each in succession. "Let's see! Have we a judge among us here this evening?"

"We have," replied two of the four

"So glad to see you, judges-so glad! Shake hands. Beautiful evening, this! I presume you two other gentlemen bear the respective titles of major and professor? "We do," said the pair of us.

"Ah! Glad to know it-awfully glad! Major and professor, shake hands. Might have a little more rain, but we can't find much fault with this "And who are you, if you please?" asked the general.

Germany Hopes to Collect Venezuelan Claims

Not Contemplated, According to Assurances Given the United States-Germans Anxious to Remain on the Most Friendly Terms With Us

Berlin, Dec. 31.-The German foreign office authorizes The Associated Press to announce there is no truth whatever n the dispatches from Caracas saying that the German minister has left the Venezuelan capital after a heated exchange of words with President Castro. The German charge d'affaires, Herr Von Pilgrim-Baltazzi, is still at his post, and is continuing negotiations with President Castro. There has not been any question of breaking off diplomatic relations with Venezuela. The German minister to Venezuela,

Dr. O. Schmidt-Leda, who has been on a vacation here, is now on his way to Caracas. The foreign office again solemnly reiterates the statement that it does not contemplate territorial acquisitions in Venezuela. Replying to Germany's assurance to the United States regarding the former's foreign office here has received an anfull satisfaction with Germany's position. Germany still hopes to collect her claims peaceably.

The Tageblatt prints a double leaded able dispatch from Washington setting forth that the principal military and naval authorities there consider that war between the United States and Germany, sooner or later, is inevitable. United States Ambassador White yesterday informed the German newspaper men who called at the embassy that the reports of the possibility of war between the United States and Germany were the "thinnest kind of sensational nonsense." Not one of the authorities referred to in The Tageblatt's dispatch, he added, would, under any circumstances, disclose such an opinion, least of all when the relations between the two countries are so good

"Moreover," said Mr. White, "Presi dent Roosevelt, the commander-in-chief of both the army and navy, it is well that the devil is worse than the string and navy, it is wenter a good is worse than the string she does not only official, but personal predilections for Germany. girl. She does not cry those who talk personal predictions which have been made known, not only officially to the German government but which have long been known "But, mother, won't hit 'pends 'pon among his friends. The small German cruiser Gazelle was yesterday ordered to sail immediately from Kiel to Venezuelan to reinforce the present German squadron in the Carribean sea.

The additions to Germany's naval force in the Carribean will not be sufcient to give rise to suspicions among the people of the United States that Germany meditates anything beyond the collection of claims due German subjects. The German government desires, beyond anything else in this matter, to avoid disturbing the government or the people of the United States.

German newspapers are full of expressions of this kind and many of these expressions are so much alike that it is easy to infer their utterance was suggested by the government. A remarkable thing is the fact that there is not a single unkind expression towards the United States in any of this newspaper comment. Even the dispatches from Washington to a New York newspaper, to the effect that persons of importance in the war and navy departments consider war between Germany and the United States to be inevitable, and which has been reproduced everywhere throughout Germany, is discussed coolly and for the most part, treated with incredulity.

"We hope that this opinion," says The Berliner Neueste Nachrichten, "which grew out of the Spanish war and which we consider to be wholly erroneous, will soon give place to a more correct conception of Germany's aims. It is quite unreasonable that the people in the United States holding such opinion, should connect this opinion with the Venezulan affair, insomuch as Washington has been fully informed of Germany's intentions."

The Lokal Anzeiger says: "The task for our diplomacy is to make German interests prevail against Venezuela without at the same time losing touch with the American government. The authorities at Washington have up to the present time shown such intelligent comprehension of the situation and friendly disposition toward Germany's wishes, that no grounds for ap#### prehension exist at this point."

As Viewed In London London, Dec. 31 .- Most of the morning papers comment upon the gravity They are generally agreed that Germany is not anxious to provoke complications and will be careful not to ruffle American susceptibilities.

CHARGE OF MURDER Will Be Preferred Against Smith,

Because of Warner's Death Charlemont, Mass., Dec. 31.-Henry Warner, who was brutally assaulted by Edward F. Smith on Saturday night, died last evening. He was unconscious from the time he was found until death relieved him from his suffering. State TERRITORIAL ACQUISITIONS Officer McKay had made arrangements with Deputy Sheriff Haskins to the effect that if Mr. Warner died, the charge against Smith would be changed to that of murder. This will be done.

Smith was arraigned at Greenfield vesterday on the charge of assault and vas held in $5000 for a hearing on Jan.

Mr. Warner was a native of Charlemont and, like his father and grandfather before him, was a prosperous farmer. For 15 years he was a deputy sheriff and for a long time treasurer and active in the management of the Deerfield Valley Agricultural society, in all of which offices he became widely known in this section. He was twice married, three daughters and one son, by the first marriage and a widow

Italian Murdered at Boston Boston, Dec. 31.-The body of Leo Damago, an Italian, 30 years old, with bullet wound in the throat, was found lying in the hallway at 202 Chambers street last night and since the discovery the police have been making every effort to apprehend Michael Carrissi, 25 years old, who, they believe, fired the fatal shot. It is supposed that the shooting took place late in the afternoon, but the body was not discovered until 8 o'clock last night and it was some hours afterwards before it was identified.

Alleged Violations of Law

Brattleboro, Vt., Dec. 31 .- Charging negligence in making returns in connection with alleged violations of the prohibitory law, two indictments were returned by the Addison county grand terney Donoway. The complainant in each case was Rev. George W. Morrow, head of the anti-saloon league. Proceedings also have brought for the disbarment of Mr. Donoway upon the alleged ground of his failure to enforce the prohibitory law.

A Chase For Porkers Charlemont, Mass., Dec. 31.-- A special freight eastbound was run into by a second freight going the same way at first train was taking water at the time. Several freight cars were crushed, but the damage was not serious. The collision allowed many hogs to run loose, and there was a lively chase through the streets of the town to round them up.

Gloucester's Extensive Fisheries

Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 31.-The fishing season which closed today has been very satisfactory to the Gloucester fleet, and of the entire catch this year 160,000,000 pounds of fish was caught and landed by vessels from this port. Of this amount 125,201,541 pounds, valued at $3,100,000, was landed at this port. The Gloucester fishing fleet now constitutes 375 vessels.

How He Has Checked the Automobiling Fad In Washington.

The President's Partiality For It Has Given That Form of Recreation a Boom In the National Cap-Him a Special Mark of Favor.

President Roosevelt has dealt says J. S. Henry, a Washington corispondent of the Philadelphia Presi, death. That is all he can tell, he says. He and Mrs. Roosevelt have made horseback riding the vogue. The horse less carriage has been deserted for the saddle. Few occupants of the White to how she received the wound. The courtship was of athletics, with indulgence in vigorou outdoor exercise, has been the result.

In this change of the fashion and habit of Washington's smart set the Roosevelts have acted their part unconsciously. They have merely brought excitement was produced at city hall by to the White House the customs and the caucus of the Democratic councilhabits of tife they have always prac- men-elect last night which named ticed in their private home. The president seeks outdoor exercise in riding and walking because he is naturally fond of it and because it is absolutely necessary as a tonic and preservative of his splendid health. Two or three hours spent in the open air galloping along country roads and across open commons or trudging on foot through the streets and suburbs enable him to renew his spirits and relieve the oppression of a day's work in his office, where matters of state en- nificent medal, studded with diamonds, gage his attention and politicians annoy him at every turn.

When the weather is fine and the President and Mrs. Roosevelt go out on to the court of inquiry, and said the horseback almost daily. President Roosevelt usually leads in all adventure, and where a stretch of country affords exhibitions of horsemanship he jumps ditches, fences and hurdles in the shape of low bushes, while the rest of the party follow, endeavoring to take every leap of their land pony, are at home in the saddle. It is regarded as a mark of particular favor to be invited to lunch or dine with the president, but those who want to get close to Mr. Roosevelt find their dvantage when invited to accompany him on a horseback ride. A recent appointment in Indiana has brought Senator Beveridge of that state to the front as an influential political factor. The appointment was not in accordance with Senator Fairbanks' judgment, but was insisted upon by Mr. Beveridge. Those who were surprised at the recognition given the young man over his more experienced colleague believe they have found the explanathe Charlemont station yesterday. The tion. Mr. Beveridge is a frequent companion of President Roosevelt on the latter's gallops through the country. A mire and Ohio railroad of an increase mutual love for the horse has brought in the wages of trainmen and switch-these strenuous men together. Mr. Beveridge is so delighted with average about 8 percent and was made his horseback outings with Mr. Roosevelt that he has purchased a new mount and a few days ago brought it around to the White House to exhibit it to the president. The latter instantly brushed business aside and hurried down to the rear of the White House, where the new animal was in charge of a groom. He and the Hoosier senator examined the animal carefully, feeling its limbs, looking at its teeth and eyes and going over it with all the airs of expert horse dealers. The president commended the senator's choice, and that afternoon a gallop over the Virginia hills tested the qualities of the new steed. When they returned, they came up the circular driveway to the front of the White House, and both animals showed the effects of their run. They were steaming in sweat, with flecks of foam on their breast and flanks. The president was in high glee, his hat tilted slightly to one side and to the back and his dress showing some little disorder from the ride. But Senator Beveridge was in perfect trim and could have that moment entered the senate chamber in his riding habit. He wore a shining silk hat, which sat upon his head as straight and exact as though it had been adjusted before a mirror. His black frock coat was closely buttoned, his hands neatly gloved, and when he dismounted at the White House steps there was neither fleck nor flaw in his attire. The knife blade crease of his trousers had not even been broken. President Roosevelt cast an admiring glance at his young companion, whose senatorial dignity and composure had so completely withstood the wild ride over the Virginia
